ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT

FOR THE YEAR 1920

In behalf of the Trustees the following report upon the Massachusetts General Hospital is submitted:

To meet the unprecedented increase in wages and in the price of food and coal, to provide for the pressing needs of the Hospital and to enable it to make the necessary additions and changes in its plant, the Trustees appointed a committee to obtain subscriptions to an endowment fund, and also to increase the general or unrestricted fund. During the year this committee obtained subscriptions of more than $400,000, about one half of which has already been paid. Adding to this the bequests and donations received during the year makes a total of $516,000. The additions and subscriptions to the general fund amounted to $191,000. Capital expenditures, including the loss at all the hospitals of $57,000, amounted to $162,000, leaving the general fund at $231,000, an increase of $30,000 for the year. The increased cost of food and fuel alone amounted to $79,776.97 — the deficit of the year was $57,000, or less than the increases above referred to.

The professional division of the Hospital is made up of eighteen departments or branches, all of which, almost without exception, require more money in order to continue and extend the good work that they are doing. Among these are the following: The Children's Department, the Dermatological Department, the Neurological Department, the Obstetrical Department, the Department of Tropical Medicine, and the Roentgenological or X-Ray Department. In many of these valuable research work is being done. Two of them require special mention. One is the department which has to do with following the patients in their period of convalescence after they have left the hospital. The Executive Committee of the staff of the hospital urged the importance of this work. Acting upon their suggestions, the Trustees appointed a doctor to consider the problems of convalescence. We hope with the assistance of other hospitals and a new convalescent home in Waverley (the present home being entirely inadequate for the purpose) that we shall be able to look after our patients until they have fully recovered, or for so long a time as we can be of assistance to them. The other department is that of industrial diseases. In coöperation with the Harvard Medical School we have assisted various factories in discovering and treating diseases arising out of the work of their employees.

The only change in the Board of Trustees during the year was the election of Robert Homans to succeed Charles P. Greenough, who resigned, much to the regret of the Trustees, after a long and valuable service on the Board.

The McLean Hospital, in addition to the care of its patients, has been able to some extent to resume its scientific investigations. Without materially lowering the standards for admissions it has now more than one quarter of its patients absolutely free.

The three principal objects of the hospital are: First, to give the best possible treatment to its patients that its funds will allow,—the more money we have the more patients we can take care of. Secondly, to train and instruct in the most efficient manner all young men who come to us for preparatory study to become doctors and surgeons, and also properly to train nurses, especially for the care of patients. Thirdly, along with these objects and co-operating therewith, to carry on research work in a manner worthy of the traditions and history of the hospital.

Of all the needs, the most pressing and important today is the building of a hospital for persons of moderate means, where those who are living on small salaries, or whose earnings are not sufficient to enable them to use the Phillips House, may be treated by the best doctors and surgeons. Such a hospital we intend to build, with the assistance of our friends, as soon as we shall be justified in so doing. At present the cost of material and labor renders such a project impracticable.

It should be continually borne in mind that this hospital receives no financial aid from city or state, and we therefore urgently request our many friends to continue to aid us with generous subscriptions, so that we may be enabled to develop its various departments as their work requires.

For further information as to the needs and work of the hospital we refer to the other reports in this volume.

Nathaniel T. Kidder,
John Lowell,
Committee.

Sirs, — In accordance with your instructions, we have made an examination of the books and records of the Massachusetts General Hospital, comprising the records of the General Hospital, McLean Hospital, and of the Treasurer, for the year ending December 31, 1920, for the purpose of verifying the cash transactions and of reporting upon the financial condition at December 31, 1920.

WARREN TRIENNIAL PRIZE

MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL HOSPITAL

THE Warren Triennial Prize was founded by the late Dr. J. Mason Warren in memory of his father, and his will provides that the accumulated interest of the fund shall be awarded every three years to the best dissertation considered worthy of a premium, on some subject in Physiology, Surgery, or Pathological Anatomy; the arbitrators being the General Executive Committee of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Theses submitted for competition for the year 1922 shall be on some special subject in Physiology, Surgery, or Pathology.

Dissertation must be in either the English, French, or German language, and must be typewritten and suitably bound, so as to be easily handled. Work that has been published previously will not be considered in competition. The name of the writer must be enclosed in a sealed envelope, on which must be written a motto corresponding with one on the accompanying dissertation.

Any clew given by the dissertation, or any action on the part of the writer which reveals his name before the award of the prize, will disqualify him from receiving the same.

The amount of the prize for the year 1922 will be $500.

In case no dissertation is considered sufficiently meritorious, no award will be made. Dissertations will be received until April 15, 1922.

A high value will be placed on original work.

FREDERIC A. WASHBURN,
Resident Physician.

DALTON SCHOLARSHIPS

THE income of this fund, amounting to $1,000 annually, is devoted to investigation in the science of medicine. The rules of the Trustees applicable to it are as follows:

ARTICLE 1. Candidates shall be nominated to the Board of Trustees by the General Executive Committee with their recommendations. They shall be either internes of the General Hospital or male graduates of a regular American Medical College.

ARTICLE 2. The nature of the work in medical investigation proposed to be prosecuted by each candidate shall be designated by the candidate.

ARTICLE 3. The Scholarship year shall begin September 15th. Scholars shall work not less than ten hours per week, from the last Wednesday in September to the last Wednesday in June; and if a scholar performs a part only of this prescribed work, he shall be entitled to a proportionate part only of the income.

ARTICLE 4. The results of work of scholars shall appertain to the Hospital, and when made public the name of the scholar shall accompany the publication, but no publication shall be made unless approved by the General Executive Committee.

ARTICLE 5. When the income is insufficient, appointments for the year may be omitted.

ARTICLE 6. Any income not used shall be cumulative and not added to the principal.

ARTICLE 7. Scholars shall be eligible for renomination and reappointment.

Further information may be had by applying to the Resident Physician of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

REPORT OF THE LADIES' VISITING COMMITTEE

The work of the Ladies' Visiting Committee continues very much the same, — in visiting patients in the wards; in a greater effort to give them encouragement when convalescent; by aiding those leaving the hospital; by giving sympathy and help in obtaining some temporary home, or some position for work, or clothes for the family who have suffered while illness has kept father or mother in the hospital. Letters are often received by members of the Committee in grateful appreciation of the help and interest given these convalescents. On these cases the Committee is often working in connection with the Social Service workers.

At the suggestion of the members it was voted this year to spend the money from Mrs. Joslin's legacy in providing magazines and papers in the Out-Patient Department and near the X-ray room, where patients often have to wait a long time. These have given much diversion and have been appreciated. Placards are placed near them, stating that they are not to be taken away.

Much was done for the Christmas festivities by individual members of the Committee, both last year and this winter, especially for the children. New records have been given for the graphophones, and it is now proposed that the records be kept in the Warren Library and those in the wards frequently changed.

The Warren Library is a constantly increasing source of enjoyment to the patients. New books are asked for and are much needed, but money to obtain them is also a need, for the yearly amount from the Hospital Fund is only $50, and books have become very expensive. The boy who has been assisting the Librarian has made himself very useful, especially in repairing the broken bindings of books which otherwise would have had to be given up. The donation for his salary having been exhausted, it has been given this year by the Ladies' Visiting Committee. Miss Louisa Putnam has been a valuable volunteer worker.

The Committee is fortunate in having four new members, who have a great interest in the hospital and are eager to be of service.

J. L. Motley,
Chairman.

REPORT OF THE ADVISORY COMMITTEE ON THE GENERAL HOSPITAL TRAINING SCHOOL

The year 1920 has brought no great events to the Training School. The change to the fifty-two-hour week was made without difficulty and appears to be working extremely well. As a whole, the health of the nurses has been better than last year; perhaps due to the fact that we have had no serious epidemic with which to contend.

The shortage of nurses is a serious question, although we have not suffered so much as other hospitals thus far; yet we could accept a good many more applicants. The question of ward helpers has been considered very seriously, but at present the hospital cannot add to the budget the $9,000 that this would cost.

We were extremely glad of the purchase of the building next to the Nurses' Home, formerly an apartment-house, which we now speak of as the Anderson Street Annex. This has made possible the transfer of the Phillips House nurses from Thayer Building, which now contains only students in the Training School.

The Training School Committee has undertaken the renovating of the living room in Thayer Building, which will add greatly to the comfort of the nurses.

All the training schools of the country are anxiously awaiting the Rockefeller Foundation Report on Nursing Education, as it is strongly felt that this will clear the atmosphere and settle many knotty questions.

A Hospitality Committee has been formed, consisting of two ladies of this Committee, the visitors of the month, two members of the Student Government, and a representative of each class. We hope in this way to come into more friendly and pleasant relationship with the nurses off duty, and perhaps to enlarge the social activities of the students.

The two great desires of the Training School are the increase of its Endowment Fund and a laboratory for the chemistry classes. The nurses have given several entertainments for the Training School Endowment Fund, and the sale in November brought in $1000, so that the total amount now is $10,000. The Alumnae are helping most generously, but we wish that some kind friend would give a substantial lift along the hard, long road to $500,000. The laboratory is much needed, in order that our places of instruction may be closer together; the students are now using the hospital laboratory on sufferance.

In view of the number of requests for information in regard to students who claim to have been affiliated with this hospital at some time or other, and whose names cannot be found on our records, this Committee would urge the public to interest themselves, individually and collectively, and to bring pressure to bear on the legislature in passing the law requiring the registration of nurses, which will certainly be of great benefit to the public.

I cannot close this report without expressing the regret of this Committee at losing Miss Parsons as superintendent of the Training School after ten years of service. Miss Parsons has done much toward raising the standards of scholarship in the School, and she had the respect and affection of all who worked with or for her. We have been fortunate in her successor, Miss Sally Johnson of the Class of 1910, who comes to us from the Albany Hospital and who will, we are confident, fill Miss Parson's place most ably and efficiently.

MARGARET F. MOTLEY,
Secretary of the Ladies' Committee.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE RESIDENT PHYSICIAN OF THE GENERAL HOSPITAL

To the Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital:

Gentlemen, — I submit herewith my thirteenth annual report as Resident Physician of the General Hospital.

The year has not been eventful at the General Hospital. It has been a continual struggle to restore efficiency and at the same time keep our expenses as low as possible, and still accomplish the main items of the hospital's work. We have not yet restored the Physiotherapy Department closed during the war. It is badly needed.

The General Hospital needs a new building to properly house the X-Ray Department, the various forms of physiotherapy, and wards for certain medical and surgical departments which are inadequately provided with beds. A building for patients of moderate means at this hospital would be a great boon to the community. The rich and the poor have access to the best modern hospitals, and have within their reach groups of physicians skilled in the different special branches of medicine and surgery. They can enter hospitals with all the modern laboratories and appliances needed in these days for successful diagnosis and treatment. The great middle class is barred from the general hospital because the physicians and surgeons of the staff give their services to patients unable to pay professional fees. The charges necessary in the Phillips House and the fees of the physicians are too great a burden to be carried by a man earning a small salary. The conclusion is that people of moderate means when ill do not have as good a chance to get well as should be given to them. If some benefactor would give the hospital a building for this purpose, it would enable us to provide low-priced rooms where self-respecting people of small means could come, pay a moderate professional fee, and have their diseases studied and treated under the conditions required by modern medicine.

During the year the Resident Physician's office has lost the services of Dr. Eugene Walker, Second Assistant, who has gone to his home in Hamilton, Bermuda, where he has been appointed Medical Officer of Health. Dr. Charles E. Wells has been appointed to succeed Dr. Walker. Miss Sara E. Parsons resigned her position as Superintendent of Nurses, and Miss Sally Johnson, a graduate of our Training School and recently Superintendent of Nurses at the Albany Hospital, has been appointed to take her place. Miss Parsons' services to the Training School and Hospital have been great, her ideals have been high, and she pushed the School to the front. We appreciate that we met with a loss when she resigned. We believe Miss Johnson will be a worthy successor. Mr. Louis S. Brown, technician in the Pathological Laboratory, died on December 8, 1920. Mr. Brown was a faithful officer of the hospital for twenty-four years. He established for himself a unique reputation for skill in microphotography and in the preparation of pathological material. The hospital owes much to such men as Mr. Brown, who give their lives to its service and whom the hospital is unable to adequately compensate or reward.

The seventy-fourth anniversary of the first use of ether at this Hospital was celebrated on October 18, 1920. The orator was Prof. Alonzo E. Taylor; his subject,—"The Influence of the War upon World Movements in Nutrition."

On April 16, 1920, it was found necessary to raise the rates at the General Hospital. Single room charges were increased from $35 a week to $40; the price of board in the open ward, from $17.50 a week to $21; admission to the Out-Patient Department from 25 cents a visit to 50 cents for adults; children under sixteen years of age are still admitted for 15 cents. Inasmuch as special care has been taken to avoid inflicting hardship upon patients needing the care of this hospital, it is thought that no harm has been done by this increase of charges. The amount of free care and part-pay care given patients is still very much, compared with the income at our disposal for this purpose. Even those patients who pay the full rate of board in the open wards pay only a little more than half of the per capita cost to the hospital.

The Warren Library has been moved to a more commodious room on the first floor of the Bulfinch Building. Its work is increasing in value and importance to the hospital.

In August a second small children's ward was opened in the room formerly used for the Treadwell Library in the Bulfinch Building. It increases the number of general hospital beds by fourteen.

Attention is invited to the following comparative tables of the General Hospital and Out-Patient Department:

* These figures are obtained by taking the amount of money received for board of patients in public wards, and dividing that figure by the full rate of board prevalent at that time. This gives the number of days of paying patients, reckoned as though they were paying full rates. By subtracting this figure from the total of ward patients' days, we get the number of free days. Of the 115,365 patient's days at the General Hospital 48,780 are free.

REPORT OF THE ADMINISTRATOR

To the Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital:

Gentlemen: — Herewith is submitted the report of the Administrator for the year 1920.

During the year the greater part of the deferred maintenance made necessary by the War has been taken care of and many changes in the physical equipment tending to increase efficiency and decrease operating costs have been made.

The sudden and unprecedented rise in labor and materials, particularly in foodstuffs, has been reflected in the operating expenses of the hospital; groceries and provisions alone showing an increase of $61,558.31 for equivalent amounts over last year.

The fuel bill for the year, owing to the increase in price per ton of coal taking place in January, February, March and April, 1920, caused an increase of $18,218.36 in this item alone.

Under special appropriation the new refrigerating plant was installed and the ice boxes practically completed, when the latter were so seriously injured by fire in November as to require entire reconstruction. This is now being done by the insurance company, and it is expected that they will be available for use by February 1.

The installation of oil for use as fuel under three of the boilers in the power house is proceeding rapidly, and completion is expected on this item previous to February 1.

The budget system has been extended, and its advantages in the face of rising costs have been even more apparent than last year.

The physical needs of the hospital are many and varied. Preëminent among these, a few stand out as requiring immediate attention:

First. Some form of fire protection for the basement of Bulfinch Building.

Second. A radical rearrangement and enlargement of the laundry, which is incapable of taking care of the present volume of laundry required by the hospital and the Phillips House.

We are at present spending nearly $1,000 per month in putting laundry out which could be done in the hospital at a small fraction of that expense were proper equipment provided.

Third. Some radical changes in kitchens and serving rooms of the General Hospital, which are now over-taxed by the increase in food and service required since their original layout and installation.

Fourth. It should be borne in mind that the greater part of the installation of boilers from which our heat and power is derived is now twenty-three years old, is obsolete, inefficient and uneconomical, and renewal of at least a part of these boilers should not be deferred more than one year longer for reasons of economy, safety and security of operation.

Respectfully submitted,

PARKER H. KEMBLE, Administrator.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF NURSES TO THE RESIDENT PHYSICIAN

STATISTICAL REPORT — DECEMBER 31, 1920

Census of the School:

Graduate nurses	32
Pupils	168
Probationers	35
Affiliated pupils	19
Post-graduate pupils	7
Total	261

Number of pupil nurses away from the General Hospital on affiliation:

Boston Lying-In Hospital	5
Wesson Maternity Hospital	14
Faulkner Hospital	4
Social Service Department	1
Phillips House	10
School of Public Health Nursing	2
Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary	4

Number of pupil nurses from other hospitals in this school for affiliation:

Children's Hospital	8
Faulkner Hospital	3
Holyoke Hospital	3
McLean Hospital	3
New England Baptist Hospital	2

During 1920:

Graduated	60
Probationers admitted	76
Probationers accepted	65
Probationers dropped or withdrawn	11
Pupils from affiliated schools who have taken course	58
Post-graduates who have taken course	10

Two of the affiliations are new this year: one which this School has with the Faulkner Hospital for obstetrics, and one which the New England Baptist Hospital has with this School. During the summer months the Sturdy Memorial Hospital sends four nurses for a two-months' affiliation. The last pupils from the Army School of Nursing finished their affiliation October 3, 1920. The five-year course offered in affiliation with Simmons College has seventeen students.

The outstanding sign of progress has been the establishing of an eight-hour night duty. This began February 1, — a fifty-two hour a week day duty having been established the previous October.

The vacation period has been lengthened from seven to nine weeks.

Six scholarships of $100 each have been awarded. A larger number of scholarships is needed. It is doubtful if any $100 could earn a more worth while interest than that given to aid a pupil nurse.

The curriculum has been amplified in three directions: first, by the addition of an elementary course in chemistry; second, by strengthening the course in pediatric nursing; and third, by increasing the number of hours in medical nursing.

The outstanding feature of the Alumnae Reunion, held September 9 and 10, was the unveiling of the memorial tablet dedicated to the seven nurses who gave their lives in the World War.

The graduates of the School have increased the Training School Endowment Fund to $10,419.92.

During the year 1920 the event of greatest moment has been the resignation of Miss Parsons. Every graduate of this School has an inexpressible feeling of gratitude to Miss Parsons for her steady upbuilding of the School. Every diploma of the School, whatever its date may be, is of greater value to its holder because of Miss Parsons' vision and foresight, because of her ability to create, and because her ambition for the School knew no limit. While the School regrets the loss of Miss Parsons, it rejoices in her wider opportunity for service, knowing that while rendering this service she will ever be reflecting added credit upon the Massachusetts General Hospital Training School for Nurses.

Respectfully submitted,

SALLY JOHNSON, R. N.
Superintendent of Nurses.

MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL HOSPITAL TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES

General Statement. The circular of information giving a detailed survey of the course of instruction, and of requirements for admission may be obtained upon request. Personal applications may be made between ten and twelve o'clock on Wednesday mornings and at other times by appointment. The length of the course is three years, which includes the preliminary period of four months.

Requirements for Admission. Full high-school education or actual equivalent. There is no arbitrary age limit. Acceptance depends upon education, general health and personal qualifications.

Expense of Course. The tuition fee is $50 and breakage deposit $10. The students will be provided with board, lodging, and laundry throughout the course; also with required text-books. Students will be required to provide uniforms during the preliminary period, but after acceptance their uniforms will be furnished by the Hospital.

Scholarship. Six scholarships of $100 each are awarded annually to students doing satisfactory work and needing financial aid.

Hours of Duty — Vacation. A fifty-two hour week is established for both day and night duty. The annual vacation period is three weeks.

Practical Experience. All students obtain experience in general medical and surgical nursing, obstetrical nursing, and care of sick children; some students obtain experience in orthopedics, eye, ear, nose and throat, and care of skin diseases. There is also experience in operating-room technique, and there are several desirable electives.

Theoretical Instruction. Theory of practical procedures, anatomy and physiology, bacteriology, drugs and solutions, social service, dietetics and cookery, history of nursing and ethics, chemistry, materia medica, first-aid and bandaging, medical and surgical nursing, massage, sanitation, nursing problems, obstetrics, and lectures in special subjects.

The Special Five-Year Course. A special five-year course is offered in affiliation with Simmons College, which entitles the pupil to the degree of B.S. from Simmons College, the diploma of the Massachusetts General Hospital Training School for Nurses, and a certificate of Public Health Nursing. Further information relative to this course may be obtained from the Chairman of the Department of Public Health Nursing, 561 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, Mass.

REPORT OF THE GENERAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

During 1920 the hospital has made progress in understanding itself. The different groups of people working at the institution — trustees, executives, medical staff, house officers, nurses, housekeeping staff, engineering staff — have sometimes been at cross purposes in the past, because each group worked without knowing enough of what the others were doing and feeling.

To avoid this in so large an institution is hard but not impossible. We have attacked the problem this year in three ways:

1. The monthly visits of a committee of the Trustees to the meeting of the General Executive Committee has helped to promote understandings and to increase efficiency.

2. The weekly meetings of the new "Committee on Expediting Hospital Business" bring together a group of the trustees, the Resident Physician, and the Chairman of the General Executive Committee on all matters of general policy. Thus the staff gets a glimpse into the financial condition of the hospital and into the relative claims of different departments, each of which rightly urges its needs for expansion and improvement.

3. Many departments of the hospital now report to the Executive Committee at least once a year. Thus, for example, the chief and several members of the orthopedic clinic staff, of the children's department, of the social service department, of the nurses' training school, present in person to the Executive Committee their achievements, plans and needs, especially the last. The departments which have thus far reported are:

In 1919	In 1920
Nursing Department	Department of X-ray
Skin Department	Department of Social Service
Syphilis Department	Department of Occupational Convalescent Work
Nerve Department	Pathological Laboratory
Orthopedic Department	Chemical Laboratory
Children's Department	Other Scientific Work
Diabetic Department	Out-Patient Department, Surgical
Treadwell Library	Genito-Urinary
	Industrial Clinic
	Consultation Clinic

We have not yet heard from the Warren Library, the Tuberculosis Department, the Infantile Paralysis Clinic, the Nutrition Clinic, the Anaphylactic Clinic (Hay Fever and Asthma), the Cardiac Clinic, the Gastro-Intestinal Clinic, the Out-Patient or House Service in General Medicine or in General Surgery, the Throat Clinic, Dental Clinic or the Emergency Ward.

Merely to get face to face with the people whose work we are supposed to be familiar with, to consider for a time their special need in the presence of its advocate and to explain to him some of the other demands upon the Hospital's resources, is a distinct gain.

Reorganization of the Medical Out-Patient Staff

When the ward work of the hospital was reorganized in 1911 under medical and surgical chiefs with continuous service, we attempted to link up the out-patient clinics with the medical wards so that the out-patient physicians could study ward patients as well as out-patients, and might thus benefit by the prolonged and intimate knowledge of illness which only ward work can give.

This attempt was not successful. In consequence the tasks of the out-patient physicians have been unnecessarily monotonous and burdensome, — not sufficiently relieved by the sense of advancing knowledge, which is the reward rightly desired by conscientious physicians. Without this stimulus it has been always difficult, sometimes impossible to maintain good standards of work in the medical out-patient clinics.

During 1920 we have returned to this attempt to link more closely the work of the visiting (ward) physicians and that of the physicians to out-patients.

Under the plan as accepted by the Trustees, eight visiting or associate physicians are on duty alternate days on the wards and in the medical out-patient clinics where they act as consultants. There they hope to follow the improvement or resist the decline of their own ward patients whom hitherto they have lost sight of after discharge from the wards. With an increased number of out-patient physicians and an additional house officer (whom the reorganization provides) we believe that the physicians will have fewer new patients to examine daily and will thus be able to improve the quality of out-patient work.

Still more important, we believe, than this change of organization, is the appointment of Dr. Paul D. White as Chief of the Medical Out-Patient Service, — a new office. He is to see that the new machinery works or modify it until it does. We believe he will make this out-patient service a greater opportunity for study and research and for thorough clinical work, so that it will be valued and sought alike by patients and by physicians.

Surgical Service

After a service of many years, Dr. Charles L. Scudder resigned February 20, 1920. During his long term he has been a voluminous writer, and his books and articles on various subjects have added much to our surgical knowledge. The hospital loses a valuable worker.

October 15, 1920, Dr. Franklin G. Balch was appointed Chief of the East Surgical Service.

There have been some changes made in the subjects assigned to the staff for special study, and this list has been somewhat narrowed. The same general plan has been continued with benefit to our general sum of knowledge, and to the men engaged in these studies. The subjects are assigned with the understanding that the men are to report the result of their study after a reasonable length of time.

October 15, 1920, Dr. J. Dellinger Barney was appointed Chief of the Genito-Urinary Service.

Since July the fracture cases have had the benefit of closer coöperation with the Orthopedic Department. Dr. Osgood now makes a weekly visit with Dr. D. F. Jones, who has charge of the fractures.

The Department of Occupational Therapy and Convalescent Work

This department has during the year had the service of 28 volunteer occupational aides, including students from the School of Occupational Therapy and from the Tide Over League. Under the head aides,—Miss Hurd, Miss Hayward and Miss Wigglesworth,—these ladies have taught basketry, woodwork, beadwork, weaving, knitting, dolls' furniture work, etc., both as an occupation to convalescent ward patients and in a few instances (by special request of the physicians) to help limber up a stiff joint after a fracture or other disease. Two hundred and seventy-four patients have had some sort of work in the medical, surgical and orthopedic wards. A beginning has also been made of similar work in the skin ward and in the children's ward. The committee in this department has raised the necessary money independently.

The Roentgenological Department

The Roentgenological Department has entered recently into several partnerships for group treatment of disease. The Dermatological Department coöperates in the x-ray treatment of dermatological cases, a Goitre Committee representing medicine, surgery and radiology considers the treatment of all goitre cases and the treatment of malignant disease and blood diseases. Similar arrangements are being made with the Department of Surgery and the Clinical Laboratories.

The Laryngological Department

Two important changes have taken place during the year: the retirement of Dr. Algernon Coolidge as Chief of Service and the amalgamation of the Laryngological Department of the Massachusetts General Hospital with the Laryngological Service of the Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary.

"It will be difficult if not impossible for the hospital to equal the devotion of the retiring chief to his department" (so writes his successor, Dr. H. P. Mosher). "He was continually drafted upon important hospital committees. Distinction characterized everything he said."

The Laryngological Department of the Massachusetts General Hospital now has the use of thirty beds in the Infirmary, through the identity of the house staff in the two institutions.

The Orthopedic Department

Similar linkage of forces is exemplified by the Orthopedic Department in its relation to the Harvard Poliomyelitis Commission (Infantile Paralysis). The Commission refers to us all its adult cases, and those occurring in children who live near this hospital. The Commission gives financial assistance to our clinic. Three hundred and seventy cases are thus under our care, served by four physiotherapeutic assistants, one social worker and a clinical clerk.

In addition to its previously organized sub-clinics (Infantile Paralysis, Spinal Curvature and Posture) a separate weekly clinic for joint diseases was organized in September, 1920.

The Syphilis Department

The tendency to link up our activities with agencies outside the hospital is nowhere better exemplified than in this clinic, which is in close and harmonious contact constantly with the Girls' Parole Department, the Probation Office of the Municipal Court and the State Department of Public Welfare. From the Eye and Ear Infirmary 82 cases of interstitial keratitis (a congenital syphilitic eye disease) have come to our clinic for treatment during the year. Sixty-four of these cases are in children under sixteen. Of the 82 cases, 54 cleared up under treatment and vision was saved.

Students come to this department not only from the Harvard Medical School but from the School for Social Work, the Red Cross Institute and the Interdepartmental Social Hygiene Board.

The Medical Laboratories

From five to eight specially trained investigators have been working essentially full time in this department, five others part time. Under their direction two medical students worked each four months. Four paid technical assistants and three volunteer assistants have completed the staff.

In eight small rooms partitioned off on the ground floor of the old Bulfinch Building, research is carried on in basal metabolism, — the metabolism of infants, the biology of the blood, blood-flow, blood volume and blood gases, the chemistry and bacteriology of pneumonia and of diabetes, the therapeutic use of oxygen in disease; also electrical studies of the muscular twitchings in hysteria, paralysis agitans, ankle clonus, etc.

The work of this department is paid for largely by the Harvard Medical School. Some thousands of dollars' worth of equipment has also been furnished to this laboratory by the Harvard Medical School and by outside friends. This indebtedness of the hospital to the friendly assistance of the Medical School is all the more appreciated because in addition to research a large amount of routine hospital work is done in these laboratories; and both the research and much of the modern methods of care of the patients would cease, and especially the care of our diabetic cases, of our thyroid cases, our asthma and hay fever cases, our pneumonias and blood diseases would not be adequate or up-to-date, but for the assistance given here. In thyroid disease (actual or suspected) approximately six hundred measurements of the rate of tissue activity (metabolism) have been made in 420 patients for diagnostic purposes and for guidance in treatment. This alone takes more than half of one assistant's time, and an hour a day or more on the part of the well-known man in charge.

The Cardiological Laboratory

Established in 1914, the Cardiological Laboratory has suffered for lack of suitable quarters; now at last provided in the Bulfinch Building, close to the other medical laboratories.

Since 1914 there have been taken 4,746 electrical records of the heart's action, — 820 of them during 1920. Prints of these are on file and all prints available.

Organized courses in cardiological work have been given during the year to fifteen physicians, including men from China, Brazil, Winnepeg and other distant points. Numerous publications have come from these laboratories in the past year, many of them representing a great amount of work likely in certain ways to be of continuing importance.

The Social Service Department

The team that works together for alleviation of suffering in our Out-Patient clinics consists of three groups:

1. Doctors and nurses.
2. Social workers.
3. Clinic secretaries.

Doctors and nurses and social workers are somewhat independent of the rest. The doctors and nurses aim for the detection and treatment of disease; the social workers assist them in bringing to light the mental, emotional, occupational, domestic and economic factors, without which no diagnosis and no treatment is effective or humane. Clinic secretaries are put in the clinics to make this complicated machine work smoothly, to assemble its different parts (the right record and the right patient in front of the right doctor at the right time and in the right place), and above all to explain everyone to everyone else concerned. To save weary waiting for anxious patients, to economize each doctor's time and energy by "feeding" him enough work and not too much per minute or hour, to make sure that the doctor understands his patient and the patient understands his doctor, to see that every item is recorded, every prescription and direction comprehended, nothing forgotten or lost, to get speed without hurry and good team work without confusion — all this suggests rather a clinic manager than a clinic secretary. But since the physician is obviously the proper person to lead and manage the clinic, the term "secretary" has been adopted for the task of the young women who volunteer for this work.

Within the year it was decided to put the clinic secretaries (thirty or forty belong to this group) under the supervision of the Social Service Department. This means no merging of the two jobs. They are quite distinct, though in some hospitals they both are shouldered by one set of workers.

Outside Relations

The war enabled us to implant social service work in three of the hospitals of Paris, where a member of this committee saw it flourishing and extending in July, 1920. In Brussels and in Geneva we have also seen our seed take root. At present our department is training workers for China and for France, — workers sent here by the Rockefeller Foundation.

Follow-up of Fractures

The Social Service Department followed fracture cases and has been of assistance.

Even in fracture cases, as with spinal curvature (scoliosis) and with diabetes, the mechanical or chemical problem is often overshadowed by difficulties about the patient's state of mind. His lack of common sense or his discouragement can neutralize all the good effects of splints, braces, diet and medicine. Unless through social service workers we can keep up the courage of our long-time patients and make them fight their disease with sense and persistence, there is little to be accomplished by medicine or surgery. We found this out years ago in our consumptives. It is emphasized afresh this year in our diabetics, fractures and spinal curvatures. It is equally true in the cases of chronic heart disease, skin disease, nerve disease and many others.

The Consultation Clinic

The Consultation Clinic which was discontinued September 28, 1917, was reopened April 2, 1920. This clinic is considered a valuable adjunct of the hospital as it gives the outside physician an opportunity to take advantage of the facilities of a well-equipped hospital and the services of specially trained men. It is a diagnosis clinic only, but a patient of moderate income can here obtain advice for a very small fee which otherwise would be beyond his means.

The Warren Library

Always a great advantage to patients has increased its usefulness by adding a resource for our population not of American birth by the addition of books in various foreign tongues. The number of these is small but it is hoped that others will be sent in as the demand for them becomes known.

REPORT OF THE PATHOLOGICAL LABORATORY

The usual routine, bacteriological, chemical, microscopical, and pathological examinations in connection with the study of diseases of the patients in the hospital, have been carried on as in previous years.

During the year 126 autopsies were performed in the laboratory and the post-mortem appearances recorded. The percentage of autopsies among the deaths occurring in the hospital is 31 per cent as compared with 26.3 per cent in 1919. This continued small proportion of cases in which an autopsy was permitted is to be regretted, for it hampers the progress of medical knowledge among the physicians, surgeons, and students who frequent the hospital, and also lessens the value for medical research of the clinical records of the hospital.

Of microscopical preparations from autopsy material 1,267 have been prepared and filed during the year, as compared with 1,262 in 1919.

Reports rendered for bacteriological examinations for the microörganisms of diphtheria, typhoid fever, and other diseases number 3,065. There were 2,453 in 1919.

For testing various specimens for the presence of tubercle bacilli 211 guinea pigs were used. In 1919 the number was 90.

Reports of gross and microscopical appearances and the pathological diagnosis of 1,787 specimens from the medical and surgical clinics were rendered. From this material 1,873 microscopical preparations were made and filed. The corresponding figures for 1919 were 1,651 and 2,542.

The number of specimens of blood tested for evidence of infection with syphilis is 13,770 as compared with 13,385 in 1919; 258 specimens of blood were also tested for evidence of infection with gonorrhea.

Chemical examinations of specimens to the number of 1,545 were made by the Chemical Laboratory, as against 2,542 in 1919.

Other statistics are:

Complement fixation tests for infection with Tenia echinococcus, 38, as compared with 34 in 1919.

Lange's Colloidal Gold Tests on spinal fluid, 1,375.

The treatment of patients with bacterial vaccines has been continued, and during the year 162 so treated, as compared with 217 in 1919.

The facilities and material offered by the laboratory for the instruction of physicians and students of the Harvard Medical School in bacteriology, pathology, and diagnosis by laboratory methods have continued to be extensively utilized.

The weekly conferences and discussions of clinico-pathological aspects of hospital cases, conducted in the amphitheater of the laboratory before fourth-year students and others, have been continued during the academic year. These exercises have been conducted by Drs. Oscar Richardson, R. C. Cabot, Hugh Cabot, and E. L. Young, Jr. The attendance has been good and much interest has been manifested.

The courses in medicine and pathology for practitioners, given by Drs. W. H. Smith and Oscar Richardson, have been well attended and continue to be highly successful.

The clinico-pathological conference, for the third-year class, on alternate Fridays, has been continued by Drs. R. C. Cabot and J. H. Wright.

The conferences and courses above mentioned are held in the amphitheater of the laboratory. The considerable number of (sometimes about 100) persons attending and the increasing demand for preserved specimens for teaching make space for hanging hats and coats and for storage of specimens desirable. The desired space could be obtained by the removal of the paint-shop from the building.

Instruction in pathology to sections of second-year men and special courses to twenty-seven students of the Harvard Medical School have been given by Dr. J. H. Wright, who has also given some of the lectures at the Harvard Medical School in second-year courses in pathology.

Dr. A. E. Steele has instructed two students in the preparation and use of bacterial vaccines.

The room in the laboratory for students in clinical medicine has continued to be used by them during their courses.

Dr. H. F. Hartwell has given weekly demonstrations in pathological anatomy to fourth-year students, and has continued the collection and preservation of specimens for teaching purposes.

Of special studies carried on during the year the following may be mentioned:

Dr. W. H. Smith has continued his studies of bacteria in pneumonia and endocarditis.

Dr. H. E. Foster has devoted a large part of his time to the study of spinal fluids, with special reference to the gold-sol. reaction.

Dr. J. B. Ayer has worked on special subjects in neuro-pathology.

Dr. J. H. Wright has prepared for publication an article on "The Mycoses" and another on "The Formation of the Blood Corpuscles," for Nelson's Loose Leaf Medicine. He also has worked on methods of demonstrating the microörganisms of syphilis in the tissues.

Dr. W. Denis has resigned her position as Assistant

Chemist, after several years of productive work and research in the Chemical Laboratory.

The death of Mr. Louis S. Brown is a great loss to the laboratory and to the hospital.

During twenty-four years of faithful and efficient services as technician, Mr. Brown acquired special skill in photomicrography. The excellence of the photographs made by him to illustrate publications on bacteriology and pathology by workers in this and other institutions is widely recognized and has importantly contributed to the scientific reputation of the hospital.

Respectfully submitted,

J. Homer Wright, M.D., S.D.,
Pathologist.

ANNUAL REPORT OF TREADWELL LIBRARY, 1920

The Treadwell Library is once more restored to practically normal conditions, and the large amount of back work which has accumulated is being gradually reduced. The year has been a full one, with changes both in personnel and in work. Considerable illness among the clerks on duty has at times caused a serious falling back in work, but at present things are running smoothly and satisfactorily. A pupil was received from St. Thomas's Hospital, Nashville, Tenn., the first of October for three months of intensive training in the care of clinical records.

A routine closely connected with follow-up work was begun July 1, consisting of the immediate sending of a brief account of a patient's clinical history to his own physician, or to another hospital to which he may have been transferred, without waiting for any request for such information to be made. Great satisfaction has been expressed by physicians receiving these letters.

The librarian wishes to express her appreciation and thanks for the continued voluntary assistance rendered by Miss Merkel and by Mrs. N. W. Faxon.

On September 10, a bronze tablet, placed in the library by the Alumnae of the Nurses' Training School in memory of the seven nurses who lost their lives during the late war, was unveiled with appropriate exercises.

Dr. John W. Eliot has presented a portfolio of pathological paintings, which should be most useful for teaching purposes.

Dr. George L. Walton has given forty-two volumes from his own private library, among them some very rare works upon the nervous system, with valuable plates. The library of the late Dr. Abraham Jacobi of New York was left by him to the Medical Library Association to be divided among its members; fourteen volumes of the Harvey Lectures came to us. Collections of reprints, books, and periodicals have been received from Dr. D. L. Edsall, Dr. G. M. Balboni, and Dr. C. H. Bucholz. In addition, gifts of books have been received from:

Dr. F. C. Shattuck
Dr. D. L. Edsall
Dr. R. P. Strong
Dr. Algernon Coolidge
Dr. W. E. Paul
Dr. Lincoln Davis
Dr. G. G. Smith

By a special arrangement offered by Mr. Sears Gallagher and Goodspeed's Bookshop, the beautiful etching of the "Bulfinch Front" by Mr. Gallagher has been on sale here to members of the Hospital Staff, and a commission on each sale handed in to the library funds. Ten etchings have been sold during the year.

The Massachusetts General Hospital is a private institution supported solely by voluntary contributions and the receipts from those patients who pay board.

Only those unable to pay doctors' fees will be admitted.

Emergencies and recent accidents admitted at all hours.

Applications for admission of patients should be made at The Moseley Memorial Building, Fruit Street, at North Grove Street, Boston, on week days between the hours of 9 A.M. and 3 P.M.

Applications from a distance should be made in writing, accompanied by a full description of the case by the attending physician, with his reason for requesting admission; and when a free bed is needed, by a statement of the pecuniary condition of the patient. Always wait for a reply before sending the patient.

Arrangements can be made by telephone for emergency cases or recent accidents, but for these only.

Contagious cases are not admitted to the Hospital, and only such chronic cases as can be partially relieved by temporary treatment.

The regular rate of board to paying patients in all rooms is $40 per week. In the general wards the rate of board to paying patients is $21 per week. There is a surgical dressing fee of $10 to surgical paying patients and a laboratory fee of $5 to medical paying patients. Payment should be made weekly in advance. The surgical dressing fee and the laboratory fee should be paid on admission. The lowest rate of board for patients living outside the Commonwealth of Massachusetts is $21 per week in the open wards.

The Out-Patient Department is for the poor only, and is open from 8.30 to 10 in the morning, Sundays and holidays excepted.

The ambulance will be sent for suitable cases within a radius of twenty miles, if arrangements are made with the Admitting Physician.

PHILLIPS HOUSE. All inquiries concerning the admission of private patients should be made to the Resident Physician, Massachusetts General Hospital.

There is a separate entrance for this department at 265 Charles Street. Telephone service is also separate. All inquiries for private patients should be made through "Haymarket," 4490, and not through the regular hospital exchange.

Ambulance service is provided.

The private ward is for the treatment of general medical and surgical diseases and obstetrical cases. Contagious diseases, cases of alcoholism and drug habit are not admitted.

Patients in the Phillips House may be attended only by members of the staff and alumni of the Hospital.

Italics followed by figures indicate service and date of graduation from hospital as a house officer. Initial letters followed by figures, the whole enclosed in parenthesis, indicate that such alumnus is now on active service on the hospital staff; e. g. (E.M. 1910). Otherwise, the individual is not an M.G.H. alumnus.

McLEAN HOSPITAL

THE ONE HUNDRED AND THIRD REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF THE McLEAN HOSPITAL

To the Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital:

The following report of the McLean Hospital for the year 1920 is respectfully submitted:

One hundred and one patients were admitted, 93 were discharged, and 220 remained in the Hospital at the end of the calendar year. The whole number under treatment was 313. The daily average was 208.69, an increase of .69 over last year. The recoveries were 23.7 per cent of the admissions and 25.8 per cent of the discharges.

Of the 101 admissions, 58 were primarily voluntary patients and 3 became such by signing an application to remain under treatment at the expiration of the legal period for temporary care and observation. Of these 61 voluntary patients, 2 were committed because of a formal request for discharge which could not properly be granted. There remained on this basis at the end of the year 84 persons,—31 men and 53 women,—12 more than last year.

During the year 10 patients were admitted for temporary care (Acts of 1915, chapter 174), 2 less than last year. Of these, 3 made voluntary application to remain at the Hospital and 7 were formally committed.

Of the 101 patients admitted, 15 came from hospitals in Massachusetts and 3 from hospitals in other states. In addition to these 14 were received from the Psychopathic Department of the Boston State Hospital, to which they had been admitted for observation. The statistical tables appearing later in this report are for the year ending September 30, and are in the form suggested by the American Medico-Psychological Association and adopted by the Massachusetts State Commission on Mental Diseases. Forms 1 and 2 are not required of private hospitals and are therefore omitted.

During the year we have complied with the act of the legislature, which requires the Hospital, if it continues to rank as a charitable institution and be exempt from taxation, to take one quarter of its patients free. Such compliance with this law has inflicted hardships upon many members of the community who have needed such care and treatment as the Hospital provides.

Inasmuch as the Hospital has no funds of any consequence and depends for its maintenance largely or almost entirely upon its income from patients, it has necessitated an increase of the rates charged to all paying patients. To most of them it has been a severe burden, and in many cases one which could not be borne, and has compelled their removal to other hospitals. Among these were people of small income, able to pay something and therefore not in a position to be called indigent. In certain cases the friends and relatives of patients who were actually indigent and entitled within the law to free care were opposed to accepting charity beyond their need, and refused to make use of the Hospital when they could not be received at such rates as they could pay. The financial situation has made it necessary that every patient, not counting as a free patient, must pay somewhat more than cost.

The Hospital has always filled a special need in the community, standing as it has between the small private institutions, where the rates are high, and the State hospitals. In it the average representative citizen has found a refuge. Compliance with the above mentioned law has practically closed the Hospital doors to this large and deserving class, since many of them cannot afford the advanced rates necessarily charged to paying patients, and cannot, because they have some small means, or will not, because they have too great pride, consider themselves indigent. It hardly seems possible that the legislature could have intended any such result. Limited as the Hospital is in its income from funds, the law, practically interpreted, says that any patient going to McLean Hospital must either be indigent or be able to pay not only for his own care but also for a portion of that of some other patient.

The medical work of the Hospital has been made difficult by reason of changes and vacancies on the staff. Dr. Ray L. Whitney, Second Assistant Physician, resigned on August 9 to accept the position of First Assistant Physician at the Homewood Sanitarium, Guelph, Ontario. Dr. Freeman A. Tower was appointed his successor and entered the service of the Hospital September 1. Dr. George A. McIver resigned on April 15 to accept the Superintendency of the Bridgeport Connecticut General Hospital. It was impossible to fill his place until October 1, when Dr. James S. Plant took up the duties of Clinical Assistant and Pathologist. Dr. Clarence M. Kelley resigned on October 12 to assume the position of Supervisor of Health in the Schools of Concord, N. H. Dr. Sidney M. Bunker has been appointed his successor and will begin his work at the Hospital on January 1, 1921.

The impossibility of obtaining junior assistants has made necessary the continued use of student assistants. The three men so employed last year — Eli C. Romberg, Raymond D. Stillman, and Clarence H. Sanford — resigned during the summer, the first two to accept positions as internes in general hospitals, and Dr. Sanford to become the Medical and Physical Director at St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H.

In spite of the various difficulties the patients have been well cared for, and the routine laboratory examinations have been made. The women patients have received 4,762 medical baths and the men patients 2,586; the women patients were given 1,253 exercises and treatment with Zander apparatus, and the men 2,156. An average of twelve patients a day were treated in the continuous baths.

The dentist has made a routine examination of the teeth of each patient admitted and his report has been filed with the case history. The necessary and advisable work has been done, in so far as possible. As reported last year, an up-to-date dental equipment is needed.

Although the patients have been well cared for, the ordinary notes and histories well kept up, and the essential laboratory work has been done, the scientific work has been more or less curtailed by reason of the unsettled condition of the staff. The appointment of Dr. Plant, who began service in the Hospital in October, gives us again a clinical assistant, well trained, and capable of reëstablishing and developing the scientific work. He has already outlined plans for the coming year which should be fruitful.

Dr. Otto Folin was appointed chemist to the Hospital on May 28, with provision for an assistant resident chemist, but no suitable person has yet been found to fill the position. There are many important problems awaiting solution and Dr. Folin, by reason of his previous eight years of work in this department, is especially qualified to direct it.

The Department of Pathological Psychology has accomplished somewhat more work than usual. That begun last year on reaction time has been carried to completion and will be the subject of a number of brief reports. Intelligence examinations and Kent-Rosanoff association experiments were carried on as matters of routine, and an amount of material was gathered to justify a special study in the relation of the mental processes reached by these two methods. With the coöperation of Dr. Kelley, routine examinations were extended to cover many other psychomotor functions, for part of which he constructed new pieces of apparatus. These are described in a joint contribution now in the hands of the printer. During the summer Mr. Gardner Murphy of Columbia carried on research work in the laboratory, and collaborated in statistical work. He observed a criterion in the Kent-Rosanoff experiment showing diagnostic significance for manic-depressive and dementia praecox conditions, his report of which is in the hands of the printer.

Mainly through the coöperation of Dr. Kelley the physical organization of the laboratory was much improved during the year. The new apparatus constructed entailed many complications of wiring, which are now recorded in chart form. There is now available equipment for a wide range of research.

Various lines of investigation carried on in the laboratory in recent years have been gradually converging on the problem of "thinking difficulty." The range of measurements it has been possible to apply, notably to certain more critical cases, may serve to clarify this concept in the light of further quantitative facts. It is hoped that the bearing of these studies on experimental psychopathology may be largely summed up in a report in the near future.

Papers were presented during the year as follows:

Dr. Hoch — Diagnostic Difficulties in the Early Stages of Mental Disorders.

Dr. Plant — Application of the Rating System to "Nurses' Notes."

Dr. Wells — The "Clinical Psychologist."

Publications of the year include:

Too much emphasis cannot be laid upon the importance of the maintenance and development of scientific research work if the Hospital is to continue to do its part in the solution of the various problems, which will lead to greater knowledge of mental diseases and consequently better treatment, not only curative but preventive. Such essential work should be carried on regardless of the general financial condition, and it is very desirable that there be established for it a special fund of $200,000.

I regret to report that there has been little or no improvement in the nursing situation. Very few applications have been received although much advertising has been done. Throughout the year it has been necessary in caring for patients to depend on a large number of more or less untrained attendants working under the direction of a small number of graduates, who have been retained only by a considerable increase in salary. During most of the year it was extremely difficult to get even attendants. Since November, however, the situation has much improved.

The arrangement made with the Army Nursing School of the Medical Department of the U. S. Army has proved very advantageous. After the first three months the number in each unit which came was increased from fifteen to twenty. The service rendered by these women has been very satisfactory, and they in turn have seemed well pleased with the training and instruction which they received. It is to be regretted that this arrangement will probably terminate in July, 1921. It is to be hoped that by that time a returning interest in the profession of nursing will lead to an increase in the number of applicants for the Training School.

The usual diversions and various lines of occupational therapy have been successfully carried on during the year with very gratifying results. The income from the Lovering Fund, which by the terms of the bequest was to be expended to promote the comfort and happiness of the patients, has made it possible to do much which the financial condition of the Hospital would not otherwise have warranted. A sprayer for glazing the pottery and a bookbinding outfit were purchased. Also additions were made to the printing equipment, which incidentally has made it possible for the patients to do printing and bookbinding for the Hospital. These useful occupational diversions especially appeal to patients. The income from the fund was further used to purchase a piano and to support and promote various outdoor sports and healthful activities as enumerated in the itemized report. The garage reports a total of 1,556 automobile drives (general and private) furnished patients.

The number of volumes circulated from the general library during the year was 8,769. The number of general periodicals subscribed for was 29. Thirteen volumes of bound periodicals were added to the library, 135 new books, and 12 books, gifts to the Hospital, the total number of books now in the library being 6,585.

The addition of 45 new books to the medical library brings the total up to 4,177. Forty medical periodicals were subscribed for during the year.

The Hospital plant has been well kept up and certain improvements have been made. After many delays the West Cottage, as the new cottage has been designated, was finished and occupied on July 1. The demand for and the satisfactory operation of these cottages for single patients warrant the construction of others. An investigation of the power plant, looking to further economies, has been undertaken and is still in progress. A feed water heater has been ordered and should be set up soon after the first of the year. A new ice machine is being installed and will be in working order within a short time. Much necessary repair work has been done on the roofs and chimneys of various buildings but more must be done during the coming year. The usual painting and small repairs of buildings have been done and the furnishings in general are in fair condition. A considerable amount of money must be spent during the coming year for rugs and carpetings, since now for practically two years no replacements have been made. It will also be necessary to purchase table and bed linen, since the large supply on hand two years ago is exhausted.

The farm has had a very prosperous year, and its credit for products furnished to the Hospital is large. A small attempt has been made to improve the dairy herd by the purchase of a better grade of cows in making the necessary replacements. The pursuance of such a policy ought, in a few years, to materially increase the value and productivity of the herd. By a comparatively small expenditure a piece of meadow land has been drained to make available about twelve acres of the best land on the farm. It was found that by the construction of suitable partitions, at small cost, the cellar of one of the farm buildings could be made to serve as a very good root cellar. This has enabled the Hospital not only to care properly for certain vegetables raised on the farm, but to purchase potatoes and others in quantities at the season they were cheapest.

Plans for rearranging and partially refurnishing the main kitchen have been formulated, and it is estimated that the work can be done for about $4,000, a sum which we hope will be forthcoming, as efficiency of service demands that these changes and improvements be made as soon as possible. In this connection I wish to call your attention again to the desirability of building a new meat refrigerator beside the other refrigerators and conveniently near the receiving door and the chef's cutting room. It is estimated that this will cost about $4,000. The old meat refrigerator would then be available for cold storage, for which the Hospital now pays about $500 a year to storage warehouses in Boston.

The financial report indicates a satisfactory condition of the business affairs of the Hospital. The only large increase in expense was due to the necessary advance in wages. Attention should be called to the fact that there were special expenditures, amounting to about $50,000. These included unusual repairs to buildings, a part of the cost of new boilers and the coal trestle, not paid in the previous year, a new automobile, feed water heater, an ice machine, and special piping work.

The changes in the Hospital Staff during the year were as follows:

Dr. Ray L. Whitney, Second Assistant Physician, resigned August 9.

It will be seen from this table that of the 552 women graduates of the school who are now living, 270 are still in the profession of nursing; and that of the 310 men graduates who are now alive, 145 are still nurses. Fifty-six of the men graduates have become physicians; of these 2 are superintendents of hospitals, 51 are in private practice, and 3 have died. Five women became physicians; of these, 1 is married and has left the profession, 4 are in private practice.

It has still been necessary to employ some women attendants in order that the Hospital might have a sufficient number of persons to care for its patients.

During the year a Post-Graduate Nursing Course in Mental and Nervous Diseases was offered by the Hospital. The Army Nursing School of the Medical Department of the United States Army took advantage of this course and sent nurses in groups for periods of three months. Four such groups were admitted during the year, and a total of 61 pupils were received.

During the year 6 men were admitted from the Mills Training School of the Bellevue Hospital for a post-graduate course of one year.

Frederic H. Packard,
Medical Superintendent.

McLEAN HOSPITAL TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES, WAVERLEY, MASS.

The Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital Corporation established a school for the instruction of nurses at the McLean Hospital in 1882. It gives to men and women desirous of becoming professional nurses a course of training in general nursing, with special reference to the care of cases of nervous and mental disease. The school is conducted by the Superintendent of the Hospital under the authority of the Board of Trustees.

At no time since the school was opened have there been greater demands for nurses, or greater opportunities for success in the practice of their profession. Of late years the public has come to recognize more fully the value of the nurse when there is sickness in the family. The growth of hospitals has been such as to increase the need for nurses in executive and other positions. New and very attractive fields have been opened in industrial establishments and in public health nursing.

Those wishing to take the course of instruction should write to the Superintendent of the McLean Hospital, Waverley, Mass., giving a brief personal history, and also the names and addresses of three responsible persons, not of their own kin, who know of their character and capabilities. If on receipt of this letter it is thought advisable for such prospective candidates to make a formal application, blank forms especially provided for this purpose will be sent to them.

Candidates must be in sound health, and must send with their application a certificate from a physician certifying that fact. They should preferably have had at least one year of high school education or its equivalent, and should not be less than twenty nor more than thirty-five years of age, but exception may be made if education, general health, and personal qualifications warrant it.

On furnishing satisfactory evidence of their probable fitness they will be received for two months on probation. If accepted at the expiration of this time they will sign an agreement to complete the prescribed course. At the end of the first six months the record of each pupil is again carefully scrutinized and the right is reserved to terminate then, or at any other time, the connection of any pupil or nurse with the school and hospital for inefficiency, misconduct, generally unsatisfactory record, or for any other reason which may be deemed sufficient.

The pupils reside in the hospital and are employed as assistant nurses in its wards. Men probationers while on duty will wear ordinary plain clothing. The women wear the uniform prescribed for probationers. After formally joining the school, at the end of the period of probation, both men and women are required to wear the hospital uniform while on duty in the wards.

As compensation for their services, both men and women receive board, lodging, and laundry, instruction in nursing, and a certain amount of money, which for the women is only sufficient to purchase books and uniforms and to defray other absolutely necessary incidental expenses. The men, who for the present do not receive the preliminary instruction given to the women, and whose course of study is shorter, are paid thirty dollars ($30) per month during the first year and thirty-five dollars ($35) per month for the second year. The women receive fifteen dollars ($15) per month throughout the course. Most graduates engage in private nursing or accept positions of trust in other institutions. Some are invited to remain in the service of this hospital, and to such, especially to those who serve as head nurses, there is a material increase in compensation. All graduates of this school receive fifty-five dollars ($55) per month, and those who are also graduates of a general hospital are paid sixty dollars ($60) per month.

All pupils and nurses are allowed one afternoon each week, also four hours on Sundays and holidays. They are also given a two weeks' vacation in each year; and no deduction of time is made for sickness unless it exceeds two weeks in any given year.

On completion of the full term of study nurses who have passed all the required examinations receive diplomas certifying to their period of training, their proficiency, and their good character.

Women graduates of this school who wish to have additional practical experience and instruction in general nursing have the privilege, under certain restrictions, of reëntering the Training School for Nurses at the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. Such graduates will, after ten months' satisfactory study, receive the diploma from that school, in addition to the diploma received from the McLean Hospital Training School.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION

Instruction is given for eight months of the year, from October 1 to June 1, classes beginning October 1 and February 1. It is no disadvantage to enter the school between May and October, since the pupil will get some practical knowledge of the care of patients before taking up the required study.

The course for men differs from that for women. The latter receive less money and are allowed more time for study.

A preliminary course of two months is given to the women, and during this time the pupil is given no more work on the wards than is necessary to put in practice the instruction received. This occupies about three hours daily. Most of the time is devoted to lectures, recitations, demonstrations, and laboratory work. Instruction to both men and women, chiefly by the officers of the hospital, includes courses in anatomy, physiology, hygiene, bacteriology, drugs and materia medica, urinalysis, hydrotherapy, massage, housekeeping, dietetics and cookery, general medical and surgical nursing, obstetrical nursing (to women), and especially nursing of cases of nervous and mental diseases. Affiliations have been made with the Massachusetts General Hospital Training School for Nurses, in Boston, and with the New York Nursery and Child's Hospital, in New York City. At some time during the second year of study the women pupils will be sent to the Massachusetts General Hospital for a period of six months for instruction and experience in general medical and surgical nursing, and after this to New York for an additional six months for obstetrics and the nursing of children. There are written examinations in the middle and at the end of each school year, and pupils must attain on critical marking at least 60 per cent.

Anatomy. Recitations from a text-book on anatomy and physiology are required, and a course of lectures is given on applied anatomy, in which the general plan is to describe the anatomy of the various physiological systems, to refer briefly to their origin and use, to explain the different injuries and diseases to which they are liable, and to describe the treatment and nursing care of these morbid conditions. There is an articulated and a disarticulated skeleton which the pupils can use for study. It is intended that each one shall see a post-mortem examination.

Physiology. In addition to recitations from a textbook, lectures are given on the blood, heart, circulation, vaso-motor system, digestion (mechanical and chemical), absorption, secretion, respiration, animal heat, movement, nervous system, and special senses.

Hygiene. Recitations from a text-book are required, and a course of lectures is given which includes a consideration of water, food, air, ventilation, heating, lighting, sewerage, disinfectants and disinfection, and personal hygiene.

Bacteriology. A text-book is used for recitations, and a course of lectures is given on benign and pathogenic bacteria, methods of cultivation and examination, the relation of pathogenic germs to various medical and surgical diseases, with a consideration of some of the more common of these diseases.

Drugs and Materia Medica. Instruction is given in the dispensary by lectures, demonstrations, and practical work. The pupils are taught to use the prescription balance and the various measures, and are given practice in weighing and folding powders, the different methods of measuring drops, etc. They are taught to make weight-to-volume solutions of various strengths, also percentage solutions such as are used in the operating room or for purposes of disinfection.

Instruction is also given in elementary chemistry and botany, on the drugs in ordinary use, poisons and their antidotes. The course is made a laboratory exercise so far as is possible.

Urinalysis. There are brief lectures on normal and abnormal urines and the diseases in which they occur. These are followed by demonstrations of methods of analysis, and the nurse is taught by actual practice to make different tests. It is principally a laboratory exercise.

Physical Therapeutics. Lectures and demonstrations are given on the various hydrotherapeutic procedures and their effects. The pupils are also given instruction in general massage, the use of apparatus in the gymnasium, and games. They are also taught the use of the Zander apparatus and of electricity. During the two years' course of instruction the nurse has frequent opportunity for the practical application of the knowledge gained in the treatment of patients.

Housekeeping. Instruction is given by the assistant superintendent of nurses, the supervisor, and the head nurses, and consists chiefly in actual demonstrations and practice on the wards of general household duties and of such special duties as are required for the proper care of the patients.

Dietetics and Cookery. Twenty-four exercises of three hours each are given the women each morning for one month, during which a lecture of one hour is followed by two hours of practical work. The men receive twelve exercises of two hours each. The instruction includes a consideration of the purchase of food, utensils, kitchen and dining-room furnishings, dietetics and general cookery, with special reference to the preparation and serving of food for the sick and the convalescent.

During the course meals are prepared and served by the pupils, to illustrate the laying of trays and tables and the duties of the hostess and waitress.

After sufficient practice in the care of the kitchen and dining-room the pupils are taken to the wards to apply their knowledge, and throughout the remainder of their service in the hospital they assist in serving food to the patients, under the supervision of the instructor.

Nursing. The theory of general nursing is taught by text-books, lectures, and demonstrations, and a practical application of the instruction is made so far as the facilities of the Hospital will allow. Much of the ordinary routine work of a nurse is the same for patients treated here as for those in a general hospital, while in the matter of bathing, changing bed and personal clothing, serving food, giving enemata, etc., it is often much more difficult. Practice in general medical and surgical nursing is obtained at the Massachusetts General Hospital for six months during the second year of the course.

The lectures on nursing given during the third year include a description of various diseases, a consideration of methods of prevention, the various remedial measures employed in the treatment of these diseases, and their nursing care.

A special course in obstetrical nursing and in diseases of children is given at the New York Nursery and Child's Hospital in New York City, to which women pupils of the school are sent for six months in the second or third year. The nursing of cases of nervous and mental diseases is taught by recitations, lectures, demonstrations in the wards by the superintendent of nurses, supervisors, and head nurses, and actual practice in the care of the patients of the hospital. Besides this, written reports of individual cases are required and nurses are taught to observe and make daily notes of cases under their care.

Previous to the consideration of insanity, a brief description of the normal mind is given in eight lectures. In order to make it as practical as possible, patients are assigned to each nurse to observe and to report upon verbally as to the condition of the various mental states or faculties while they are under discussion. Lectures are given on the causation, symptoms, treatment, and nursing care of the different forms of mental disease, with special attention to the duties of the nurse.

To better fit the nurses for special work and for the care of convalescents, courses are given in handicrafts.

A Post-Graduate Nursing Course in Mental and Nervous Diseases is now offered by the School. The special training offered in a neuropsychiatric hospital is becoming more and more insisted upon as a part of the equipment of every nurse. Whether in private work or in the industrial, public health, or administrative fields, the nurse may at any time have to meet situations calling for particular skill in the care of nervous and mental disturbances. The object of this course is to qualify the general hospital nurse to meet such requirements. Students are given ward experience in the management of a wide range of mental cases, and courses of instruction leading to intelligent understanding of their care. The courses in mental and nervous diseases consist of lectures and clinics. The work in psychology consists of lectures, demonstrations and practical work in the observation and measurement of mental functions. The chief problems and methods of mental hygiene are discussed. Anatomy, physiology, and pathology of the nervous system are covered in lectures and demonstrations. Demonstrations and practice are given in the use of occupational therapy, hydrotherapy, and massage.

The courses are open to graduates of approved schools and begin on the first of January, April, July, and October.

ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTH ANNUAL REPORT

FOR THE YEAR 1921

The Committee appointed by the Trustees to make the annual report submits the following:

The Charter for the Hospital was enacted in 1811. The first Board of Trustees was elected in 1813. By the Charter the Trustees were authorized to maintain a General Hospital for sick and insane persons, and in Section 3 of the Act of Incorporation reference is made to "all such lunatics and sick persons as may hereafter be chargeable to the Commonwealth."

While the Asylum for the Insane opened in November, 1818, the General Hospital was not opened until 1821, so that the real close of one hundred years of the Hospital was on the 2nd of September, 1921, and we are now entering upon a new century of work. It seems fitting to look back on some of the things accomplished in the past century.

The first patient was admitted to the Massachusetts General Hospital on September 3, 1821, and seventeen days later the second patient entered. From that day down to the present time, the Hospital has gone on and on, constantly extending its sphere of usefulness, and has become a monument to the generosity of the Commonwealth, and especially to those generous-hearted people who have responded to the call of the sick and the needy.

When the appeal was made for the Hospital, the first point on which stress was laid was the fact that very many people died because of the lack of proper care, and the need of a suitable place where such care and attention could be given them. Always, the first regard was for the care of the sick and needy. In addition to that, however, it was pointed out that opportunity for study by those who desired to practice medicine could only be secured by travelling to New York or Philadelphia, as there were no hospitals in this part of the country where practical study could be enjoyed, and, as in those days travelling was difficult and costly, very few could afford to undertake the journey or spend the money for travel and study, which the trip required. Thus, closely connected with the charitable end of the work, there was the practical end, which those far-sighted Trustees undertook to relieve.

With exception of the donation of the Province House, valued at between $30,000 and $40,000, and some cut stone, donated for the erection of the Bulfinch Building, not one dollar has ever been received from the Commonwealth for the relief of the Hospital. In Philadelphia, where the first hospital in the country was established, the deficit for 1920 was $138,052.68, and the bequests and contributions for the year amounted to over $550,000. Benjamin Franklin was one of the founders of the Pennsylvania Hospital in Philadelphia, and a prominent figure in its affairs for over 40 years. The New York Hospital, which recently celebrated the 150th anniversary of the granting of its Charter, had for very many years received from the State appropriations varying from $2,500 to $22,500. These were so received up to 1856, when the large properties owned by the New York Hospital had grown so valuable and brought in such large returns that these appropriations became unnecessary.

In the early days of this Hospital, the founders did not have a path of roses in securing money, but they believed in the work they were doing. They insisted that "no plea arising from the hardship of the times,"

"the embarrassment of affairs," or "the claims of other charities can or ought avail the community," and they called attention to the fact that "there is no man so poor whose mite would not be acceptable and useful." "There are none so rich whose posterity may not in a few years derive benefit from this charity. But we would bribe no man to do his duty. We are all stewards of God's bounty and we are bound and directed to distribute it." The men of that day gave the money, and were it not for the money which they gave, much of the work of the Hospital would have been left undone.

The money received from patients is less than 70 per cent of the amount necessary for the maintenance of the Hospital. Twenty-five per cent of the patients are absolutely free. Between 45 per cent and 50 per cent of the patients are practically free, for they pay much less than the cost of maintenance. So the work of the Hospital is primarily a great charity; and secondly, is the opportunity, of inestimable value, which it offers medical students of the community for the study of diseases at first hand and by observation, which benefits are enjoyed not alone by these students but by the communities which they afterwards serve.

There have been times when it was very difficult to make both ends meet, but that did not deter the men from going ahead and doing the work of the Hospital confident that when the people were called upon they would respond; and so in 1862, when the Trustees reported an excess of expenditure over income for a series of ten years past, they said, "this, of course, would soon exhaust any source of charity not endowed like the widow's cruse." "But without looking for miraculous aid, the Trustees have gone on, boldly expending more than the ordinary income, counting surely upon that spring of benevolence which God has planted in the human heart, and which, by reason of the material blessings He has heaped upon our people, ought to give an abundant yield." It seems like reading the story of the Hospital of today when reading the report of 1863 in which they say, " The rapid rise in the price of the commodities of life, in the cost of lights and fuel, and in nearly every item which goes to make up the sum of our yearly expenditures, without a corresponding increase in receipts, and an ever-growing demand upon the limited funds at our command, have presented an unexpected source of anxiety." These men were not afraid, they knew that when the great heart of New England was appealed to, and its conscience awakened, the money would be forthcoming for all their needs. So must it be with us today. We must believe, just as they believed during that ten-year period, that it needs only to be properly presented to the people to have the money come forth.

During the life of the Hospital, the number of absolutely free patients has ranged from 25 to 50 per cent, and in the late 40's and ever since that time when the distinguishing mark between the "pay" and "free" patients was removed, no one, nurse or doctor, is supposed to know in the Massachusetts General Hospital who pays or who does not, nor is there the slightest difference in the treatment each receives. Nor is any doctor in the General Hospital permitted to receive compensation from any patient, and while this is considered a hardship by some of the men in and out of the profession, the answer is that the proficiency and reputation they acquire through practice in treatment of patients at the Hospital compensate them for any emolument to which they might feel they were entitled. Most people come to the General Hospital not for the sake of saving money—though some people do that—but for the sake of receiving treatment which they know it is simply impossible to get elsewhere.

Forty-seven years ago the Training School for Nurses was established in the Massachusetts General Hospital, and this adjunct of the Hospital has gone on increasing its sphere of usefulness from the beginning until we have now 1,400 graduates, many of whom are occupying positions of responsibility in various parts of the country, where the graduating mark of the Massachusetts General Hospital gives them great prestige. The Massachusetts General Hospital has been very fortunate in the class of nurses it has graduated. They not only take pride in their work and reflect credit on the Hospital Training School, but are anxious to help those who come after them. Already, the nurses have subscribed $14,000 toward the Nurses' Endowment Fund.

The Asylum for the Insane at Somerville, formerly Charlestown, has almost from the beginning retained the full complement of patients. No disease appeals more to the human heart, probably, than that of insanity and its care. There are few people living today who can remember seeing the places where the insane were formerly detained. Previous to the establishment of this Asylum they were put with the indigent poor, and the only method of treatment was that of restraint. This was one of the first asylums for insane to adopt the curative plan, and those who visit the McLean Hospital today, who have seen, or have read of, the old methods of restraint, must be proud of the progress made by the Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital. Here, as at the Massachusetts General Hospital, much has been done for charity, and whereas people who could well afford it have been charged enough to help pay for those of smaller means, still 25 per cent of the patients are absolutely free. The Asylum was established as a curative hospital, and the record will show how many have gone forth wholly or partially cured, and while much study and investigation has been given to curative methods, it would seem that much more might be done in this regard, and more time and money spent on research to learn if some better means could be discovered in order to cure this most dreaded disease. Here, indeed, the visitor to the Asylum wonders how those nurses who care for the patients can do the work so well without becoming deranged themselves. In 1826 in commemoration of the generosity of Mr. John McLean, the Asylum was called "The McLean Asylum for the Insane," and the title was later changed to the McLean Hospital. In 1895 the McLean Hospital was moved to Waverley.

The Centennial of the Hospital was observed by an " Ether Day " celebration. This is one of the glorious memories of the Hospital, for it was here in October, 1846, that Dr. Morton etherized a patient and a surgical operation was performed by Dr. John C. Warren, which was the beginning of the abolition of pain, and the news of the discovery went from that operation throughout the world and opened a new era in surgery. If the Massachusetts General Hospital had done no other work than this, it would have well merited not only the commendation but the generous support of the people of this community. It has been in truth a General Hospital not for Boston alone but for Massachusetts as well. People come from many other States in order to enjoy the benefit of the name and fame of this Institution.

During the Civil War, Drs. Shaw and Tyler were given leave of absence in order to give their services to their country in connection with the United States Sanitary Commission. Although Dr. Luther V. Bell had relinquished his office in charge of the work at the McLean Asylum at Somerville, he immediately, upon the outbreak of the war, tendered his services to Governor Andrew, was later appointed Brigade-Surgeon under General Hooker, and died in the service. But the real contributions in the service were made by the young men who were doing the work of House Officers, and who departed for the front as promptly as they could upon the expiration of their terms in the Hospital—such young men as John G. Park, John Homans, D. H. Hazen, Samuel Langmaid, Z. R. Stone, and George E. Francis, who gave long and faithful service in the war. Nor were the Trustees of that day lacking in zeal for Drs. S. C. Howe and William J. Dale were much in the confidence of Governor Andrew. Dr. Howe was a frequent visitor to the Army of the Potomac and an active member of the United States Sanitary Commission. Dr. William J. Dale was afterwards Surgeon-General of Massachusetts. During the Civil War when the Trustees of the General Hospital were asked to make a contract with the government, they declined to do so, but declared that anything they could do, they would willingly do for their country.

In the World War in which the civil joined with the military for its successful prosecution, the Massachusetts General Hospital was the first to establish a Hospital Unit, and furnished to the Army Base Hospital No. 6; and the services of Col. Washburn, Col. Cabot, and Col. Lincoln Davis, and the fine nursing service under Miss Sara E. Parsons, give added lustre to this Hospital. It is pleasing to quote from the "Ether Day" address of Surgeon-General Ireland of the United States Army, who said, "The Massachusetts General Hospital furnished to the Army Base Hospital No. 6, which was organized and directed by your distinguished Superintendent, Col. F. A. Washburn, and was among the first to join the American Expeditionary Forces in France, and guaranteed the spacious Hospital at Bordeaux which was a worthy daughter of this famous Institution." Dr. Mixter in his address before the Alumni Association of the General Hospital stated that there was in the service from the Staff, Alumni, Nurses and Employees from the McLean Hospital and the Massachusetts General Hospital a total of five hundred and eighty-five—surely a wonderful record. Credit, also, should be given to the Trustees for their wisdom in authorizing the Superintendent of the Massachusetts General Hospital to prepare for the work which was later so well done, and to organize the Hospital Unit. When the Superintendent was sent to England to become Chief Surgeon of the Base Section there, with the rank of Colonel, the reflected glory surely came to the Massachusetts General Hospital. It should also be mentioned here that Surgeon-General Ireland said, "Base Hospital No. 6 had a half-sister, Base Hospital No. 55, which though not a cutting from the old tree, was raised from Massachusetts General seed, since Col. Franklin G. Balch, Chief of the Surgical Service, selected its entire surgical staff from the graduates of this Institution, which contributed also its chief nurse and the majority of its nurses."

The Trustees report with regret the death of Dr. William F. Whitney, an alumnus of the Hospital, who retired from active duty at the Hospital on October 1, 1916. Dr. Whitney was for many years Surgical Pathologist, and established a unique department which did much to spread the reputation of the Hospital. He was much respected and beloved by his colleagues.

Just as the discovery of ether opened up a new line in surgery, so each day emphasizes the necessity for progressive work both in medicine and surgery, and all of these steps cost money. We take care of the poor for nothing. Phillips House takes care of a long felt want in the community where people can go and get hospital treatment with home comforts, and all the benefits accruing from its being a part of the Massachusetts General Hospital. This House does little more than support itself after the proper amount for depreciation of the building has been charged off.

There are many people of moderate means who object to being charity patients, but who cannot afford to pay the high prices of surgeons and nurses, and some medium-priced establishment ought to be opened for the care of such people. There should be a nurses' home established at Waverley. All these things take money.

These are a few, and only a few, of the many things which speak of the good work of 100 years. It has been the aim of the Trustees to keep always in the front rank of hospitals, and an examination of the reports which are submitted by the heads of the various departments will give some idea of the wonderful growth in 100 years. Looking back 111 years, when the Charter was granted, and finding among the incorporators one ex-President of the United States, and one who afterwards became President, and a list of names which carried with it in those days the history of Massachusetts, it would not do for the present generation to allow the work which they began to lapse. Furthermore, down through the 100 years, the names of the descendants of those incorporators will be found every year, as Trustees and as benefactors, continuing the good work which their forefathers began.

Joseph H. O'Neil,
John Lowell,
Committee.

WARREN TRIENNIAL PRIZE

MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL HOSPITAL

THE Warren Triennial Prize was founded by the late Dr. J. Mason Warren in memory of his father, and his will provides that the accumulated interest of the fund shall be awarded every three years to the best dissertation considered worthy of a premium, on some subject in Physiology, Surgery, or Pathological Anatomy, the arbitrators being the General Executive Committee of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Theses submitted for competition for the year 1925 shall be on some special subject in Physiology, Surgery, or Pathology.

Dissertation must be in either the English, French, or German language, and must be typewritten and suitably bound, so as to be easily handled. Work that has been published previously will not be considered in competition. The name of the writer must be enclosed in a sealed envelope, on which must be written a motto corresponding with one on the accompanying dissertation.

Any clew given by the dissertation, or any action on the part of the writer which reveals his name before the award of the prize, will disqualify him from receiving the same.

The amount of the prize for the year 1925 will be $500.

In case no dissertation is considered sufficiently meritorious, no award will be made. Dissertations will be received until April 15, 1925.

A high value will be placed on original work.

FREDERIC A. WASHBURN,
Director.

DALTON SCHOLARSHIPS

THE income of this fund, amounting to $1,000 annually, is devoted to investigation in the science of medicine. The rules of the Trustees applicable to it are as follows:

ARTICLE 1. Candidates shall be nominated to the Board of Trustees by the General Executive Committee with their recommendations. They shall be either internes of the General Hospital or male graduates of a regular American Medical College.

ARTICLE 2. The nature of the work in medical investigation proposed to be prosecuted by each candidate shall be designated by the candidate.

ARTICLE 3. The Scholarship year shall begin September 15. Scholars shall work not less than ten hours per week, from the last Wednesday in September to the last Wednesday in June; and if a scholar performs a part only of this prescribed work, he shall be entitled to a proportionate part only of the income.

ARTICLE 4. The results of work of scholars shall appertain to the Hospital, and when made public the name of the scholar shall accompany the publication, but no publication shall be made unless approved by the General Executive Committee.

ARTICLE 5. When the income is insufficient, appointments for the year may be omitted.

ARTICLE 6. Any income not used shall be cumulative and not added to the principal.

ARTICLE 7. Scholars shall be eligible for renomination and reappointment.

Further information may be had by applying to the Director of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

REPORT OF THE LADIES' VISITING COMMITTEE

The Ladies' Visiting Committee has continued its work on much the same lines as in former years. With the growth of service to patients in the Hospital the ladies have found greater opportunities for their efforts.

The Occupational Therapy has been extended through funds contributed by the Committee. This work is now well established in several of the wards and is regarded by the physicians as often an important factor in the convalescence of patients.

The Warren Library has increased its usefulness both in the number of books issued and in the variety available. Besides fiction, serious books are often called for, and there has been quite a demand by the foreign-born patients for educational primers. There is always a large distribution of magazines from the library, and the phonograph records are also taken care of there. Nearly 16,000 issues of books in the past year certainly proves the usefulness of this library.

The Christmas celebration this year was on a larger scale than ever before, with a tree in each of the seventeen wards and with an appropriate gift for each patient. This Christmas festival was made possible largely through the work and the generosity of Miss Edith Fisher. Miss Fisher received assistance from several other members of the Ladies' Visiting Committee.

Charlotte S. Sprague,
Secretary.

REPORT OF THE ADVISORY COMMITTEE ON THE GENERAL HOSPITAL TRAINING SCHOOL

The work of the Training School goes on year after year with so little variation that we feel it is through the personal side that the interest of the public is aroused.

Last year we spoke of the plan of the Ladies' Committee to renovate the living room in Thayer Building and we wish you could all see the result. A most attractive and home-like room has taken the place of the rather dreary one and it is a source of gratification to us all to hear from the Superintendent of Nurses that this change of atmosphere has been of inestimable benefit to the School.

The musical evenings in the New Home once a month during the winter season, arranged for the students by the Hospitality Committee, met with such an enthusiastic response that they will be continued; and, in addition to this, the ladies of the Committee in turn will take charge of a weekly afternoon with tea, alternately in Thayer Building and the New Home. Through these informal social occasions, the nurses and the Committee come into a very delightful, friendly contact not possible in the more formal visiting of the wards.

Miss Parsons came in the autumn to write the History of the Training School and unquestionably it will make interesting reading for us all—certainly no one is better fitted than she is to undertake it.

We would like to bring to your attention the work of the Alumnæ Association on the Training School Endowment Fund. With almost no outside gifts, the Alumnæ have raised by bazaars, entertainments, and subscriptions, $14,000. About $5,000 of this is part of the $10,000 they intend to give at the 50th anniversary of the School in 1923. This sum has been reached by untiring energy and devotion to the cause, and is a remarkable proof of the love and loyalty of the graduates for their Alma Mater. It represents far more than words can express the generous gifts of women—many of whom are still working, while others have relatives dependent on their earnings—and we are glad to bear witness publicly of our gratitude and appreciation. It is the alumnæ of a school that make the background and set the standard for those who follow, forging a strong, or weak, link in its chain of past, present, and future, and this School is indeed fortunate in the support and esprit de corps of its graduates.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE RESIDENT PHYSICIAN OF THE GENERAL HOSPITAL

To the Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital:

Gentlemen,—I submit herewith my fourteenth annual report as Resident Physician of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

We are back to normal and the Trustees may congratulate themselves that these five strenuous years have been weathered and that the ship is now stronger and sails better than ever. Let us not look upon our condition with too much complacency, however, for many needs remain. Our endowment is small for the size of our institution and our requirements. Efforts should be made to increase this as soon as we have better times. In last year's report I said:

"The General Hospital needs a new building to properly house the X-Ray Department, the various forms of physiotherapy, and wards for certain medical and surgical departments which are inadequately provided with beds. A building for patients of moderate means at this hospital would be a great boon to the community. The rich and the poor have access to the best modern hospitals, and have within their reach groups of physicians skilled in the different special branches of medicine and surgery. They can enter hospitals with all the modern laboratories and appliances needed in these days for successful diagnosis and treatment. The great middle class is barred from the General Hospital because the physicians and surgeons of the staff give their services to patients unable to pay professional fees. The charges necessary in the Phillips House and the fees of the physicians are too great a burden to be carried by a man earning a small salary. The conclusion is that people of moderate means when ill do not have as good a chance to get well as should be given to them. If some benefactor would give the Hospital a building for this purpose, it would enable us to provide low-priced rooms where self-respecting people of small means could come, pay a moderate professional fee, and have their diseases studied and treated under the conditions required by modern medicine."

This is as true now as it was in 1914, the year in which public attention was first called to this need in my annual report.

Other major needs are:

A building for medical laboratories and sanitary towers.

A nurses' home.

A country branch.

The Hospital has minor needs:

a. New dining rooms for orderlies and women servants.

b. A reëstablishment of a physiotherapeutic department.

c. New operating room for the Orthopedic Department in the Surgical Building.

d. Better quarters for men.

Perhaps some of these things may be accomplished in 1922.

The money has been obtained for the construction of the rooms for the Industrial Clinic in the Out-Patient Department and the work is well under way.

On September 3, 1821, the first patient was admitted to the General Hospital. October 16, 1921, the 75th anniversary of the giving of ether to full surgical anæsthesia at this hospital fell on Sunday. This event and the Centennial were duly celebrated on October 18, 1921. Clinical and scientific papers were read in the Surgical Amphitheatre in the morning. At 12:15 P.M. a tablet given by the House Pupils' Alumni Association to their dead in the World War was dedicated in the Treadwell Library. The tablet was unveiled by the President of the Association, Dr. Samuel J. Mixter, and was accepted by Mr. George Wigglesworth, Chairman of the Board of Trustees. The following is the record upon the tablet:

WORLD WAR HONOR ROLL

Major Howard Walter Beal, M.C., U.S.A.
Lieut. William Henry Buffum, M.C., U.S.N.
Capt. William Wright Walcott, M.C., U.S.A.
Major Harrison Briggs Webster, M.C., U.S.A.
Major Ernest Victor Keller, M.C., U.S.A.
Lieut. Walter James Dodd, R.A.M.C.

These brave and devoted men, members of the Alumni Association of this Hospital, died in their youth or prime for the honor of their profession and their country and for the universal cause of liberty, justice, and good will among men.

At three o'clock in the afternoon exercises were held in the Moseley Memorial Building.

Opening Address by Dr. Henry P. Walcott, President of the Corporation, Presiding Officer.

Ether Day Address, October 18, 1921, by Dr. Frederick C. Shattuck, Professor Emeritus, Harvard Medical School.

The Personality of a Hospital, by Dr. Harvey Cushing, Moseley Professor of Surgery, Harvard Medical School.

The History of Insanity during the Past Century, with Special Reference to the McLean Hospital, by Dr. C. Macfie Campbell, Professor of Psychiatry, Harvard Medical School; Director, Boston Psychopathic Hospital.

The Place of the Civil General Hospital in the Scheme of Medical Preparedness, by Major-General Merritte W. Ireland, Surgeon General, U.S.A.

The fourteenth annual meeting of the House Pupils' Alumni Association was held in the evening.

Miss Pauline L. Dolliver, Assistant to the Resident Physician died in office August 11, 1921. She was in immediate charge of the Phillips House from its opening until her death and much of its success is due to her. Miss Dolliver was Superintendent of Nurses of this Hospital from 1899 to 1909, a period marked by progress and accomplishment in our School of Nursing. She was a woman of high ideals. She never compromised with low standards of conduct or dishonesty. Her life of service, of sacrifice, and high ideals of duty was an inspiration to many a nurse, patient, and doctor in the Massachusetts General Hospital.

The Social Service Department, now an integral part of the Hospital, is of the greatest value and importance to us. It is a serious financial burden, however. During the year the expenditures for this department were $40,937.97, the gifts and income for its maintenance were $23,623.11, leaving a deficit of $17,314.86 to be made up by the Hospital.

Paying patients were admitted at the following rates: 404 at $40.00; 3,324 at $21.00; 1 at $20.00; 3 at $18.00; 41 at $17.50; 12 at $17.00; 1 at $16.00; 64 at $15.00; 227 at $14.00; 10 at $12.00; 598 at $10.50; 57 at $10.00; 8 at $8.00; 561 at $7.00; 4 at $6.00; 64 at $5.00; 11 at $4.00; 306 at $3.50; 12 at $3.00; 3 at $2.50; 9 at $2.00; 2 at $1.50; 1 at $1.00. Some of the patients entered at these rates were afterwards made free.

* These figures are obtained by taking the amount of money received for board of patients in public wards, and dividing that figure by the full rate of board prevalent at that time. This gives the number of days of paying patients, reckoned as though they were paying full rates. By subtracting this figure from the total of ward patients' days, we get the number of free days. Of the 115,084 patients' days at the General Hospital 52,116 are free.

The year 1921 has brought neither radical changes nor outstanding developments, but rather an accounting of stock that the School may be in still better running order to continue along present lines, if that seems wise, or to change the lines, if that seems more wise. Various persons and commissions are spending money, time, and thought in an endeavor to determine just what should be the future development of schools of nursing, and it is probable that the reports of these investigations may influence the policies of many schools.

The course of theoretical instruction has been rearranged, and substantial additions made to the teaching in pediatrics, dermatology, and orthopedic nursing. An hour-by-hour outline of the major subjects has been prepared. The pediatric work has been very much strengthened by the second children's ward opened last year, by greater use of the Children's Out-Patient Department, and by the class-room and bedside teaching given by Miss Tabor, a Children's Hospital graduate who has this year been appointed supervisor of the children's wards. The entire theoretical course will be made stronger by the graduate assistant to the theoretical instructor, whose appointment has been authorized. Another feature that strengthened the School was the first faculty meeting which twenty-four of the thirty-five persons teaching in the School attended.

Probably one of the biggest pieces of work done this year has been the creating of a standard ward equipment; placing that equipment on the wards, and by weekly and monthly inventories making a very good showing at keeping it there.

The call for preventive work, as represented in public health nursing, is so strong that the number of students taking the four months' course in the School of Public Health Nursing has been increased from a total of six each year to nine each year.

The five-year course is well established. Eight students have reached the Hospital part of their training,—one in the fifth year, one in the fourth year, and six in the third year.

At the instigation of one of the visiting physicians, a survey of the 1920 records of illness was made. The average number of days' illness per student per year was seven, and including the subsequent leaves of absence the total loss was sixteen days. When it is known that the average number of days of illness per year per person in industry is from six to nine, the seven is not a poor showing. This year the use of the Shick test, and subsequent immunizing, when necessary, have been added to the other prophylactic measures.

The graduates of the School have increased the Training School Endowment Fund to about $14,000, a modest sum, perhaps, in comparison to many endowments, but a sum which represents a faith and a loyalty that cannot be measured in dollars and cents, for such faith and loyalty are priceless.

REPORT OF THE GENERAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

The year 1921 has been marked by a return to normal Hospital conditions except for continued high prices, following the temporary difficulties occasioned by the war. The problems facing the General Executive Committee, representing the Hospital activities, have been complicated by the lack of financial resources, and by the growing complexity of the Hospital organization. The lack of funds to meet desirable expansion is inherent in any progressive institution and demands no comment. In this Hospital, however, it is perhaps more apparent, because of the fixed policy of development of subsidiary but relatively independent departments. As these departments have grown from the parent stems of medicine and surgery, they have required separate equipment, adequate space in which to carry on their work to best advantage, and increased financial aid. Still more important is the complicated question of the proper coördination in a general hospital between these multiplying special departments, their relation to general medicine and surgery, and the extent to which the individual departments are to develop for the best interests of the entire Hospital. It is difficult for those vitally interested in any one "clinic" to appreciate the needs of others working under exactly similar conditions in other departments of medicine. To maintain a proper balance between the various claims which are justified and worthy of encouragement, is one of the essential and far-reaching problems of the future. The Executive Committee is alive to this problem and has continued its efforts toward the establishment of harmonious and productive coöperation between the various activities of the Hospital proper, Out-Patient Department, and subsidiary clinics.

To this end the plan, in successful operation for several years, of conferences between the Executive Committee and representatives of departments and sub-departments has been continued. This serves the double purpose of informing the Executive Committee of the needs and difficulties of the workers in special fields and also tends to remove misunderstandings which might otherwise arise. Reports to the Executive Committee have been made during 1921 by the following departments: Surgical Out-Patient Department, Laryngological Department, Tuberculosis Clinic, Training School for Nurses, Poliomyelitis Clinic, Cardiac Clinic, X-Ray Department, Pathological Laboratory, Consultation Clinic. In addition to these Dr. N. W. Faxon appeared before the committee with regard to the establishment of evening clinics.

A reorganization of the Medical Department was suggested during the year, which having met with the approval of the Trustees was adopted. On the resignation of Dr. R. C. Cabot as Chief of the West Medical Service, the two services were consolidated with Dr. D. L. Edsall as Chief of Medical Services and Dr. R. I. Lee as Associate Chief of Medical Services. This change, with the appointment of Dr. P. D. White, as Chief of the Out-Patient Medical Department, should consolidate and unify the entire medical work of the Hospital and marks a further step in the plan of single control of individual departments. A similar change in the Surgical Department may ultimately be desirable.

A notable gift of radium from Mrs. William H. Gove of Salem, valued at $30,000, has been made to the Hospital during the past year, through Dr. J. D.

Barney, which, properly safeguarded, is to be used primarily by the Genito-Urinary Department, but also by others of the hospital staff.

It is most desirable that a direct connection between the Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary and the Out-Patient Building be established. The present circuitous route between the two buildings is prohibitive of adequate consultation between their staffs, a distinct detriment both to patients and physicians.

Reports from various departments show that there is a growing demand for post-graduate teaching of a more or less formal sort. There are, in fact, few clinics in which special students are not working, either in regular post-graduate courses or for longer terms as voluntary assistants.

Surgical Department

There have been no innovations or new lines of work in the Surgical Department. Though perhaps difficult to estimate in exact terms, it is not to be questioned that the service of this branch of the Hospital work stands foremost in practical benefit to the community. The assignment of special types of cases to individual surgeons has been continued but in somewhat limited number, and only with the understanding that a written report is to be made at the end of the year in work accomplished. Staff conferences, omitted during the war, have been resumed, at which cases are reviewed, with criticism and discussion. Co-operation between Dr. D. F. Jones and the Orthopaedic Department on the subject of fractures has proved a success. A closer relationship has also been established between the Thyroid Clinic, the X-Ray Department and the Medical Laboratory in charge of Dr. J. H. Means. The association of Dr. J. S. Hodgson with Dr. W. J. Mixter, in charge of neurological surgery, has strengthened this developing branch of surgery.

Medical Department

The Chief of the Out-Patient Medical Department reports in part as follows: "Considerable progress has been made during the year 1921 in the establishment of the new system in the Medical Department. Both male and female medical clinics have been considerably improved as a result of several changes; in the first place, there are more physicians on duty in each department, allowing more care in the examination and treatment of patients; second, there is a close affiliation with the House as a result of the coöperation of the House visiting staff, which spends half its time in the out-patient clinics; third, through the better utilization and instruction of the medical students, who act as clinical clerks."

The special clinics in this department have shown a steady growth and two have been added to those already in operation. The work in the various special fields has been stimulated by the assignment of members of the regular medical staff to these clinics, during periods when they are not on duty in the general clinic.

Cardiac Clinic and Laboratory

The Cardiac Clinic is held once a week, with an average attendance of between fifteen and twenty and about five new cases. It has served as a consulting clinic for other departments and has established close affiliation with the X-Ray Department and with the Social Service Department in the follow-up of cases. The cardiological laboratory, in close association with the clinic, has had an active year. Upwards of 1400 electrocardiograms have been taken and a large amount of research carried on in relation to disorders of the heart. A particularly significant investigation has been in progress on the action of quinidin in certain heart disorders, a preliminary report of which has been published.

The Medical Laboratories

The Medical Laboratories have been active during the year in the prosecution of researches already begun and in the inauguration of new investigations. Dr. F. T. Lord and Miss Ruth Seybolt have continued their investigations into the relation of the pneumococcus to chemical changes in cultural media. Dr. G. R. Minot and associates have continued their studies in blood problems. Studies on the metabolism of blood pigments and their relation to liver function have been undertaken by Dr. C. M. Jones. Thyroid investigations have been continued under the direction of Dr. J. H. Means; Dr. F. M. Rackemann has carried on his work on hay fever and asthma and has further developed the Anaphylaxis Clinic in the Out-Patient Department. Dr. F. B. Talbot's work on metabolism and Dr. Stanley Cobb's study of electromyograms in certain disorders of the nervous system have yielded results of value.

Children's Medical Department

The staff of the Children's Department, depleted by the war, is again working in full strength. Several special clinics have been continued, namely, the Cardiac Clinic, the Eczema Clinic in coöperation with the Dermatological Department, the Rickets Clinic and the Nutrition Clinic. A new clinic is projected with the coöperation of Dr. George Derby of the Eye and Ear Infirmary on Phlyctenular Keratitis. As in the general medical department, a close relationship between the children's ward and the Out-Patient Department is being developed. Researches of various sorts are in progress, among them a study of energy metabolism and epilepsy in childhood. During the year Dr. Martha Eliot resigned to accept an instructorship in Pediatrics at the Yale Medical School.

Dermatological Department

As in other departments a definite division of work has been instituted with excellent practical results. Studies in the use of radium, x-rays in various diseases, infantile eczema in connection with the Children's Clinic, investigations into the nature of epidermophytosis and the use of crude coal tar in dermatological investigations have been undertaken under the general direction of Dr. C. J. White. As stated in the report from this department "a clinic, to be fully equipped to do worth-while work, must have a staff of special workers." The Visiting Nurse, supported for six years by Mr. E. B. Dane, has been continued through personal appeals for funds. The value of this service to the poor in their homes should not be underestimated.

Laryngological Department

An adequate bed service for this department has been established through the amalgamation of the Throat Department of the Massachusetts General Hospital with the Eye and Ear Infirmary. A difficulty lies in the fact that the Out-Patient Department is removed from the house service at the Eye and Ear Infirmary, a further argument for a more convenient connection between the two buildings. In 1921 the open operation for malignant disease of the accessory sinuses followed by the use of radium was continued, on the whole with encouraging success. Dr. H. P. Mosher, Chief of the Service, has continued his anatomical and clinical work on the œsophagus with special reference to cardio-spasm. In general this department has adequate facilities for the prosecution of its work, the only drawback at present being the wide separation of its beds from the Out-Patient Department.

Orthopaedic Department

In the Out-Patient Department, somewhat more new cases were treated in 1921 than in the preceding year and likewise more visits were made. In the Poliomyelitis Clinic approximately the same number of patients were treated as during the preceding year and somewhat more visits made. This clinic is continuing its work in coöperation with the Harvard Infantile Paralysis Commission from which it derives financial assistance. The Posture Clinic, held twice weekly, has likewise shown an increase in the number of patients treated. The work suffers somewhat from the cramped quarters in which it must be carried on. The Scoliosis Clinic, held on four mornings a week, has very materially developed, with 200 more visits than in 1920. The results of treatment are reported as noteworthy. The Arthritic Clinic, whose object is to cure or arrest the disease and to hasten the return of wage-earning function, offers special attention to cases of active arthritis. No nurse has been available for this work and a clinical social worker has been pressed into the service, with excellent results. In this, as in other departments, various members of the staff are engaged in special work and investigation.

Genito-Urinary Department

In this department there have been 172 admissions to the Hospital, 147 operations and 12 deaths, a mortality of 6.9 per cent. A careful system of records makes possible an adequate determination of the success of comparative procedures. Although only a part of the operations in this field are done by this department, the others being treated in the general surgical wards, the results thus far attained justify an extension of the work. In another place mention has been made of the gift of radium primarily to this department, which supplies the Hospital with another valuable therapeutic aid.

Neurological Department

Owing to an enlarged staff, the work of this department has been carried on with greater efficiency and thoroughness than heretofore. Although not one of the largest clinics, a proper study of the complex disorders of the nervous system which many of the patients present, demands both time and very special knowledge; it is a satisfaction that an increasing number of men are becoming interested in this branch of the Hospital work. A main aim of the department has been to integrate its work with the Medical and Surgical Departments, rather than to develop independently. Close relations have been established with the medical services, especially through the work of Dr. J. B. Ayer and Dr. Stanley Cobb, and with the surgical services through Dr. George Clymer and others. On one morning each week a neuro-surgical conference is held, usually with a ward visit, in which cases about to be operated upon or already operated upon are discussed. This might well be extended to the medical services and to several of the special services. Especially important is a closer relationship with the Eye and Ear Infirmary, which could easily be effected were convenient means of communication established. Further notable progress has been made during the year by Dr. J. B. Ayer and Dr. H. E. Foster, Dalton Scholar, in the study of the spinal fluid. The double puncture method has been established as a safe procedure in competent hands and is being widely used at this Hospital and elsewhere as a valuable aid in diagnosis and therapeutics as well as a means of studying the chemistry of the fluid. The department has but two beds at its disposal, less than any other of equal importance. Its further development depends largely upon greater facilities in this regard.

South Medical Department

Dr. C. M. Smith writes in part as follows: "There has been a falling off in attendance, probably due to several outside factors, two playing by far the most important part (1) nearby evening clinics and State Venereal Clinics throughout the Commonwealth that are now running smoothly; (2) economic conditions. Jobs are scarce and chances of losing them are not to be taken. The question of paying the Hospital bill is largely responsible for our not recommending more patients for ward care. I thoroughly believe in the ward care for patients with infectious lesions and also for the study of late cases with central nervous syphilis."

The department has coöperated with the Eye and Ear Infirmary in the study of interstitial keratitis. Dr. H. C. Solomon of the Psychopathic Hospital is in attendance at the clinic one day a week, thereby bringing the department into closer relation with the problems of neurosyphilis. In collaboration with the Dental Department a pathological collection of casts has been started. In addition to the regular undergraduate teaching, instruction has been given postgraduate social workers and public health nurses.

X-Ray Department

The volume of work has increased appreciably and there has been a change in its character. More so-called medical cases than in previous years are being referred to the department. There has also been a very definite increase in the number of cases referred for treatment. The space and apparatus have been doubled during the year and the work systematized. The plans suggested last year have worked out well, and satisfactory coöperation is being established with the various clinical departments. There has been a steady increase in the demand for teaching, especially post-graduate teaching. The course has been full and there have been from one to three students a month throughout the year. The department is very much in need of more space, better arranged, and of apparatus for deep therapy. There is at the present time apparatus on the market which gives radiation practically equivalent to that of radium. Much better results in the treatment of malignancy should be obtained with such radiation.

Social Service Department

The activities of this department for eleven months of 1921 are indicated by the fact that records were made of 5,509 cases, of which 2,484 were so-called folder records, the remainder being short service records.

A problem of special difficulty has been the proper disposition of chronic patients as they have appeared in the wards and other services of the Hospital. Of the 333 ward patients referred up to December 1, only 96 could be cared for in hospitals. Of the total number of such patients referred to the department, namely 1,252, 204 received some material assistance.

The problem of the chronic patient is strikingly illustrated by these figures. A service of importance has been the care of children from the Orthopaedic Clinic suffering from tuberculous bones or joints who require a long period of recumbency in plaster. Such children can rarely be cared for properly at home and the attempt has been made, with considerable success, to find for them suitable foster-homes. The Children's Mission has also helped to meet the problem of providing proper homes for these children.

Each year brings more visitors and students who desire training in hospital social work. Twenty-six such students from various sources have been given instruction. In addition to these, visitors from a number of foreign countries have studied the activities of the department. One hundred and nineteen volunteers have been supervised or placed in suitable positions in the Hospital. The work of these volunteers has been stabilized through the efforts of Miss E. M. Baker, who has had charge of this portion of the work. Several papers have been published by Miss Ida M. Cannon, Chief of the Department, and others of her staff.

Since the Social Service Department has been taken over by the Hospital, donations for its work have been somewhat less. The fact should be impressed that the needs of the department tend constantly to increase with the expansion of its work.

Warren Library

The Warren Library, founded in 1841 by Dr. John C. Warren, continues to be a valuable adjunct to Hospital treatment. The number of books in the library is now 4,191, of which 430 are in foreign languages. Upwards of 8,000 books were loaned to patients during the year. Through this library it has been possible for students, interrupted in their studies by illness, to continue their work with the help of the librarian who has obtained certain technical books from the Boston Public Library. Blind patients have been assisted by the Perkins Institution, and adult illiterates have been assisted in learning the English language. The Phillips House has also shared in the privileges of the library. Its opportunities for usefulness in many directions, apart from mere recreation, are apparent. It should be encouraged by the donation of books and money. Suitable books in foreign languages are especially desired.

Consultation Clinic

The Consultation Clinic has continued its service during the year to an increasing clientele. The attendance has been as large as can well be handled in an afternoon. The work of the clinic has, on the whole, been satisfactory and it is believed that valuable assistance has been given outside physicians in the diagnosis of their obscure cases,— one of the essential aims of the clinic. It should be recognized that this clinic demands much more time from the staff than is compensated for by the small percentage of the fees which each receives, and it should therefore be considered one of the charitable activities of the Hospital.

REPORT OF THE PATHOLOGICAL LABORATORY

The usual routine, bacteriological, chemical, microscopical, and pathological examinations in connection with the study of diseases of the patients in the Hospital have been carried on as in previous years.

During the year 130 autopsies were performed in the laboratory and the post-mortem appearances recorded. The percentage of autopsies among the deaths occurring in the Hospital is 29 per cent as compared with 31 per cent in 1920.

Of microscopical preparations from autopsy material 1,390 have been prepared and filed during the year as compared with 1,267 in 1920.

Reports rendered for bacteriological examinations for the micro-organisms of diphtheria, typhoid fever and other diseases number 3,260. There were 3,065 in 1920.

For testing various specimens for the presence of tubercle bacilli 255 guinea pigs were used. In 1920 the number was 211.

Reports of gross and microscopical appearances and the pathological diagnosis of 1,879 specimens from the Medical and Surgical Clinics were rendered. From this material 2,300 microscopical preparations were made and filed. The corresponding figures for 1920 were 1,787 and 1,873.

The number of specimens of blood tested for evidence of infection with syphilis is 15,400 as compared with 13,770 in 1920; 161 specimens of blood were also tested for evidence of infection with gonorrhea, and 21 for evidence of infection with tenia ecchinococcus.

Protein and Lange's Colloidal Gold Tests on spinal fluid were 1,640 and 771, respectively.

In the Chemical Laboratory 3,662 analyses were made as compared with 1,545 in 1920. These comprised 256 for lead and 1,621 for sugar.

The treatment of patients with bacterial vaccines has been continued by Dr. A. E. Steele, and during the year 136 were so treated as compared with 162 in 1920.

The facilities and material offered by the laboratory for the instruction of physicians and students of the Harvard Medical School in bacteriology, pathology, and diagnosis by laboratory methods have continued to be extensively utilized.

The weekly conferences and discussions of clinico-pathological aspects of Hospital cases, conducted in the amphitheatre of the laboratory before fourth-year students and others, have been continued during the academic year. These exercises have been conducted by Drs. Oscar Richardson, R. C. Cabot, and E. L. Young, Jr. The attendance has been good and much interest has been manifested.

The courses in medicine and pathology for practitioners, given by Drs. W. H. Smith and Oscar Richardson, have been well attended and continue to be highly successful.

The clinico-pathological conference, for the third-year class, on alternate Fridays, has been continued by Drs. R. C. Cabot and J. H. Wright.

To facilitate the courses and conferences above mentioned, additional space has been made available in the building containing the pathological amphitheatre.

Instruction in pathology to sections of second-year men and special courses to twenty-four students of the Harvard Medical School have been given by Dr. J. H. Wright.

Dr. A. E. Steele has instructed one student in the preparation and use of bacterial vaccines.

The room in the laboratory for students in clinical medicine has continued to be used by them during their courses.

Dr. H. F. Hartwell has given weekly demonstrations in pathological anatomy to fourth-year students, and has continued the collection and preservation of specimens for teaching purposes.

Of special studies carried on during the year the following may be mentioned:

Dr. W. H. Smith has continued his studies of bacteria in pneumonia and endocarditis.

Dr. H. E. Foster has devoted a large part of his time to the study of spinal fluids.

Dr. J. B. Ayer has worked on special subjects in neuro-pathology.

Dr. A. M. Greenwood has been occupied with the study of skin pathology.

Dr. J. H. Wright has worked on methods of demonstrating spirochetes in the tissues and has devised a method for rapid staining of myelin sheaths of nerve fibres.

Miss H. I. Cole has been appointed Assistant Chemist and is in charge of the Chemical Laboratory.

Respectfully submitted,

J. Homer Wright, M.D., S.D.,

Pathologist.

ANNUAL REPORT OF TREADWELL LIBRARY, 1921

The year 1921 has been one memorable in events, and rich in gifts.

Last June, during the meeting of the American Medical Library Association, an evening reception was given to its members. About sixty guests were present, and the entire library with its special collections was thrown open to them. Loans were made at this time by the Boston Medical Library, and by Dr. Harvey Cushing, for an exhibit suggested by Dr. J. Collins Warren, and entitled, "From Louis to Osler." This was the first time that our new quarters had been inspected by the library profession, and many were the expressions of approval and admiration. We can safely say that we have one of the most attractive and most useful Hospital medical libraries in the country. At this same time the American Medical Association was holding its annual meeting in Boston, and many distinguished visitors found their way to the "Treadwell." We were fortunate enough to be presented with a handsome guest-book just at the right time, the gift of Miss Greenbaum, a social service student who had become interested in the library through a continuous use of it during the spring months, and in this book many visitors signed their names.

In October, during the double celebration, elsewhere mentioned in this report of the Hospital, the handsome memorial tablet to our alumni heroes was unveiled. This is inserted in the north wall of the library and makes one more precious tribute placed in our care.

Every such gift makes the place sacred to brave memories, and the Treadwell Library is proud to be the shrine of the Hospital. The men who come here to learn, and then pass from our gates to larger personal service, know that they forever belong to the "old M. G. H.," and that she follows their careers, and cherishes all their achievements.

We have been particularly rich in gifts this past year, and they are gratefully acknowledged. To a library with a very small income the donation of a good periodical is most acceptable, not only for the benefit of readers but as an asset. For the year 1921 we were given two paid subscriptions: the Psychoanalytic Review from Dr. L. E. Emerson, and the Journal of Urology from Dr. O. R. T. L'Esperance. The latter is continued for 1922. Dr. F. G. Balch has given his own copies of the Archives of Surgery, and Dr. F. A. Washburn has done the same with the Journal of the American Medical Association, the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, and The Military Surgeon. Dr. J. H. Means is giving his copies of Physiological Reviews, and promises the Archives of Internal Medicine for 1922. Dr. J. B. Ayer has offered a subscription to Revue Neurologique for two years, 1922 and 1923. Dr. Edsall, with his usual thoughtfulness, has given the librarian an opportunity to look over material discarded from his office, and to cull therefrom some valuable reprints, and duplicate material which has been sold for a very acceptable sum. Dr. J. W. Cummin has continued his vigorous search among discarded reprints at the Boston Medical Library, bringing to light some publications that we have been exceedingly glad to get.

Miss Josephine Prescott, one of our nurses, presented an old "Synoptical Table of Thoracic Percussion and Auscultation," by C. L. Mitchell, M.D., of New York, and bearing the date 1839. It is "arranged from the works of Laennec, Hope, Louis, Piorry, Williams, and others, and the lectures of Barth, Roger, and Landouzy.'' Miss Prescott rescued this interesting curiosity as it was about to be destroyed.

Miss Tuttle, a nurse in the Hospital fifty years ago,—before a training school was started,—has given a silhouette supposed to be of Dr. John G. Treadwell, for whom this library was named, and of whom we have never before been able to obtain any likeness.

Another unusual gift was the sum of $50 received from one of the visiting surgeons, to be used at the discretion of the librarian for the benefit of her clerks, and in a manner especially designated by the donor. It was all spent during the summer months.

Gifts of books have been received from:

Dr. D. L. Edsall	Dr. F. W. E. Burnham, of Winnipeg, Man.
Dr. C. A. Porter	Mr. R. S. Hale
Dr. R. B. Osgood	Banca Commerciala Italiana, New York
Dr. G. W. Holmes	The Mayo Clinic
Dr. F. B. Talbot	Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research
Dr. G. C. Shattuck	Rockefeller Foundation
Dr. A. W. Allen	Carnegie Institution
Dr. F. M. Rackemann	Lister Institute of Preventive Medicine
Dr. F. A. Washburn	Harvard University
Dr. N. W. Faxon	Cornell University
Miss Ida M. Cannon	Stanford University
Mrs. James J. Putnam	University of Michigan

Miss Painter has kindly turned over to the library certain journals which come to her in connection with the publication of the Cabot Case Records, and several local periodicals are sent through the courtesy of the publishers; for these our thanks are hereby expressed, as well as for numerous State and municipal reports, all of which supply information many times sought by our readers.

The library is growing fast, and the librarian is hoping—as she has hoped for many years—that time will soon be available for much necessary cataloguing, arrangement of certain collections, care of historical matter, and for new work which every library must do if it is to keep abreast of the times. Responsibility for clinical records makes a large demand upon the time of the librarian, although Miss Owen, the assistant librarian, has for the past six months most acceptably taken charge of the routine weekly work.

Another pupil, who is preparing for work at the Truesdale Hospital, Fall River, is now taking the course in Care of Clinical Records.

THE ONE HUNDRED AND FOURTH REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF THE McLEAN HOSPITAL

To the Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital:

The following report of the McLean Hospital for the year 1921 is respectfully submitted:

Seventy-six patients were admitted, 72 patients were discharged, and 224 remained in the Hospital at the end of the calendar year. The total number under treatment was 296. The daily average was 219.78, an increase of 11.09 over last year. The recoveries were 31.6 per cent of the admissions, and 33.33 per cent of the discharges.

Of the 76 admissions, 46 were primarily voluntary patients, and 2 others became so by signing applications to remain under treatment at the Hospital; 1 at the expiration of the legal period of an observation commitment, and 1 at the expiration of the legal period of temporary care. Two patients admitted as voluntary were committed because of a formal request for discharge which could not properly be granted. There remained as voluntary patients at the end of the year 85 persons, 31 men and 54 women, 12 more than at the end of last year.

During the year 6 patients were admitted for temporary care (Acts of 1915, Chapter 174), 4 less than last year. Of these 1 made voluntary application to remain at the Hospital, and 5 were formally committed.

Of the 76 patients admitted, 12 came from other hospitals in Massachusetts, 1 from a hospital in another State. The statistical tables appearing later in this report are for the year ending September 30, and are in the form suggested by the American Psychiatric Association and adopted by the Massachusetts Department of Mental Diseases. Forms 1 and 2 are not required of private hospitals and are therefore omitted.

As stated above, the daily average number of patients in the Hospital was 219.78. In order to maintain its standing as a charitable institution in accordance with the requirements imposed by the act of the Legislature passed in 1914, of the 219.78 patients treated per day 61 were cared for as absolutely free patients without charge of any kind. The experience of the year has confirmed the opinion expressed in my last report: that the necessity of raising the rates for all paying patients in order to cover the cost of the free patients, since the Hospital has not at its disposal otherwise funds to meet this expense, has imposed a burden upon some of the paying patients which they were not well able to bear, and has made it impossible for many deserving people to make use of the Hospital, since they could neither meet the minimum requirement for pay patients nor could they be considered indigent as the law prescribes for those entitled to be cared for as free patients.

The demand for the admission of patients has continued large throughout the year, and in addition to those received it was necessary to refuse admission to 143 because of lack of accommodations. Much of the time there has been a waiting list.

For the first time in several years the Hospital has been able to secure and maintain a full staff of competent physicians. Its patients have been well studied and well cared for. It has been the aim of this Hospital for many years to advance the knowledge and understanding of mental diseases in order that through this knowledge better therapeutic measures could be applied.

There is reason to believe that many cases of insanity, both acute and chronic, may be due to poisoning by abnormal secretions or by hyper-secretion or hypo-secretion of normal constituents of the organism or by the lack of proper elimination of such substances. With a view to discovering the presence, nature, and action of such possible toxins a part of the research work undertaken by the Staff during the last year has been along lines which attempt to correlate the clinical, psychological, and chemical findings in a series of patients over a considerable time, what may be called a long section view of the illness in contrast to the cross section pictures which have so frequently been made in the past. The appointment as Assistant in Pathological Psychology of Dr. Lundholm, who is also instructor in the Department of Psychology at Harvard College, and the appointment as Assistant in Pathological Chemistry of Dr. Whitehorn, who is working under the supervision of Dr. Folin, Professor of Chemistry at Harvard Medical School, has given Dr. Plant the assistance needed to make it possible to undertake an unusually extensive piece of research work along these lines, such as has never been done, although its desirability has always been recognized. Already some findings indicate that certain abnormal mental conditions as observed by the Clinician and Psychologist also show, as demonstrated by the Chemist, the presence of certain constituents in the blood at these times, which are either pathological or are present in pathological amounts. It is necessary in order to check up these results and ascertain their significance to make further tests of a physiological nature.

For this purpose it is essential that a Physiologist be added to our Staff. Dr. Walter B. Cannon, Professor of Physiology at Harvard Medical School, has shown much interest in our work and has permitted us to call upon him from time to time for advice. It is hoped that before long we may find a post-graduate student interested in physiological research work, who can be induced to carry out here, under Dr. Cannon's supervision, such investigations as shall have a bearing on our special problems. Working quarters for such a man and much of the apparatus which he will need are available in the Psychological Laboratory. It may be added that owing to the enlargement and additional equipment of the Psychological Laboratory no hospital is better outfitted for this type of work.

The routine laboratory examinations of blood and urine have been made throughout the year, and nine autopsies have been performed, the material from which is in the process of being worked up.

During the year clinical lectures have been given to students in the Department of Psychology from Clark University, as has been the custom for some years, and we have begun to give similar lectures to students in the Department of Psychology at Harvard University.

The regular bi-weekly conferences have been held, at which times the case histories have been presented and discussed from diagnostic and therapeutic points of view. These conferences have been open to outside physicians and on many occasions visitors have availed themselves of the opportunity to attend. There have also been held weekly meetings at which various members of the Staff have presented reviews of articles in the current medical periodicals, followed by general discussion.

I am especially glad to report that by the resumption of scientific work the Hospital is again attracting attention so that various young men of serious purpose are seeking connection with it.

Papers were presented during the year as follows:

Dr. Hoch—Acute Psychoses with Symptoms Resembling Dementia Præcox.

Dr. Plant—A Rating System of Conduct.

Dr. Lundholm—The Analysis of Psychiatric Terms.

Dr. Plant — Non-medical Sources of Psychiatric Data.

Publications for the year include:

A Comparison of Manic-depressive and Dementia Præcox Cases by the Free-Association Method. Gardner Murphy, A.M. (American Journal of Insanity.)

Comparative Simple Reactions to Light and Sound. Dr. Wells and Dr. Kelley. (Journal of Experimental Psychology.)

On June 3, the Hospital entertained the members of the American Psychiatric Association, then holding its meeting in Boston. Lunch was served and the afternoon session of the meeting was held at the Hospital. More than three hundred guests, representing institutions all over the United States and Canada, as well as several prominent physicians from Europe, attended.

During the first half of the year very few applications were received from women to enter the Training School for Nurses, and it was necessary to continue the use of so-called attendants. Your decision in May, however, to increase the allowance to pupil nurses made it possible for many desirable young women, who could not otherwise provide for themselves during the period of training, to apply for admission to the School, with the result that 14 pupils entered the fall class. Thus we were enabled to meet the emergency which arose when the last group of pupils from the Army Nursing School of the Medical Department of the United States Army finished its course in October. It is especially pleasing to report that already 11 others have been accepted for the spring class, which begins in February, 8 of whom will begin their course soon after the first of January, and it now seems probable that by the time the class work begins in February the number will be 14 or 15. This will make approximately an entering number of 30 within a year. At this rate we shall have again an ample number to run a successful school and take proper care of the patients. We are no longer receiving attendants and are gradually dropping those employed. Applications from men to enter the male department of the Training School have been more than sufficient to fill our classes.

On April 23, Mr. Henry E. Magoon resigned to take up private nursing. He had been for the last eighteen years Supervisor of the Men's Department, in which position he rendered conscientious service. We are fortunate in having as his successor Mr. Horace C. Smith, who has been connected with the Hospital for twenty-one years, the last eighteen years as Supervisor of the Upham House. His thorough acquaintance with the institution, his good judgment, and executive ability especially fit him for the position.

I regret to report that Miss Jennie McIntosh, who has been connected with the Training School for twenty-two years, eight years and eight months as Assistant Superintendent of Nurses and nine years and three months as Superintendent of Nurses, was obliged to resign on December 1, owing to ill health. Throughout her long service, in whatever position she occupied, she was a conscientious, tireless worker, loyally devoted alike to the interests of the institution and of the patients, always without thought of self.

Miss Alice M. Cochrane, who was connected with the Training School for sixteen years, three years as Supervisor of the Women's Department, six years as Assistant Superintendent of Nurses, resigned on June 23, to be married. Always efficient in her service, she was particularly valuable during the difficult period of the war. During Miss McIntosh's absence from November, 1919, to May, 1920, she filled the position of Superintendent of Nurses most acceptably. She has further shown her interest in the Hospital by leaving her home to take charge of the Training School since Miss McIntosh's resignation, and until such time as her successor can be appointed.

Although as indicated above the outlook for the success of the Training School is again more promising, the fact must be borne in mind that there are no longer as many young women turning to the profession of nursing, and that there are more training schools soliciting pupils. This means that if we are to compete successfully with other high-grade schools we must offer similar inducements, not only in our course of training but in the way of comfortable and attractive living quarters. The greatest need of the Training School and the greatest aid to its further development and maintenance is a home for women nurses. The plans are completed and it is hoped that funds will soon be available for its construction. Whoever is appointed as Superintendent of Nurses will rightly demand such a home, if she is to conduct her work successfully.

The usual diversions and forms of occupational therapy have been carried on during the year, with the customary gratifying results. The greatest interest has been shown by the women patients in weaving and pottery making, although basketry, leather work, embroidery, and knitting have interested many. The men patients have occupied themselves in a great variety of ways. Cabinet work has appealed to many, and some very nice pieces of furniture have been made. Bookbinding and printing have furnished interesting occupations to others. Some handsome Turkish rugs have been made, and the work of some of the men in the pottery room has resulted in the production of pieces which in design and coloring compare well with professional work. Four hundred and fifty pieces have been made during the year. While the articles made by the patients belong to them and are for the most part taken away by them or given to their friends, nevertheless, a considerable amount of work has been done for the Hospital. Two hundred books have been bound, 39,000 sheets of printing done; bed-rests, baskets, hampers, tables, picture frames, chairs, game tables, and other useful articles made, to the value of over $640.00.

The library continues to be one of the most appreciated sources of interest and diversion. The number of volumes circulated from the general library during the year was 9,980. The number of periodicals subscribed for was 54. Seven volumes were added to the library in the form of bound periodicals, 139 by purchase and 17 by gift. The total number of volumes in the library is 6,748.

There were 26 volumes added to the medical library, 13 by binding of medical periodicals and 13 by gift and purchase, making a total of 6,185 volumes. During the year 64 medical periodicals were subscribed for.

Aside from the indoor diversions mentioned above, such outdoor activities as golf, croquet, tennis, and baseball have been participated in by many of the patients. To a larger number than usual has the golf course furnished healthful and diverting outdoor exercise. Many have been interested in cultivating flowers and vegetables in the garden plots allotted to them.

The garage has furnished 1,929 general and private drives. These are particularly useful in broadening the horizon and interests of convalescing patients.

The usual Sunday services conducted by the Chaplain, the Rev. George J. Prescott, have been held throughout the year, with the exception of the summer months.

Mr. Frederick A. Foss resigned as Steward on January 9, and the Hospital was very fortunate in securing as his successor Mr. Alexander Dorey. His many years' experience as Chief Steward with the Cunard Steamship Company and in hotel management especially fitted him for the work of the Hospital, and he has rendered most excellent service, not only in buying but in supervising the preparation and distribution of the food. As a general business assistant he has also given satisfaction.

In addition to the ordinary replacements, repairs, and painting a considerable amount of money has been spent for special purposes: $7,403.62 for partially rebuilding two of the gable ends and some of the chimneys of the Men's Belknap, in addition to repairs to other gables and chimneys; the rebuilding of a chimney at the Bowditch House, and the partial rebuilding of a gable at the Codman House; $15,004.99 was spent for additional equipment, replacements and repairs in the power house; $5,592.66 was for the purchase of the ice machine and its installation, which is saving an expenditure of about $2,500.00 a year for ice; $2,335.53 for the necessary replacement of the old hot water heater, which had been in use since the Hospital was built; $802.00 for the replacement of a worn-out feed water pump; the balance was for new equipment and repairs looking towards economy in operating the power plant. Owing largely to the accomplishments of these expenditures the amount of coal consumed in the power house was approximately one thousand tons less than during the previous year. Incidentally the new metres, which were a part of the additional equipment mentioned above, brought to light the fact that the Hospital was paying for water not consumed a sum estimated to be something over $1,000.00 a year. Thus the power house expenditures are resulting in an approximate saving for the year of $10,500.00.

Another unusual expenditure was due to the necessity of renewing telephone and electric light cables belonging to our local systems, which amounted to $1,800.00 for material alone.

Never since the Upham House was built has it been satisfactorily heated, in spite of the fact that nearly two hundred tons of coal a year were used. At an expense of $860.00 there has been installed in connection with the Upham heating plant a vacuum system, the operation of which, even during the cold weather of December, made it possible to heat the building with one instead of the two boilers formerly used. It seems probable that this will lead to a saving of one-third of the coal consumed in this building.

It was necessary to spend $4,692.50 for replacements in rearranging and reconstructing the old kitchen. The rearrangement of the old utensils and setting the new ones has been completed, but there remains a considerable amount of work to be done in refinishing the room. As a result we shall have a respectable looking kitchen with first-class equipment. The change will make possible more efficient preparation and delivery of food to the various buildings, and its arrival in better condition. Incidentally, by reason of better working conditions, it may be possible to reduce the number of kitchen help.

The expenditures for housekeeping supplies have been comparatively large by reason of the fact that the over-supply purchased in 1917, to carry us through the war, had been exhausted and conditions made it impossible or undesirable to purchase what ordinarily would have been bought last year.

Another large expenditure was $4,564.05 for a new truck to replace the old one.

The cost of provisions for the year, due to market conditions, careful buying, and strict supervision, shows a decrease of approximately $27,000.00.

The amount paid for salaries shows a considerable increase. This is largely due to the fact that it was necessary to pay more money to the attendants, whom we were obliged to employ in the absence of nurses, and also to the fact that the allowance given to pupil nurses was increased, which, however, is still less than that paid by the State hospitals. So far as the other employees are concerned, there has been a gradual reduction of wages during the last six months, until now they are at a fair level.

During the coming year further repair work on the buildings should be done, the cost of which will approximate $5,000.00 to $6,000.00. The steam mains leading from the power house to the various buildings have not been renewed since the Hospital was built and are in bad condition as indicated by many breaks. It will probably be necessary to renew a considerable portion of them during the summer, the cost of which may approach $10,000.00. The interior of the chapel should be painted and a new heating outfit must be installed if the building is to be used. This will necessitate the expenditure of about $1,500.00.

The farm has furnished us with commodities the market values of which were: milk, $22,974.22; beef and pork products, $12,313.25; vegetables, $2,855.01; fruit, $1,861.75. For these and for the considerable amount of general work credited to it in the way of hauling coal and road building, and so forth, it has a credit balance of $7,963.57, without taking into account the spring which furnishes the Hospital with water estimated to be worth about $7,000.00 annually.

The changes in the Hospital Staff during the year were as follows:

Dr. Sidney M. Bunker entered the service of the Hospital as Assistant Physician, January 1.

Dr. F. Lyman Wells, Assistant in Pathological Psychology, resigned January 14.

Dr. Helge Lundholm entered the service of the Hospital as Assistant in Pathological Psychology, January 27.

It will be seen from this table that of the 554 women graduates of the school who are now living, 278 are still in the profession of nursing; and that of the 319 men graduates who are now alive, 125 are still nurses. Fifty-six of the men graduates have become physicians; of these 2 are superintendents of hospitals, 51 are in private practice, and 3 have died. Five women became physicians; of these, 1 is married and has left the profession, 4 are in private practice.

During the first part of the year, owing to the few applications from women to enter the Training School, it was necessary to continue the use of so-called attendants. The increased allowance to pupil nurses, in May, made it possible for many desirable young women, who could not otherwise provide for themselves during the period of training, to apply for admission to the School, with the result that fourteen pupils entered the fall class of the women's department. Eleven others have been accepted for the spring class which begins in February, eight of whom will begin their course soon after the first of January, and it now seems probable that by the time the class work begins in February the number will be fourteen or fifteen. This will make approximately an entering number of thirty within a year. At this rate we shall have again an ample number to run a successful school. We are no longer receiving attendants and we are gradually dropping those employed. Applications from men to enter the male department of the Training School have been more than sufficient to fill the classes.

During the year forty women took the post-graduate course of three months, and three men from the Mills Training School of the Bellevue Hospital took the post-graduate course of one year.

All graduates are requested to communicate with the Superintendent of Nurses yearly during the month of December, giving correct addresses for the annual report.

FREDERIC H. PACKARD,
Medical Superintendent.

McLEAN HOSPITAL TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES, WAVERLEY, MASS.

The Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital Corporation established a school for the instruction of nurses at the McLean Hospital in 1882. It gives to men and women desirous of becoming professional nurses a course of training in general nursing, with special reference to the care of cases of nervous and mental disease. The school is conducted by the Superintendent of the Hospital under the authority of the Board of Trustees.

At no time since the school was opened have there been greater demands for nurses, or greater opportunities for success in the practice of their profession. Of late years the public has come to recognize more fully the value of the nurse when there is sickness in the family. The growth of hospitals has been such as to increase the need for nurses in executive and other positions. New and very attractive fields have been opened in industrial establishments and in public health nursing.

Those wishing to take the course of instruction should write to the Superintendent of the McLean Hospital, Waverley, Mass., giving a brief personal history, and also the names and addresses of three responsible persons, not of their own kin, who know of their character and capabilities. If on receipt of this letter it is thought advisable for such prospective candidates to make a formal application, blank forms especially provided for this purpose will be sent to them.

Candidates must be in sound health, and must send with their application a certificate from a physician certifying that fact. They should preferably have had at least one year of high school education or its equivalent, and should not be less than eighteen nor more than thirty-five years of age, but exception may be made if education, general health, and personal qualifications warrant it.

On furnishing satisfactory evidence of their probable fitness they will be received for two months on probation. If accepted at the expiration of this time they will sign an agreement to complete the prescribed course. At the end of the first six months the record of each pupil is again carefully scrutinized and the right is reserved to terminate then, or at any other time, the connection of any pupil or nurse with the School and Hospital for inefficiency, misconduct, generally unsatisfactory record, or for any other reason which may be deemed sufficient.

The pupils reside in the Hospital and are employed as assistant nurses in its wards. Men probationers while on duty will wear ordinary plain clothing. The women wear the uniform prescribed for probationers. After formally joining the School, at the end of the period of probation, both men and women are required to wear the Hospital uniform while on duty in the wards.

In addition to instruction in nursing, both men and women receive board, lodging, and laundry, and an allowance in money. The men, whose course of study is shorter, $30 a month during the first year and $35 a month during the second year; the women $30 a month during the first and second years and $45 a month for the third year. Graduates of the School receive from $50 to $60 a month. Those who are also graduates of a general hospital are paid $65 a month.

Graduates holding positions as head nurses are paid from $70 to $75 a month.

All pupils and nurses are allowed one afternoon each week, also four hours on Sundays and holidays. They are also given a two weeks' vacation in each year; and no deduction of time is made for sickness unless it exceeds two weeks in any given year.

On completion of the full term of study, nurses who have passed all the required examinations receive diplomas certifying to their period of training, their proficiency, and their good character.

Women graduates of this school who wish to have additional practical experience and instruction in general nursing have the privilege, under certain restrictions, of reëntering the Training School for Nurses at the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. Such graduates will, after ten months' satisfactory study, receive the diploma from that school, in addition to the diploma received from the McLean Hospital Training School.

Course of Instruction

Instruction is given for eight months of the year, from October 1 to June 1, classes beginning October 1 and February 1. It is no disadvantage to enter the School between May and October, since the pupil will get some practical knowledge of the care of patients before taking up the required study.

A preliminary course of two months is given to the women, and during this time the pupil is given no more work on the wards than is necessary to put in practice the instruction received. This occupies about three hours daily. Most of the time is devoted to lectures, recitations, demonstrations, and laboratory work. Instruction to both men and women, chiefly by the officers of the Hospital, includes courses in anatomy, physiology, hygiene, bacteriology, drugs and materia medica, urinalysis, hydrotherapy, massage, housekeeping, dietetics and cookery, general medical and surgical nursing, obstetrical nursing (to women), and especially nursing of cases of nervous and mental diseases. Affiliations have been made with the Massachusetts General Hospital Training School for Nurses in Boston, and with the New York Nursery and Child's Hospital in New York City. At some time during the second year of study the women pupils will be sent to the Massachusetts General Hospital for a period of six months for instruction and experience in general medical and surgical nursing, and after this to New York for an additional six months for obstetrics and the nursing of children. There are written examinations in the middle and at the end of each school year, and pupils must attain on critical marking at least 60 per cent.

Anatomy. Recitations from a text-book on anatomy and physiology are required, and a course of lectures is given on applied anatomy, in which the general plan is to describe the anatomy of the various physiological systems, to refer briefly to their origin and use, to explain the different injuries and diseases to which they are liable, and to describe the treatment and nursing care of these morbid conditions. There is an articulated and a disarticulated skeleton which the pupils can use for study. It is intended that each one shall see a post-mortem examination.

Physiology. In addition to recitations from a text-book, lectures are given on the blood, heart, circulation, vaso-motor system, digestion (mechanical and chemical), absorption, secretion, respiration, animal heat, movement, nervous system, and special senses.

Hygiene. Recitations from a text-book are required, and a course of lectures is given which includes a consideration of water, food, air, ventilation, heating, lighting, sewerage, disinfectants and disinfection, and personal hygiene.

Bacteriology. A text-book is used for recitations, and a course of lectures is given on benign and pathogenic bacteria, methods of cultivation and examination, the relation of pathogenic germs to various medical and surgical diseases, with a consideration of some of the more common of these diseases.

Drugs and Materia Medica. Instruction is given in the dispensary by lectures, demonstrations, and practical work. The pupils are taught to use the prescription balance and the various measures, and are given practice in weighing and folding powders, the different methods of measuring drops, etc. They are taught to make weight-to-volume solutions of various strengths, also percentage solutions such as are used in the operating room or for purposes of disinfection.

Instruction is also given in elementary chemistry and botany, on the drugs in ordinary use, poisons and their antidotes. The course is made a laboratory exercise so far as is possible.

Urinalysis. There are brief lectures on normal and abnormal urines and the diseases in which they occur. These are followed by demonstrations of methods of analysis, and the nurse is taught by actual practice to make different tests. It is principally a laboratory exercise.

Physical Therapeutics. Lectures and demonstrations are given on the various hydrotherapeutic procedures and their effects. The pupils are also given instruction in general massage, the use of apparatus in the gymnasium, and games. They are also taught the use of the Zander apparatus and of electricity. During the course of instruction the nurse has frequent opportunity for the practical application of the knowledge gained in the treatment of patients.

Housekeeping. Instruction is given by the assistant superintendent of nurses, the supervisor, and the head nurses, and consists chiefly in actual demonstrations and practice on the wards of general household duties and of such special duties as are required for the proper care of the patients.

Dietetics and Cookery. Twenty-four exercises of three hours each are given the women each morning for one month, during which a lecture of one hour is followed by two hours of practical work. The men receive twelve exercises of two hours each. The instruction includes a consideration of the purchase of food, utensils, kitchen and dining-room furnishings, dietetics and general cookery, with special reference to the preparation and serving of food for the sick and the convalescent.

During the course meals are prepared and served by the pupils, to illustrate the laying of trays and tables and the duties of the hostess and waitress.

After sufficient practice in the care of the kitchen and dining room the pupils are taken to the wards to apply their knowledge, and throughout the remainder of their service in the Hospital they assist in serving food to the patients, under the supervision of the instructor.

Nursing. The theory of general nursing is taught by text-books, lectures, and demonstrations, and a practical application of the instruction is made so far as the facilities of the Hospital will allow. Much of the ordinary routine work of a nurse is the same for patients treated here as for those in a general hospital, while in the matter of bathing, changing bed and personal clothing, serving food, giving enemata, etc., it is often much more difficult. Practice in general medical and surgical nursing is obtained at the Massachusetts General Hospital for six months during the second year of the course.

The lectures on nursing given during the third year include a description of various diseases, a consideration of methods of prevention, the various remedial measures employed in the treatment of these diseases, and their nursing care.

A special course in obstetrical nursing and in diseases of children is given at the New York Nursery and Child's Hospital in New York City, to which women pupils of the school are sent for six months in the second or third year. The nursing of cases of nervous and mental diseases is taught by recitations, lectures, demonstrations in the wards by the superintendent of nurses, supervisors, and head nurses, and actual practice in the care of the patients of the Hospital. Besides this, written reports of individual cases are required and nurses are taught to observe and make daily notes of cases under their care.

Previous to the consideration of insanity, a brief description of the normal mind is given in eight lectures. In order to make it as practical as possible, patients are assigned to each nurse to observe and to report upon verbally as to the condition of the various mental states or faculties while they are under discussion. Lectures are given on the causation, symptoms, treatment, and nursing care of the different forms of mental disease, with special attention to the duties of the nurse.

To better fit the nurses for special work and for the care of convalescents, courses are given in handicrafts.

A Post-Graduate Nursing Course in Mental and Nervous Diseases is now offered by the School. The special training offered in a neuropsychiatric hospital is becoming more and more insisted upon as a part of the equipment of every nurse. Whether in private work or in the industrial, public health, or administrative fields, the nurse may at any time have to meet situations calling for particular skill in the care of nervous and mental disturbances. The object of this course is to qualify the general Hospital nurse to meet such requirements. Students are given ward experience in the management of a wide range of mental cases, and courses of instruction leading to intelligent understanding of their care. The courses in mental and nervous diseases consist of lectures and clinics. The work of psychology consists of lectures, demonstrations, and practical work in the observation and measurement of mental functions. The chief problems and methods of mental hygiene are discussed. Anatomy, physiology, and pathology of the nervous system are covered in lectures and demonstrations. Demonstrations and practice are given in the use of occupationl therapy, hydrotherapy, and massage.

The courses are open to graduates of approved schools and begin on the first of January, April, July, and October.

The legal title of the Corporation is

"The Massachusetts General Hospital."

All gifts and bequests, if without restriction, will be used as the Trustees deem most for the interest of the Corporation and its Beneficiaries.

The Hospital is greatly in need of additional funds. It will gratefully receive subscriptions for any amount.

Owing to the very general increase in the cost of running the Hospital, the subscribers to the Free Bed Fund are most urgently requested to increase their subscriptions to the Fund whenever possible.

ONE HUNDRED AND NINTH ANNUAL REPORT

FOR THE YEAR 1922

The Committee appointed by the Trustees to make the Annual Report submits the following:

The year ending February, 1923, has been one of ever-increasing work in the way of economy, always with the great end in view of also increasing our usefulness to the sick and suffering. Many radical reductions in our expenses have been effected, and, we believe, never at the loss of efficiency.

Our high standards of medicine, surgery, and nursing must be retained, but with the constantly increasing demand for higher salaries, all of which are almost prohibitive, our appeals to the public must be constant and urgent. Our Out-Patient Department is a source of pride and should receive more than a passing word, as it compares most favorably with similar departments in other hospitals, and the statistics attached to this report show the extent of its great work.

The reorganization of our Base Hospital, No. 6, which has been done at the request of the Surgeon-General of the United States, and which will now be called General Hospital, No. 6, is going forward actively under Lieutenant-Colonel James H. Means, who is now organizing his staff, which will soon be ready for any emergency.

We cannot urge too strongly the need of an intermediate hospital for the care of people of moderate means who wish to pay something, and also the building of a good nurses' home at the McLean Hospital. For several years both Colonel Washburn, the Director, and the Trustees have urged the building of an intermediate hospital where people of moderate salaries could be cared for — people who could not afford to pay the prices of private hospitals, and who would not care to be treated free, and could not afford to have a private nurse, even had they the conveniences to have one at their homes. Now the hospital has the land, but needs the money for the building, and it is hoped that people of means will see that the great want is supplied.

Until it is brought home to them, few people realize the importance of a trained nurse. In serious sickness, without their attendance the mortality would be very great. The right kind of nursing is often more important than the doctor, and in any case is a wonderful aid. The patients who have been in a hospital, and enjoyed the care of these devoted women, and the solace they are to the sick, appreciate their importance. A visit to the McLean Hospital will make anyone wonder at the sacrifice these nurses undergo in caring for the unfortunates there. The Trustees hope in the very near future to have a building for the nurses outside the building occupied by the patients, where the nurses can get a little rest and relaxation from their nerve-racking work. When this home is built it will make room for several more patients at the McLean.

The General Hospital Training School makes steady progress year by year and maintains its high standards of education in the nursing field. In these days of doubt and much questioning as to the future of nursing education, and the many exhaustive surveys of work all over the country, this School has kept closely in touch with the proposed changes as to length of training, admittance of trained attendants, and better legislation for the protection of the trained nurse.

A notable addition toward progress has been the publishing of the "History of the Massachusetts General Hospital Training School for Nurses," written by Miss Parsons, former superintendent, the sale of which will add to the Training School Endowment Fund which the entire School and its graduates have worked so eagerly to assist, in view of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the founding of the School, which will take place next year.

The spirit of loyalty to the School among its graduates is constantly increasing, and the annual graduation exercises are looked forward to by all, and are of increasing importance each year.

The Training School for Nurses at the McLean Hospital has been reorganized under a sub-committee of Trustees, and it is now under the management of Miss Sinclair. The School has greatly increased in size and quality. Better coöperation with the Training School at the General Hospital has been established, as well as with other hospital training schools; and the importance of all nurses taking at least a few months of training in the nursing of the mentally sick cannot be too strongly urged.

The work of the library departments in both the General Hospital and the McLean Hospital is in some ways probably unique. The distribution of books to the patients by means of the small wheel-trucks has been copied by many hospitals in other parts of the country, and enables patients to select for themselves such books as may attract them. These trucks are wheeled freely about the wards by the nurses, and are a source of great pleasure and comfort to the patients. The library at McLean Hospital is of so high a grade that it also has been used as a model for other hospitals; and its system of getting its books to those patients able to enjoy them, and the selection of books suitable to their mental capacity, has proved of greatest benefit.

The Medical Library is too well known to need more than a few words, but it has been so long and so ably handled by Mrs. Myers that it is hard to exaggerate its importance.

During the year the Hospital met with a great loss by the death of one of the Trustees, Mr. John Lowell. Since the organization of the Hospital the name of Lowell has figured in the good work of the organization, and no one of that name gave more unstintingly of his work than our late colleague; and it is to be hoped that in the not distant future the name will again appear on the roll of the Trustees, as it always has among its benefactors.

The good name of the Hospital, both branches, — the Massachusetts General at the West End of Boston, and the McLean Hospital at Waverley, — is dear to the heart of every citizen of the Commonwealth, who should be proud of the work of the Hospital in its more than one hundred years of usefulness. It is the regret of the Trustees that they cannot give more time than they do, yet hardly a day passes that these institutions are not visited by one or more of the Trustees outside of the official visits. Every week some Trustee visits the McLean Hospital; visits the patients; talks with many; examines the list of restraints to see that they are properly made; sees the patients when under restraint; and makes as good an investigation as it is possible for the ordinary layman to make. They feel their responsibility and try to meet it as best they can. The greatest possible care is taken in the selection of nurses and attendants — no easy matter for such nerve-racking work at comparatively small pay, when the demand for help of all kinds is so great. The same is true of the main Hospital on Blossom, Fruit, Charles, and Allen Streets. Here, under the Director, Colonel Washburn, stands one of the finest monuments to the generosity of Massachusetts; here those who can or who cannot pay are treated. No hospital has a finer record than this. We recommend the careful reading of the reports of the Director, the General Executive Committee, and the heads of the different departments in order to learn how the great work is going on.

Organized for the double purpose of giving proper care to the sick — rich and poor alike — also for the education of our doctors, the Hospital has done its work well. Never so well but it could do it better, had it the means. The old dread of hospitals, widespread in the early days of hospitals, with the coming generation will have entirely disappeared, and more applications come each year, as will be seen by examining the reports.

Some people think this Hospital a rich institution. It is rich in its history; in the good it has done and is doing; and in the unselfish devotion of the men and women who for more than a century have given time, professional skill and money for the good of their fellow-beings. A casual observer, too, might think upon examining our Treasurer's reports that we were very rich in money. Careful examination, however, would show that though the endowments look large, most of them are for special purposes; and not a dollar of these endowments can be spent for the general expenses of the Hospital. So that when the receipts from patients amount only to between 65 and 70 per cent of the cost of maintenance, many years the money from the permanent endowments does not carry sufficient income to meet the cost, and some of the Trustees have to get it from the charitable citizens of the community, who have never yet failed to respond.

It is with this faith, which we know is justified by the past record of donations, that the Trustees hope to see the intermediate house an accomplished fact, and also to see a home for convalescents built on the grounds at Waverley where there is plenty of land. The old wooden building located on the grounds there is utterly unfit, and there can be no question of the need of it. Many patients at the General Hospital could be discharged earlier had the Director a place to send them for a week or two to recuperate, and the Trustees hope soon to see established this very necessary adjunct to the Hospital.

We fear few people appreciate the value of printed reports. Like public documents issued by the Government, they are thrown aside as something for specialists only to examine. Yet the student of either class knows the vast store of knowledge they contain, nearly always absolutely reliable and which ought to be carefully read. So we appeal to the public to read the reports as issued, to get a proper appreciation of the great work done, and to open their eyes to their duty here at home. Here you would find the report of Dr. Packard, in charge at Waverley, showing you that always there are many cared for at much less than it costs, and that at present twenty-five per cent are cared for without any charge. An examination of the Treasurer's report would show you the constant needs of the Hospital to meet the deficit which varies in size every year but still remains a deficit. An examination of the Director's report would show the growth of the Out-Patient Department and the great work it is doing; so, too, the report of the General Executive Committee on the general work of the Hospital. Read the list of contributors to the General Fund, and you will find there all the names of the people who have made Massachusetts what she is today. It is such a list as taught the world to expect, whenever a casualty occurs, to see Massachusetts first to respond to the relief of those stricken, and never be disappointed. It is the record of a century that, when the needs are known, generous Massachusetts always responds. So we look confidently to the future, guided by the light of the past, to see the care of the poor, the education of skilled doctors, and the graduation of trained nurses go on increasing in continued benefaction to the community.

There never will be a time when this or any other hospital has enough money to meet the ever-increasing demands of growth and the extension of its service to suffering humanity, but we feel confident that the generous public will never fail to respond to these demands. Begging, even in so fine a cause, is never easy; but if the public and our many true friends will stand loyally by us, we can promise that the reputation of this Hospital will never suffer, and that it will stand as it has for over a hundred years, the foremost of its kind in this country.

Joseph H. O'Neil,

Sirs:

In accordance with your instructions, we have made an examination of the books and records of the Massachusetts General Hospital, comprising the records of the General Hospital, the McLean Hospital, and the Treasurer, for the year ending December 31, 1922, for the purpose of verifying the cash transactions and of reporting upon the financial condition of the hospital at December 31, 1922.

WE HEREBY CERTIFY:

1. That all funds shown to have been received have been accounted for, and that we have found vouchers or other satisfactory evidence of payment for all disbursements.
2. That the balance of cash on December 31, 1922, as shown by the books of the Hospitals and the Treasurer, amounting to $39,367.96, was on hand at that date.
3. That securities (par value $578,820.00) carried at a book value of $531,374.81 and annuities receivable, consisting of three policies amounting to $160,000.00, as shown by the books of the Treasurer, were certified by the New England Trust Company as being in its custody or in transit thereto on December 31, 1922.
4. That notes receivable in the custody of the Treasurer, amounting to $16,525.00, were examined by us, and that a note for $350,000.00 was certified by the New England Trust Company as being in its custody on December 31, 1922.

Respectfully submitted,

WARREN TRIENNIAL PRIZE

MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL HOSPITAL

THE Warren Triennial Prize was founded by the late Dr. J. Mason Warren in memory of his father, and his will provides that the accumulated interest of the fund shall be awarded every three years to the best dissertation considered worthy of a premium, on some subject in Physiology, Surgery, or Pathological Anatomy, the arbitrators being the General Executive Committee of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Theses submitted for competition for the year 1925 shall be on some special subject in Physiology, Surgery, or Pathology.

Dissertations must be in either the English, French, or German language, and MUST BE TYPEWRITTEN AND SUITABLY BOUND, so as to be easily handled. Work that has been published previously will not be considered in competition. The name of the writer must be enclosed in a sealed envelope, on which must be written a motto corresponding with one on the accompanying dissertation. The names of collaborators should appear with that of the writer in the sealed envelope.

Any clew given by the paper, or any action on the part of the writer which reveals his name before the award of the prize, will disqualify him from receiving it.

The amount of the prize for the year 1925 will be $500.

In case no dissertation is considered sufficiently meritorious, no award will be made. Essays will be received until April 15, 1925.

A high value will be placed on original work.

FREDERIC A. WASHBURN, M.D.,
Director.

DALTON SCHOLARSHIPS

THE income of this fund, amounting to $1,000 annually, is devoted to investigation in the science of medicine. The rules of the Trustees applicable to it are as follows:

ARTICLE 1. Candidates shall be nominated to the Board of Trustees by the General Executive Committee with their recommendations. They shall be either internes of the General Hospital or male graduates of a regular American Medical College.

ARTICLE 2. The nature of the work in medical investigation proposed to be prosecuted by each candidate shall be designated by the candidate.

ARTICLE 3. The Scholarship year shall begin September 15. Scholars shall work not less than ten hours per week, from the last Wednesday in September to the last Wednesday in June; and if a scholar performs a part only of this prescribed work, he shall be entitled to a proportionate part only of the income.

ARTICLE 4. The results of work of scholars shall appertain to the Hospital, and when made public the name of the scholar shall accompany the publication, but no publication shall be made unless approved by the General Executive Committee.

ARTICLE 5. When the income is insufficient, appointments for the year may be omitted.

ARTICLE 6. Any income not used shall be cumulative and not added to the principal.

ARTICLE 7. Scholars shall be eligible for renomination and reappointment.

Further information may be had by applying to the Director of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

REPORT OF THE LADIES' VISITING COMMITTEE

The Ladies' Visiting Committee feel that they have increased the scope of their work the past year by greater coöperation with the Social Service, and in extending the Occupational Therapy, which is now recognized by the physicians of the Hospital as often an important factor in convalescence.

The value of the Social Service work is, of course, well known, but the importance of the Occupational Therapy is less well understood. As an illustration, the case of a young man may be cited who was taught basket work while in the Hospital, so that he was able to support himself during his convalescence at home until he could resume his usual occupation. Funds in addition to the contributions of this Committee are greatly needed to extend the work.

The Christmas celebration of last year was repeated, with a tree in each of the eighteen wards, including a suitable gift for each patient. This was again made possible through the efforts and generosity of Miss Edith Fisher, and with the assistance and contributions of a small committee working with her.

The Warren Library, in which the Committee feel an especial interest, now contains 4,457 books; 435 are in foreign languages. This comprises history, biography, a few science primers, as well as poetry and fiction. There were nearly 9,000 issues of books to patients and employees during the past year. This does not include special requests from students for certain technical books obtained by the Librarian from the Public Library. The Library is often used by convalescent patients, who find pleasure in looking over the magazines and in selecting their own books. These visitors are always made welcome and assisted by Mrs. Jewett, the Librarian.

The Ladies' Visiting Committee feel that their best efforts, and what is most satisfying to them, cannot be enumerated in any report — their visits throughout the wards to friendless patients and to those who need sympathy and a helping hand.

CHARLOTTE S. SPRAGUE,
Secretary.

REPORT OF THE ADVISORY COMMITTEE ON THE GENERAL HOSPITAL TRAINING SCHOOL

The Advisory Committee on the Training School for Nurses have carried on their work as usual. Eighty-one nurses have been admitted in the year, and their course has been followed by the various visitors. The fortnightly teas given by the ladies for the nurses make a very pleasant contact with them, and forty to fifty nurses come each time with evident pleasure.

One great help has been given to the nurses this year by the Trustees, in putting into service nine "ward helpers," who assist in the ward work, and leave the nurses more time for their duties to their patients.

We regret very much that the Children's Hospital has withdrawn from their affiliation of many years with us, but their housing provision having improved, they can now exchange affiliation with the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. We shall miss their ten nurses.

The "History of the Training School of the Massachusetts General Hospital" prepared by Miss Parsons, our former superintendent, is now for sale at Whitcomb & Barrows', 30 Huntington Avenue, and will be found to be an interesting record of fifty years of service. The Alumnæ Association has done devoted work in helping to raise the money to finance this publication.

The Endowment Fund of the Nurses' Alumnæ Association has been increased by valiant efforts to $14,000. Bazaars, sales, concerts, and nurses' gifts have realized through many years' work this handsome sum.

A new Bill was drafted to go before the Legislature for better provision for the registration of nurses and licensing of attendants, but owing to the presence of opposition was given up until public opinion is more aroused to the necessity of such action.

The Committee continues its work of visiting and coöperation with Miss Johnson, the Superintendent of Nurses, and finds its work of constant value in many ways.

ELLEN T. VAUGHAN,
Secretary pro tem. of the Ladies' Committee.

BULFINCH BUILDING, MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL HOSPITAL

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR OF THE GENERAL HOSPITAL

Gentlemen: I herewith submit my Fifteenth Annual Report.

The title of the office which I have the honor to hold has been changed during the year from that of Resident Physician to Director. The reason for this was that the custom of other hospitals has been to give the title of Resident Physician to a young man with duties quite different from those which appertain to this office. The title from the beginning until 1859 was Superintendent; from 1859 to 1921, Resident Physician. It is now Director.

The Hospital has lost during the year the services of Dr. Nathaniel W. Faxon, First Assistant Director, who has been made Director of the University Hospital, University of Rochester, Rochester, New York. Dr. Faxon was with us a little over two years only, but he had impressed upon us the value of his personality and services. We are sorry to lose him, but glad for his promotion. Dr. George A. MacIver has been appointed First Assistant Director in Dr. Faxon's place.

The most important event of the year was the establishment of the Third Surgical Service, to be headed by a nearly full-time paid chief who is, at the same time, to be a Professor of Surgery at the Harvard Medical School. This service is to lay special emphasis upon research and teaching of medicine. Dr. Edward P. Richardson has been chosen to head this service. This gives us on the surgical side a similar service to that established some years ago on the medical service, which has been so successful.

There have been certain small building changes. A new dining room has been arranged for the maids and the men of the housekeeping department. It has been possible to get this space by taking a row of sleeping rooms in the Domestic Building on the same floor as the kitchen, tearing out the partitions and turning this space into a dining room. This dining room is served from the kitchen, which has, in turn, been enlarged by taking into its area the space occupied formerly by an air and light well in the center of the building. These changes, with certain others in the serving room, have made it possible to free the men's dining room from overcrowding, and to give it to orderlies and ambulance drivers only. We have also abandoned the cafeteria for women in the basement of the Out-Patient Department. The added space in the kitchen was much needed and will help our work greatly.

The Surgical Laboratory has been moved from the Surgical Building to the old glass-rooms, so-called, which were connected with the old Operating Building. A temporary passageway has been made between the Surgical Building and these new quarters for the Surgical Laboratory. The Orthopædic Operating Room has been moved from the basement of Ward I to the room vacated by the Surgical Laboratory. This brings the Orthopædic Surgery up to the Surgical Building, a plan which has many advantages over the old arrangement.

The following are major needs of the Hospital:

1. A considerable increase in endowment.
2. A new building for the General Hospital to properly house the X-ray Department, and wards for certain medical and surgical departments which are inadequately provided with beds.
3. A building for patients of moderate means.
4. A building for medical laboratories and sanitary towers.
5. A connecting building between the Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary and the Out-Patient Department of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

6. Quarters for men.
7. A country branch.

I would emphasize again the great need in the community for the third project on this list — a building for patients of moderate means. The only reason that number two — "a new building for the General Hospital to properly house the X-ray Department, and wards for certain medical and surgical departments which are inadequately provided with beds" — is placed ahead of number three, is because in order to accomplish number three certain existing wards would necessarily be torn down, and it is felt that these must be replaced in order that the Hospital may properly function to the existing capacity of its charity wards before other beds are added. I again appeal for a building for patients of moderate means, and I will use almost the same words that I have used for several years: A building for patients of moderate means at this Hospital would be a great boon to the community. The rich and the poor have access to the best modern hospitals, and have within their reach groups of physicians skilled in the different special branches of medicine and surgery. They can enter hospitals with all the modern laboratories and appliances needed in these days for successful diagnosis and treatment. The great group of those whose breadwinner is on a moderate or small salary is barred from the General Hospital, because the physicians and surgeons of the staff give their services to patients unable to pay professional fees. The charges necessary in the Phillips House and the fees of the physicians are too great a burden to be carried by a man earning a small salary. The conclusion is that people of moderate means when ill do not have as good a chance to get well as should be given to them. If some benefactor would give the Hospital a building for this purpose, it would enable us to provide low-priced rooms where self-respecting people of small means could come, pay a moderate professional fee, and have their diseases studied and treated under the conditions required by modern medicine.

A few days before writing this report a story appeared in an evening paper stating that the Massachusetts General Hospital was about to erect a building for the purpose just described. The first time that the Director was down town after this story appeared, he was addressed by two clerks in stores, and by a barber, who told him how delighted they were that the Hospital was about to take this step, of which they felt the need so greatly. I believe this is a very great community need, which should be met as soon as the Hospital can possibly get the money.

A glance at the tables which follow shows that the General Hospital has had in the year 1922 the largest number of patients' days in its history — an increase of 7,443 over 1921. Reference to Table No. 1 shows a marked decrease in the number of full and part pay patients and an increase in the free patients. For this reason the receipts at the General Hospital are less than in 1921. The expenses of the General Hospital have increased due to the larger number of patients' days, the gradual raising of the level of prices during the last six months, and to a considerably larger stock on hand at the end of the year. Other causes of the additional expense are the forming of the Third Surgical Service with its paid staff, and the addition of ward helpers to relieve the nurses of some of their non-nursing duties. Both of these steps were taken after long consideration, and because of our conviction that they were necessary for the proper progress of the Hospital. The Phillips House had fewer patients than last year. Its decrease in receipts was offset by a corresponding decrease in expenditures. The Out-Patient Department shows no very marked change.

*These figures are obtained by taking the amount of money received for board of patients in public wards, and dividing that figure by the full rate of board prevalent at that time. This gives the number of days of paying patients, reckoned as though they were paying full rates. By subtracting this figure from the total of ward patients' days, we get the number of free days. Of the 122,527 patients' days at the General Hospital 63,976 are free.

There have been two outstanding developments of the year 1922, namely, the employment of ward helpers, and the establishment of a special course of lectures, classes, and clinics for the students coming to this school for affiliation.

The continued development of the hospital and of the school had increased the demands upon the student body to such an extent that the student personnel could no longer carry the volume of work allotted to it. The most logical adjustment was one that would increase the nursing power of the students. This was done by delegating to a group of ward helpers duties which could be performed by individuals less specially trained than pupil nurses.

The incoming affiliations have changed. The Choate Memorial Hospital has withdrawn its affiliation in order to make one where pediatrics may be obtained, and the Children's Hospital has transferred its students to the school of its neighbor hospital, the Peter Bent Brigham. The present group of students coming from McLean Hospital are here for eight months instead of six as formerly.

Two of the developments in the course of instruction have been a lengthened period in the Pediatric Department, and the authorization of an elementary course in bodily mechanics.

During the year 1922 all students had the Schick test and, when necessary, were immunized. It is interesting to record that there has been no diphtheria in the school during the year.

A generous contribution to the hospital and to the school was that of the Surgical Dressings Committee. This committee is made up of lay-women, who have continued their war work of making surgical dressings. They have in the past year made over ninety-six thousand dressings for this hospital.

The alumnæ of the Training School have made substantial additions to the Endowment Fund, and contributed seventy per cent of the funds necessary for the publication of the History of the Massachusetts General Hospital Training School for Nurses, written by Miss Parsons. This History is now on sale at Whitcomb and Barrows, Huntington Chambers, Boston, Mass.

It is desired to call attention to the fact that plans are now under way to fittingly commemorate, during the Autumn of 1923, the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of this school.

Superintendent of Nurses.

MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL HOSPITAL TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES

GENERAL STATEMENT. The circular of information giving a detailed survey of the course of instruction, and of requirements for admission may be obtained upon request. Personal applications may be made between ten and twelve o'clock on Wednesday mornings, and at other times by appointment. The length of the course is three years, which includes the preliminary period of four months.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION. Full high-school education or actual equivalent. There is no arbitrary age limit. Acceptance depends upon education, general health, and personal qualifications.

EXPENSE OF COURSE. The tuition fee is $50 and breakage deposit $10. The students will be provided with board, lodging, and laundry throughout the course; also with required text-books. Students will be required to provide uniforms during the preliminary period, but after acceptance their uniforms will be furnished by the Hospital.

SCHOLARSHIP. Six scholarships of $100 each are awarded annually to students doing satisfactory work and needing financial aid.

HOURS OF DUTY—VACATION. A fifty-two hour week is established for both day and night duty. The annual vacation period is three weeks.

PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE. All students obtain experience in general medical and surgical nursing, obstetrical nursing, and care of sick children; some students obtain experience in orthopædics, eye, ear, nose, and throat, and care of skin diseases. There is also experience in operating-room technique, and there are several desirable electives.

THEORETICAL INSTRUCTION. The theoretical instruction for the three-year course is presented in tabulated form.

THE SPECIAL FIVE-YEAR COURSE. A special five-year course is offered in affiliation with Simmons College, which entitles the pupil to the degree of B.S. from Simmons College, the diploma of the Massachusetts General Hospital Training School for Nurses, and a certificate of Public Health Nursing. Further information relative to this course may be obtained from the Chairman of the Department of Public Health Nursing, 561 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, Mass.

REPORT OF THE GENERAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

THE aims and problems of the Hospital do not differ materially from year to year. The essential aim is to render the best possible service to the sick by all approved methods; the essential problem is to find the means whereby this may be accomplished. As emphasized in our previous report, this Hospital stands for the harmonious development of many related fields of medicine, each of which must be expected to make certain financial demands if it is to attain its complete development. To harmonize these individual demands for the good of the institution as a whole, remains the outstanding task with which the Executive Committee, in an advisory capacity, is concerned. This problem must become increasingly complicated year by year, if the present policy of subdivision of existing clinics and departments is continued. Since it is our conviction that progress lies in this method, and that the final function of a great hospital is best subserved by such a widening of its activities, those interested in further growth must appreciate that, quite apart from higher prices, the diversified needs require greater material resources. The development, for example, of treatment by X-ray demands a costly equipment, if the Hospital is to keep pace with this branch of therapeutics. Various other forms of physical therapy are justly demanding recognition, and behind all the equipment must be specially trained men and women capable of using it properly and to the best advantage. At every point there are needs; and since the resources are, obviously, not sufficient to meet them all, a most discriminating judgment must be exercised in apportioning wisely those which are available.

The activities of the Hospital are indicated by the following reports of the general departments of Medicine and Surgery, and by those of certain of the allied but independently functioning special departments.

Medical Services

The activities of the Medical Services during the past year have been concerned with the care of the patients, with teaching and with investigation. The last of these calls for special comment. The activities of the medical laboratories have steadily increased since their inauguration a few years ago. The appointment of Dr. James L. Stoddard, as Chemist (September, 1922), promises further coöperation among those working in the laboratories. Since April, 1922, Mr. Gilbert Adair of the University of Cambridge, England, has been engaged on certain physiological problems with clinical applications, under the general guidance of Professor L. J. Henderson, and in coöperation with Dr. A. V. Bock, a medical resident, recently returned from a period of research in England. Dr. Bock has also continued his studies, stimulated by a trip with the Anglo-American Peruvian expedition to the high Andes of Peru. Other investigations are as follows: Dr. J. H. Means, basal metabolism; Dr. Stanley Cobb, problems of paralysis agitans and epilepsy, assisted by Dr. W. G. Lennox; Dr. F. T. Lord, the bacteriology of pneumonia, and its relation to patients as observed in the wards; Dr. Chester M. Jones, continued study of metabolism of blood and bile pigments. The medical laboratories have received financial help from a number of sources; among others, the Proctor Fund of the Harvard Medical School, and Dr. William N. Bullard for work on the thyroid. Dr. Harold N. Segal, of McGill University, has been holding the Walcott fellowship since 1922. Dr. Fritz Talbot, working in cramped quarters, has coöperated with the medical laboratories, continuing various studies in metabolism and applied chemistry.

Dr. P. D. White has been active in his work on certain phases of heart disease and the efficacy of selected methods of treatment. Among Dr. White's other accomplishments are the development of a Cardiac Clinic in the Out-Patient Department, furtherance of the Boston Association for the Prevention and Relief of Heart Disease, and guidance of the work of clinical and research students. Finally, Dr. F. M. Rackermann, in connection with the medical laboratories, has continued his work on anaphylaxis. Although the organization has been somewhat loose, the relation of these workers in various fields has been most satisfactory.

During the past year certain changes have been made with the view of closer coöperation between the work in the wards of the Hospital and in the Out-Patient Department. It is too early to speak definitely of the actual value of these changes. Perhaps the most acute problem of the medical services is the maintenance of an adequate and contented staff in the Medical Out-Patient Department. The statistics show the unevenness of the daily number of patients coming for diagnosis and treatment. At the present time, the careful and thorough work for which the Hospital stands, and which is carried out on ordinary days, may be absolutely impossible on certain days, because of an abrupt, unanticipated influx of patients. One important factor beyond human control in determining the number of patients is the weather.

The development of out-patient classes for special types of patients has been of very great interest. These special clinics have been a decided success. The Diabetic Clinic under Dr. F. C. Brigham may be cited as an example. On September 26, 1922, it carried on its rolls a total of 918 active patients. This Clinic illustrates the ever-present problem of keeping abreast of medical advance because we now have the new diabetic therapeutic agent, "insulin," which the Medical Services are carefully studying in the wards of the Hospital. It is likely with the further development of this agent that considerable readjustment of the Diabetic Clinic will be necessary in order to utilize "insulin" or some kindred product for out-patients.

The special clinics have also somewhat complicated the problem of securing a staff. Formerly, the Out-Patient Department was conducted by a very few men. There were six physicians on service in the wards, and six in the Out-Patient Department, a total of twelve. The young men striving for a place and recognition were perhaps graduate assistants in the Out-Patient Department, or perhaps did work in the Pathological Laboratory. The annual report of last year shows the number of men connected with the medical services, exclusive of the special medical services, to be 41. A number of these men are very largely engaged in special clinics for tuberculosis, diabetes, heart disease, gastric diseases, etc. Furthermore, instead of the occasional worker in the laboratory, there are now very active medical laboratories where some of the junior men give a large amount of their time, and some of them all of their time, A young man may now elect to serve the Hospital in a full-time capacity as resident, over a period of years. Consequently, the increased number of opportunities for the younger men in the Hospital itself, and the increased number of positions on what might be called the regular staff of the Hospital, have raised the problem of providing staffs for these added activities. The solution of this problem will probably, in any event, be temporary, since medicine itself continues to change so rapidly.

Each year the medical services lose one or more valued members of the staff, who go to other clinics to take important positions. During the past year, Dr. Richard M. Smith resigned from the Children's Department to take an important post in the Children's Hospital. A number of the junior members of the medical staff took positions of much greater responsibility elsewhere.

Dermatological Department

Dr. Charles J. White has developed the plan of testing new therapeutic methods to determine their worth, and this year special attention has been given to the study of "rhus" antitoxin. Numerous researches have been undertaken and carried to conclusion by members of the staff. Dr. C. G. Lane has been working both in the Clinic and in the X-Ray Department with a view to perfecting X-ray treatment. Now that a Radium Clinic is to be established, experience with the X-ray is of increasing interest. A common fault in any special clinic or department is that it becomes isolated from the rest of the Hospital. In the X-Ray Department a plan has been worked out by which the general and special clinics are kept in close and constant touch with each other, which might well be applied to the Radium Clinic.

South Medical Department

A closer affiliation has been established between this department and the Boston Lying-In Hospital, in prenatal and post-natal work. Better coöperation has been brought about with the Dermatological Department by an interchange of assistants. Work has been begun to determine anything of value to be gained from skin tests on patients who are to receive arsphenamine or who have shown reaction following its use. Further contributions have been made to the pathological collection of dental casts. The Department is still coöperating with the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary in the treatment of interstitial keratitis, and the work on neurosyphilis is being continued. Finally, plans are being perfected to study heart conditions in all cases of iritis with special reference to the so-called "rheumatic" group.

Neurological Department

For several years a strong effort has been made to integrate the work of this department more completely with that of the general Medical and Surgical Services, as well as with the various special departments. Gratifying progress has been made in this attempt largely through the generous and willing coöperation of the several visiting and house staffs. For the first time, this past year a member of the Neurological Department has been designated to devote his entire time for a month to consultation, and to the various problems of neurological character which the house cases present. This has required from two to three hours each day, which is still inadequate to meet satisfactorily the demand. A further development of this type of coöperative work is desirable. Through the efforts of Dr. J. B. Ayer, and the help of the Pathological Department, a laboratory for the study of cerebrospinal fluid, and the beginnings of a collection of gross specimens, have been established, which promise much, both for research and teaching. It is gratifying that an increasing number of advanced students are seeking instruction in this department.

The Industrial Clinic

About March 20th the Clinic was installed in new quarters constructed in the Out-Patient Building. There are provided two examining rooms, each with two dressing booths attached, a room for the reception of patients and the filing of clinical records, a room serving as office and library, and a laboratory. With the improvement in clinic facilities the staff was enabled to conduct the study of patients with a thoroughness not previously possible. The Clinic during 1922 received 1,998 new cases referred from the admitting line for temporary study; 103 cases referred from other clinics, of which 55 were subsequently transferred to the Clinic; and 37 cases admitted directly to the Industrial Clinic; a total of 2,138 new cases. In the nine months' period, April 1st to December 30th, including 227 days upon which the Out-Patient Department was open, there were 1,976 visits made to the Clinic, 1,483 by patients referred from the admitting line for temporary study, 462 visits by old patients, and 31 by patients referred from other clinics. The present staff consists of three physicians, two full-time and one part-time, two full-time research assistants and a full-time secretary. The entire cost of operation of the Clinic, beyond the provision of quarters and hospital supplies, is borne by the Department of Industrial Hygiene of the Harvard School of Public Health.

Surgical Services

The most important change in the Surgical Department has been the introduction of the Third Surgical Service, with Dr. E. P. Richardson as Chief, on full time. The number of beds on this Service has not yet been fully determined, but consists now of twenty beds in the upper wards, and a somewhat smaller number in the lower wards. Although these beds are lost to the two general Services, the house staff and the house officers, by extra instruction and a more intensive study and supervision of operations, will doubtless profit by the change. Although the number of special assignments may have to be modified, owing to this diminution in beds, it is the opinion of the Surgical Executive Committee that the substantial contributions to surgery have been chiefly made through these special studies.

The special Thyroid Clinic, in which internists, surgeons, and radiologists work in close coöperation, has again demonstrated its value. In consequence, groups of thyroid diseases have become defined and indications for treatment made clearer, the mortality has diminished, and complete cures have become more frequent and quicker. The follow-up system has worked most successfully in improved cases, which are traced and persuaded to have further X-ray or operative treatment.

The Fracture Service, as established in 1920, with surgeons from the general surgical and orthopædic staffs, has continued its work in harmony, and we believe with benefit to the patients, the general surgical staff, and the Orthopædic Department. A conference on fractures was held at the Hospital in April, which was attended by twenty-seven men from various parts of the country, as far west as Pittsburgh and Chicago, who are interested in fractures. A syllabus of the treatment of the more frequent fractures was agreed upon and has been published in the "Archives of Surgery."

During the year the orthopædic operating room has been placed in the surgical pavilion, in the room previously occupied by the Surgical Pathological Laboratory, which has temporarily been removed to the old "glass-room." Both the Orthopædic and the Surgical Services have thereby been brought in closer contact. The work of the Emergency Ward, in charge of particular men for certain periods, has been both prompt and efficient. The technique for blood transfusion has been still further improved, and in a few cases of hemorrhage and shock has undoubtedly saved lives.

It is our belief that a short wave length X-ray apparatus with high power should be established in the Hospital for the most modern treatment of deep, inoperable carcinoma. The advantage of this method is that only one period of treatment is required, instead of repeated treatments at three-week intervals. Such widespread changes, however, may be brought about in the body tissues by such intensive X-ray treatment that the patient must be admitted to a hospital bed before and after treatment for study and after-care.

A regular visit is made once a week of the three Surgical Services, under charge of the surgeon on duty, and attended by other members of the Services, besides the house officers and medical students. After the visit, the cases are frankly discussed; all the cases of infection are inquired into; all the fatalities are critically analyzed. This visit is particularly valuable for the instruction of the house officers, since each man reports the case of which he had charge. Voluntary instruction and voluntary clinics are offered by Dr. C. A. Porter, Dr. E. P. Richardson, and Dr. Channing Simmons and their associates, the attendance at which has averaged about twenty-five third-year students.

Third Surgical Service

The new Surgical Service has begun to function under the designation of the "Third Surgical Service," and has been organized for the present as follows: The visiting staff consists of a Chief of Service who is on duty throughout the year on a full-time basis, and two members of the Surgical Department of the Hospital who serve for alternate periods of six months. The house staff consists of a resident surgeon, two house officers, and a technician. The house officers serve for one year, and it is the intention of the Service to consider as applicants only those who are graduate internes of a hospital, The present house officers are graduates of this Hospital, one of the West Surgical Service, and one of the Orthopædic Department. This organization has proved sufficient for the immediate needs of the Service. The first patient was admitted on September 20, 1922, and the Service has been in active operation for about two months. The immediate problem was to make sure that patients admitted to the Service received adequate care and study. The next was to see that the clinical material was utilized as fully as possible for teaching purposes. Both these conditions seem in process of satisfactory solution. In spite of the fact that the activities of the new Service have necessarily limited the scope of the old, the new Service has met nothing but a spirit of coöperation.

Orthopædic Department

The resignation of Dr. Robert B. Osgood, Chief of the Orthopædic Department, has been a serious loss not only to his department, but to the Hospital at large. His executive ability, enthusiasm, and loyalty to the Hospital made possible the upbuilding of an important clinic and an increased coöperation with other departments of the Hospital, particularly the Surgical Services. He was largely instrumental in developing the so-called Fracture Service, to which allusion has been made in the general surgical report.

Laryngological Department

The beds reserved for throat diseases at the Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary have relieved the congestion of the operating room at the General Hospital, and made it possible to treat emergency cases better, and other cases more quickly. By throwing two rooms into one, a ward of thirteen beds has been made, allowing a separation of the ear and throat cases.

Since radium became available at this Hospital, cases of malignant disease of the nose and throat which were formerly sent to the Huntington Hospital are now treated with radium as house cases at the Infirmary. Recently in cases of cancer of the esophagus, the introduction of radium by means of the fluoroscope was begun, first at the General Hospital, but now at the Infirmary, using the fluoroscope recently furnished by the Administration to the X-ray Room of the Infirmary. The study of cardiospasm, in which Dr. Mosher has been engaged for a number of years, should benefit greatly by this new piece of apparatus.

Dr. H. P. Mosher, Chief of Service, has continued his anatomical studies on the esophagus. The number of lachrymal sac cases operated on is steadily increasing. This work bids fair to settle a question which has long been a matter of dispute among ophthalmologists. There is still a very active demand for the graduate courses given by members of the Department.

Genito-Urinary Department

The size of this Clinic has remained large and its growth has been satisfactory. The total number of visits has been 22,191, of which 22.9 per cent were women. From the statistics it appears that while venereal diseases do not seem to be disappearing, the increase in the number of new male and female cases is not great. On the other hand, it is clear that the urological Clinic has shown a very satisfactory growth in both departments, especially among the women and children. The growth of the female clinic is ascribed to the fact that we have had ample and efficient service, and that every patient has received sympathetic and particular attention. During the year a technician has been installed.

Roentgenological Department

The activity of this Department is shown in the fact that from January 1, 1922 to November 30, 1922, 14,154 cases were examined and 21,661 treatments given, including radium treatments. Dr. G. W. Holmes writes in part as follows:

"The number of obscure conditions requiring complete radiographic studies has continued to increase. These difficult cases require the attention of a trained medical man, and have increased considerably more than the simpler cases which may be handled largely by the technicians. We have been fortunate in being able to meet this increase with a voluntary staff. The amount of floor space allowed the department has been doubled during the year, and we have been given some new apparatus. The arrangement of the rooms is unsatisfactory, but probably as good as can be had in the present building. In the treatment of malignant disease by radiation, it is highly desirable to have rays of very short wave lengths. Such apparatus has been developed during the past five years, and is now fairly well standardized and available."

It is desirable that apparatus of this sort should be installed in the Hospital.

Dental Department

This Department has treated in all, 2,726 patients during the year, an increase of nearly fifty per cent over the preceding year. Inasmuch as dental cases are not admitted as such, the Department receives its patients from other clinics, and especially from the Laryngological Department, where nose, throat and mouth operations are performed under the same anesthesia. Impressions and models of typical Hutchinsonian teeth have been made for the South Medical Department, which are kept as records. Consultations in the Hospital as well as in the Eye and Ear Infirmary constitute a considerable proportion of the work of this Department. In view of its general growth, Dr. L. M. S. Miner, Chief of Service, recommends that the clinic days be increased.

Occupational Therapy and Warren Library

The work in Occupational Therapy has been extended by Miss Frances Hayward and is now directed by Miss Isabelle L. Whittier. Twenty-nine volunteers have helped at various times. New methods have been introduced, particularly in the children's ward, adding to the contentment of the patients, and rendering them more amenable to doctors and nurses. It is desirable that there should be a paid director to extend this type of work throughout the Hospital.

The activities of the Warren Library have continued in satisfactory fashion. The number of books distributed was 3,687, of which 293 were used in the Phillips House. Inasmuch as the total number of books in the library on December 1, 1922, was 4,457, the use to which it is put is sufficiently apparent. A gift of $20.00 has been made anonymously for the purchase of books for young children.

Consultation Clinic

The Consultation Clinic, reopened in April, 1920, after having been closed during the war, has shown a healthy growth both in the number of patients examined, and in the list of physicians making use of the facilities. The clientele is now scattered through the New England States and even beyond, some patients having been referred from physicians in other States as well as Canada. One patient, a physician, came to Boston from Brazil on his way to Europe, in order to be examined. Most of the physicians who used the Clinic in 1920 are continuing to seek aid in certain cases, and numerous helpful criticisms have made the Clinic of greater service to the community. Acting upon suggestions from consulting physicians, an effort has been made to make the reports as complete as possible, and to arrange for subsequent examinations and reports in certain important or doubtful cases, the value of the service rendered to the physician being correspondingly increased. Promptness in mailing reports is being emphasized, and certain changes in the history forms have been made to facilitate checking up data desired by the examiner, who has been promptly notified when his case is ready for report. The result is that, with the exception of those cases requiring X-ray or other examinations for which an appointment must be made at the patient's convenience, reports are mailed within three days of the examination, and in many cases on the day the last laboratory report is received by the Consultation Clinic secretary. A change has been made in the method of selecting a staff, so that now one member of the medical staff is made Chief Consultant for the period of his service. He selects his associates, if he has any preference. He consults with all visiting physicians, and determines what consultants shall be asked to examine a patient. On the whole, greater interest is being shown by the hospital staff, more of whom served in the Clinic this year than last. Ophthalmologists and aurists have been dropped from the list of consultants, because of the impossibility of securing consultants in these departments on account of the conflict between clinic hours and their office hours. Assistance in these cases has sometimes been obtained from the Eye and Ear Infirmary, but in most cases simply attention has been called to the desirability of such an examination. Acknowledgment should be made to the physicians conducting the Consultation Clinic who are inadequately remunerated for the time given, and whose services to the Hospital must, therefore, often be regarded as actual sacrifice.

REPORT OF THE PATHOLOGICAL LABORATORY

The usual routine bacteriological, chemical, microscopical, and pathological examinations in connection with the study of diseases of the patients in the Hospital have been carried on as in previous years.

During the year, 168 autopsies were performed in the laboratory, and the post-mortem appearances recorded. Among these were 10 from the Eye and Ear Infirmary. The percentage of autopsies among the deaths occurring in the Hospital is 32 per cent, as compared with 29 per cent in 1921.

Of microscopical preparations from autopsy material, 1,504 have been prepared and filed during the year, as compared with 1,390 in 1921.

Reports rendered for bacteriological examinations for the micro-organisms of diphtheria, typhoid fever and other diseases number 2,225. There were 3,260 in 1921. A large amount of bacterial culture media has also been supplied to the Medical Laboratory.

For testing various specimens for the presence of tubercle bacilli, 132 guinea pigs were used. In 1921 the number was 255.

Reports of gross and microscopical appearances and the pathological diagnosis of 1,752 specimens from the medical and surgical clinics were rendered. From this material 2,422 microscopical preparations were made and filed. The corresponding figures for 1921 were 1,819 and 2,300.

The number of specimens of blood tested for evidence of infection with syphilis is 15,612, as compared with 15,400 in 1921; 28 specimens of blood were also tested for evidence of infection with tenia echinococcus.

The laboratory for the study of the cerebro-spinal fluid, under the direction of Dr. James B. Ayer, has increased its work during the past year. The purpose of this laboratory is to perform certain routine examinations, such as the colloidal gold test and quantitative estimation of protein, the latter test elaborated in this Department; also to carry out certain special tests on selected cases, such as the mastic test, quantitative sugar, etc. Emphasis is laid, however, on a close coöperation between the clinical departments and the laboratory, which results in a more intelligent interpretation of results in this field of diagnosis.

The following examinations have been made:

Total protein estimation	1,375 fluids
Gold chloride tests	908 fluids
Gum mastic tests	374 fluids
Quantitative sugar determination ..	228 fluids

Occasional examinations for cell differentiation, urea, uric acid, creatinin, non-protein nitrogen, chlorides.

The treatment of patients with bacterial vaccines has been continued by Dr. A. E. Steele, and during the year 127 were so treated, as compared with 156 in 1921.

The facilities and material offered by the Laboratory for the instruction of physicians and students of the Harvard Medical School in bacteriology, pathology, and diagnosis by laboratory methods have continued to be extensively utilized.

The weekly conferences and discussions of clinico-pathological aspects of hospital cases, conducted in the amphitheatre of the Laboratory before fourth-year students and others, have been continued during the academic year. These exercises have been conducted by Drs. Oscar Richardson and R. C. Cabot. The attendance has been good, and much interest has been manifested.

The courses in medicine and pathology for practitioners, given by Drs. W. H. Smith and Oscar Richardson, have been well attended and continue to be highly successful.

The clinico-pathological conferences, for the third-year class, on alternate Fridays, have been continued by Drs. R. C. Cabot and J. H. Wright.

Instruction in pathology to sections of second-year men, and special courses to twenty-two students of the Harvard Medical School, have been given by Drs. J. H. Wright and Oscar Richardson.

Dr. H. F. Hartwell has given weekly demonstrations in pathological anatomy to fourth-year students, and has continued the collection and preservation of specimens for teaching purposes.

The room in the laboratory for students in clinical medicine has continued to be used by them during their courses.

Of special studies carried on during the year, the following may be mentioned:

Dr. W. H. Smith has continued his studies of bacteria in pneumonia and endocarditis.

Dr. J. B. Ayer has worked on special subjects in neuropathology.

Dr. A. M. Greenwood has been occupied with the study of skin pathology.

Dr. J. H. Wright has worked on methods of demonstrating spirochaetes in the tissues, and on special subjects in histopathology.

Respectfully submitted,

J. Homer Wright, M.D., S.D.,
Pathologist.

THE Medical Library of the Hospital at the end of its seventy-fifth year!

In 1847 the members of the visiting staff began to realize the importance of having medical books close at hand for ready reference in connection with patients, and a small medical library was then started with the purchase of a few standard works on medicine and surgery, and the subscription to such periodicals as the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, the American Journal of Medical Sciences, the London Lancet, the Edinburgh Medical Journal, and possibly a few others.

Eleven years later the library of Dr. John G. Treadwell, of Salem, Mass., numbering some 2,500 volumes, was received as a bequest, together with a small fund providing for its care. The donation contained some rare and valuable books, and all the best medical and surgical literature of the day. With this gift added to the medical library already started, the Treadwell Library came into existence, and a suitable room was prepared for it. This room is now occupied as the sorting room of the Hospital laundry. For about forty-four years it remained here, gradually accumulating material, and becoming more and more a necessity to the slowly increasing hospital staff. Dr. Benjamin S. Shaw, the then Resident Physician of the Hospital, became its first "guardian and librarian, at a salary of one hundred dollars." He classified and numbered the books, and made the first card catalogue. He collected and had bound all the available annual reports of the Hospital from its beginning; and also he gathered together many publications relating to its history and had them bound. Many a time has the present librarian had cause to be grateful to Dr. Shaw for his far-seeing mind. In 1896 the library was moved to the second floor of the Bulfinch Building, to the rooms now occupied by Ward H-2.

As the years passed and the value of the medical library in the Hospital became more and more evident, it was decided to employ a librarian whose full time should be divided between the library and the care of the clinical records. In 1897 the present librarian was appointed. The library then contained 4,872 volumes, and 28 periodicals were regularly received. No attempt had been made at a collection of reprints, or of the annual reports of other hospitals. The use of the books was confined exclusively to the visiting staff, and no one else ever dared open the door of the room. It used to be called the "sanctum sanctorum," and even the newly appointed librarian was wont to quake inwardly at some of the glances that were cast upon her—for, at first, she really "was not wanted." But those days soon passed. Gradually more liberty was allowed, and house officers were permitted to use the library, afternoons, after the last staff member had taken his departure.

As the cataloguing of records progressed, making clinical histories more available, study and research began in good earnest, and in the course of the next fifteen years the library became a busy room, and no longer a place of *ex*clusion, or of *se*clusion. House officers were as free as their superiors to come and go. The shelves were full to overflowing. Books and records reached literally from attic to basement.

In 1916 came the move into the spacious and attractive quarters now occupied, with plenty of room, and plenty to spare. And at last it became free to the entire scientific personnel of the Hospital. Statistics for the past year show that we have now 11,012 volumes, 12,247 reprints; we are receiving 106 periodicals, and we have a large collection of the annual reports of other hospitals—"the most complete collection in Boston," according to a paper recently read by Dr. David Cheever.

During the last twenty-five years the clinical records of the Hospital have improved in every way until the system now used stands today as one of the three best in the country.

Twenty-five years ago the entire work of the library and record room was done by the librarian alone. Today, two are employed in the care of the library, and seven (with half-time of another) on clinical records, two being engaged in special work.

The year just passed has been a busy one in service, particularly to the many students attending clinics, and to the nurses of the Training School, whom we have been glad to welcome and to assist in finding material required for study. If instructors care to hand to the librarian a schedule of subjects, reading lists might be prepared in advance, thus saving considerable time to the reader.

A student clerk has been engaged as evening attendant, and the library is now open until 10 P. M. every day except Saturday and Sunday.

Several files of periodicals on laryngology have been transferred to our shelves from the Hooper Library. A file of photographs has been started, of both clinical and historical matter. The former has already proved useful for teaching and illustrating purposes. The latter is hardly more than a name at present, but it is hoped that material accumulated will be arranged and catalogued during the coming year.

Members of the hospital staff have again been most generous in gifts of books, periodical subscriptions, photographs, and money. Through individual contributions, a subscription has been placed for seven sections of the International Medical and Surgical Survey, Dr. Merrill most kindly allowing his personal subscription to stand as the initial one, thus saving the library a considerable sum. Owing to the historical sketch above given, space does not permit the usual mention of special gifts.

A "unit" system has been established for the care of clinical records, replacing the old bound system, and is working out well. More prompt coöperation on the part of both house officers and staff would make this as nearly perfect as possible. A new edition of the "Classification of Diseases," much revised, was issued in June last.

REPORT OF CHIEF OF SOCIAL SERVICE

EARLY in the year the Advisory Committee of the Social Service Department published a three years' report covering the period since the last annual report of the Department was issued in 1918. This report was distributed with an appeal for support for the work, since there seems to have been a general impression that since the Department became officially a part of the Hospital, it no longer looked to the public for funds.

Late in 1921, the Trustees ordered a reduction in the budget of the Department. Since the medical staff was reluctant to eliminate any of the staff of social workers, it was found necessary to drop one secretary and one stenographer. This necessitated a reduction in the recording of the work of the Department, and a simplification of the methods of recording. It was decided that records be kept only of those services that required a permanent record for future use. Therefore the total number of records for 1922 does not coincide with the number of patients served. For instance, only 453 records were made in the wards, although a total of 1,010 patients were referred and received some service.

We have to report a total of 2,774 social records for the year. These patients were referred from the following sources:

Doctors	2,116
Administration	64
Nurses	82
Lady Visitors	6
Patients	90
Social Service Department	29
Outside	387
	2,774

Their ages range as follows:

2 years	113
2–6 years	148
6–12 years	440
12–16 years	270
16–20 years	194
20–30 years	453
30–40 years	491
40–60 years	493
60–+ years	171

The distribution of the patients having Social Service records are as follows:

Medical Wards	307
Surgical Wards	146
Children's Ward and Clinic	494
Orthopædic Ward and Clinic	343
Neurological Clinic	420
South Medical Clinic for Syphilis	15
Genito-Urinary Clinic	84
Infantile Paralysis Clinic	109
General Department, O.P.D. (Serving Medical, Surgical, and Special Clinics)	824
Diabetic Clinic	32
Total	2,774

The educational work of the department included during the year the following students' groups:

Boston School of Social Work	9
Smith College School of Social Work	3
Special social students	5
Pupil nurses	4
Others	20

As formerly, the Hospital has received a large amount of volunteer service, for the placement of which we are responsible. It has been distributed as follows:

Assisting in the Social Service Department	3
Clinic Secretaries	44
Occupational Therapy	28
Clerical Work	3
Laboratory Technicians	2
Assistant in Library	1

At the request of the Advisory Committee, the General Executive Committee appointed a committee of the medical staff, including Dr. Hugh Williams, Dr. William H. Smith, and Dr. Paul D. White, to review the present functioning of the Social Service Department, and consider whether we were placing our effort most advantageously. The Chief of Social Service has presented to this committee a review of the gradually accumulated policies of the Department in regard to selection of patients, relations with the medical service, and the questions arising out of pressure of work on a limited staff that is trying to improve the quality of social service.

At the request of the Mayo Clinic, Miss Cannon made a study of the need and opportunities for social service at the Mayo Clinic and Associated Hospitals.

Miss O. M. Lewis was granted leave of absence from November 15, 1921, to March 15, 1922, for a piece of work in New York under the Dispensary Development Committee.

Through Miss Elsie Wulkop, a member of the staff, an anonymous gift of $1,000 was given to the Department for medical social research. With the coöperation of Dr. Paul D. White, a research into the medical social causes, complications, and treatment of heart disease, is now in process, with Mrs. Bess Russell in charge.

The Advisory Committee has suffered severe losses in the resignations of Dr. Robert Osgood and Dr. Richard M. Smith, both of whom have left the staff to join the Children's Hospital staff; and of Mrs. Robert Amory, Jr., and Dr. George R. Minot. Dr. Fritz B. Talbot and Dr. J. Dellinger Barney have been added to the Committee.

Miss Cannon has resigned as Chief of the Service Bureau of the American Hospital Association to devote more time to the growing work of the Department.

Submitted,

IDA M. CANNON,
Chief of Social Service.

THE ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTH REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF THE McLEAN HOSPITAL

To the Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital:

The following report of the McLean Hospital for the year 1922 is respectfully submitted:

Seventy-seven patients were admitted, 90 patients were discharged, and 211 patients remained in the Hospital at the end of the calendar year. The total number under treatment was 301. The daily average was 211.9, a decrease of 7.88 from last year. The recoveries were 28.5 per cent of the admissions, and 24.4 per cent of the discharges.

Of the 77 admissions, 32 were primarily voluntary patients, and one other became so by signing an application to remain under treatment at the expiration of the legal period of temporary care. Of these 33 voluntary patients, 2 were committed because of a formal request for discharge which could not properly be granted, and one was committed by order of the Supreme Court. There remained on this basis at the end of the year 72 persons, 29 men and 43 women, 13 less than last year.

During the year 10 patients were admitted for temporary care (Section 79, Chapter 123, General Laws), 4 more than last year. Of these, 1 made voluntary application to remain at the Hospital, 1 was discharged at the end of the ten days, as not insane, and 8 were formally committed.

Of the 77 patients admitted, 18 came from other hospitals in Massachusetts, and 3 from hospitals in other States. The statistical tables appearing later in this report are for the year ending September 30th, and are in the form suggested by the American Psychiatric Association and adopted by the Massachusetts Department of Mental Diseases. Forms 1 and 2 are not required of private hospitals and are therefore omitted.

On account of illness, Dr. Theodore A. Hoch, First Assistant Physician, was unable to attend to his duties from April 1st until July 22d, and on October 27th his general health was such that he felt it impossible to continue his work longer and he was granted a three months' leave of absence. Dr. James G. Plant, Clinical Assistant and Pathologist, resigned on June 30th to take up work in mental hygiene, a field in which he felt that his interest was greater. Until December 21st, when Dr. E. Stanley Abbot, who was formerly connected with the Hospital for eighteen years, consented to assume, temporarily, the duties of First Assistant Physician, the work of these two men was covered by other members of the staff; the Second Assistant Physician, Dr. Freeman A. Tower, assuming the duties of the First Assistant Physician; and the Assistant Physician, Dr. Sidney M. Bunker, assuming the duties of the Second Assistant Physician. The work of the Clinical Assistant and Pathologist has been carried on largely since July by the Junior Assistant Physician, Dr. Kenneth J. Tillotson, with such help as the other members of the staff have found time to give him. In spite of these handicaps the routine work of the Hospital has been carried out satisfactorily, and all unusual and special demands in the treatment of the patients have been met. The members of the staff deserve much credit for the extra work which they have done and the spirit of coöperation which they have shown.

In spite of my inability, as yet, to find a suitable successor to Dr. Plant, nevertheless, the scientific and research work has been carried on with considerable activity.

It is with much pride that I call your attention to the fact that McLean Hospital was the first institution of its kind in this country to have a Clinical Assistant, under whose special supervision the case histories and clinical records were kept. It was the first institution to have a Chemist, the first to have a Psychologist; and by the appointment, last February, of Dr. Walter B. Cannon as Physiologist, and Dr. Clarence J. Campbell as Assistant in Physiology, it is also the first to have a Physiologist on its staff. These four departments are coöperating in their scientific and research work in an attempt to gain a better understanding of the nature of mental disease, which, it is hoped, may lead ultimately to further preventive and curative measures.

Briefly, but somewhat more in detail, the work of the year has been, in part, as follows:

The plan of research by the long-section method, which was discussed in the last report, has been intensively carried out on a number of patients with Manic-depressive Psychosis. This investigation has led to the following results:

First. In the Psychological Laboratory it has been found that an increase in the variability of the reaction time indicates the approach of a manic disturbance, even before clinical signs can be observed.

Second. The need for a finer study of the chemical aspect of emotions than could be furnished by present analytical methods has led to a study of the possibility for the determination of adrenalin and similar substances in the blood. A method has been developed which makes possible such determinations.

Third. The nurses' rating scheme, by which, it was hoped, the laboratories could obtain data for closer clinical correlation, has required simplification and the elimination of certain logical inconsistencies.

The long-section method is now being applied to the study of Dementia Præcox cases. In this investigation the simplified nurses' rating scheme and the newly developed chemical methods are being used, in addition to the chemical and psychological methods previously employed. It is planned to repeat the studies on Manic-depressive cases with these newly developed procedures, and to use the Psychologist's findings as a check.

The acquisition of a Roth apparatus for the determination of basal metabolic rate has enlarged the scope of the chemical investigations. Such determinations are now being made repeatedly on the subjects of the long-section investigation and on others.

Some support for the hypothesis of a metabolic disorder in the psychosis has been given by the study of skin reactions to proteinogenous amines. An abnormally slight sensitivity to histamine has been observed in a number of patients.

In the Autumn the Psychological Laboratory started an investigation of suggestibility, and a qualitative and quantitative study of flight of ideas. Significant phenomena have been demonstrated in different phases of recovery from manic excitement. These studies have also thrown some light on the personality analysis of other patients. This investigation is still in progress.

The rooms formerly used for pathological research have been equipped with the apparatus necessary for simple physiological experiments. In this laboratory the details of the chemical method developed for adrenalin determination have been checked by comparison with physiological effects. For the sake of the light they may shed on the emotions, experimental studies are in progress to see if references which have been drawn solely from physiological phenomena are also confirmed by chemical methods.

Another line of attack is being opened in the Physiological Laboratory through the development of electrical apparatus for the study of the neuro-muscular mechanism.

In carrying out the above work the Hospital is indebted to its Chemist, Dr. Otto Folin, and its Physiologist, Dr. Walter B. Cannon, for the interested advice and supervision which they have given.

Papers were presented during the year as follows:

Long-Section Method contra Cross-Section Method in the Study of Mental Disease—Dr. Lundholm, Dr. Plant, Dr. Whitehorn. (To be published in the American Journal of Psychiatry.)

Reaction Time as an Indicator of Emotional Disturbance in Manic-depressive Psychosis—Dr. Lundholm. (To be published in the Journal of Abnormal Psychology and Social Psychology.)

A Psychiatric Index for Facilitating Study of Previous Records—Dr. Bunker.

Report of a Case of Addison's Disease with Psychosis —Dr. Kenneth J. Tillotson.

Further Report on Nurses' Conduct Scheme — Dr. Plant. (To be published in the American Journal of Psychiatry.)

Form of Nurses' Notes—Dr. Plant.

The many recreational and diversional occupations provided by the Hospital have continued to demonstrate their value as therapeutic measures.

Probably no one thing is of more importance in restoring to health patients mentally and nervously ill than the establishment of good physical health, for there belongs to everyone in good physical condition a sense of bodily well-being which helps to minimize in the mind the difficulties of life, and to make them more easily surmountable. Tennis, golf, baseball, gymnastic classes, zander exercises, baths; and for the less strenuously inclined, walks, drives, croquet, and gardening, have all contributed to the physical improvement of the patients. Of great importance, also, is the diversion of patients' thoughts from themselves and their worries. Concerts, moving-picture shows, dances, and such indoor games as billiards, pool, bowling, and a variety of parlor games, together with various occupations, such as cabinet work, basket and toy making, weaving, pottery work, lace work, leather work, bookbinding, and printing, have gone far towards accomplishing this desired result.

The printing, which was started on a small scale and without great expectations as to results, has proved to be specially worth while, as many patients who found it hard to interest themselves in other occupations have at once become interested in the various processes, from the typesetting to the finished printed sheet. This may be evidence of a retained interest in the printing press which is conspicuous among so many boys, but I am inclined to think that it is largely due to the satisfaction which they have of seeing, rather quickly and without the expenditure of great effort, the practical results of their work. I am emphasizing the usefulness of printing as a diversional occupation, because its success has been a surprise to me, and not with any intention of undervaluing the other work done by the patients.

The bookbinding has proved of much interest, and the work done there has been of considerable economic value, nearly 550 volumes having been bound. The bindings of many have been unique, and the workmanship of much superior quality to that of any ordinary commercial bookbindery.

I have refrained from mentioning the library in connection with the above diversions, because I feel that it occupies a peculiarly important place. Reading, while lacking some of the advantages of manual occupations, nevertheless can be resorted to by a great number of patients, some of whom are unable to undertake manual work, and even by those who are bed-ridden. The circulation from the general library during the year was 9,486 volumes, besides the circulation of a large number of magazines and papers. There were added to the general library during the year 177 volumes, which makes a total of 9,711 volumes now in the library. The library also subscribed for 45 periodicals and magazines during the year.

The Medical Library is one of the best reference libraries possessed by any hospital. It now contains 6,371 volumes, of which 185 were added during the year; many of these were bound periodicals. Sixty current medical periodicals were subscribed for during the year.

The usual Sunday services conducted by the Chaplain, the Rev. George J. Prescott, have been held throughout the year, with the exception of the Summer months.

It should be mentioned that the money received from the Trustees of the Sarah C. M. Lovering Fund made it possible to carry on the diversional activities in a way which the financial resources of the Hospital would not otherwise have warranted. A portion of this fund was used for the purchase of a radio receiving set and loud speaker, which has enabled the patients to enjoy concerts broadcasted from different stations.

Mrs. Alice C. Hill continued as Acting Superintendent of Nurses and Matron until June 14th, when Miss Helen C. Sinclair, whom you appointed on March 31st as Superintendent of Nurses and Matron, entered the service. The Hospital was fortunate in securing the services of Miss Sinclair, as her long and wide experience in the organization and administration of Training Schools for Mental Nursing makes her of special value to the Hospital at this time. She graduated from the Royal Infirmary in Dundee, Scotland; after which she received training in the Western Infirmary in Glasgow, Scotland; the Belvidere Hospital for Infectious Diseases, Glasgow, Scotland; and in Beresford House, London, England, making in all a total of five years. She was then engaged in general hospital work until 1908, since which time she has devoted her attention to mental nursing in the United States, where she has organized and directed many Training Schools for Mental Nursing throughout the country, and has made surveys, not only for different States but for the National Committee of Mental Hygiene, covering different parts of the country. She at once began reorganizing the Training School so as to make it conform to the requirements of the Massachusetts Board of Registration of Nurses, and to meet, so far as possible, the standards of the National League of Nursing Education. The report of the Superintendent of Nurses deals with the subject more in detail.

In my opinion, nothing is more essential for the successful continuance and development of the Training School for Nurses than a nurses' home, and in these days I feel that it is quite unreasonable to expect any hospital to continue and develop a successful school without such an adjunct. The revision of the plans has been completed and they are ready, as soon as accepted by the Trustees, to be submitted to the contractors for bids. While I am naturally disappointed that the anticipated drop in the cost of material and labor has not taken place, nevertheless, since the prospect of any further diminution in cost in the near future seems improbable, and the necessity of the home is so great, I feel that the building of one should not be further delayed, if any possible way can be found to finance it.

It became necessary during the year, in order to provide quarters at all suitable for the nurses, pending the building of a nurses' home, to use the quarters on the third floors of the Appleton House and East House for the housing of nurses. As these rooms were occupied by maids, other quarters had to be found for them, and it was finally decided to use the building, formerly known as the Convalescent Hospital, for the maids. While it serves the purpose temporarily, it is not a desirable arrangement, since many of the maids have to sleep together in large dormitories, and are housed at some distance from their work. Mrs. Mary G. Harvey, a graduate of the Training School for Nurses, and for many years connected with the Hospital as a head nurse, and latterly as Assistant Supervisor of the Women's Department, and who has, during the year, been made Assistant Matron, together with her husband, who is also an employee of the Hospital, have been given quarters in this building with the maids and have been made responsible for its supervision.

As usual, the charitable services rendered by the Hospital during the year have been large, and the sum devoted to the care of free patients and to patients who paid less than cost was $140,783.94. Even this does not represent the full amount, since in figuring the cost only the running expenses are considered, and no account is ever taken of the interest on the capital invested in the plant, which would add approximately a hundred thousand dollars to the above amount; nor are the expenses paid by the Treasurer (pensions, insurance, and taxes) included.

In addition to the ordinary replacements, repairs, and painting, it has been necessary, as usual, to make what may properly be considered some extraordinary repairs and replacements. Among these expenses was $1,362.00 for renovating the Chapel, repairing the organ, and installing a new heater; $1,037.00 for repairs to roof and chimneys of the Proctor House; $960.00 for repairs to roof and chimneys and alterations on two gables of the East House; $215.00 for repairs to the Upham House chimneys; $2,695.07 for replacement of the steam main from the Power House through the Men's Belknap to the Proctor House. Repairs are, at the present time, being made on the roof of Hope Cottage, which, when completed, will cost approximately $1,300.00

The farm has furnished us with commodities, the market value of which were: milk, $18,313.48; beef and pork products, $12,233.76; vegetables, $1,974.74; fruit, $1,788.58. For these and for the considerable amount of general work credited to it in the way of hauling coal and road building, and so forth, it has a credit balance of $7,963.57, without taking into account the spring which furnishes the Hospital with water estimated to be worth about $7,000.00 annually. In order to give the farm due credit it should be mentioned that the expenses of the greenhouse which furnishes plants and flowers for the Hospital wards are charged to the farm account, and during the past year amounted to $2,100.00.

FORTIETH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE McLEAN HOSPITAL TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES

To the Medical Superintendent of the McLean Hospital:

The following report of the McLean Hospital Training School for Nurses is respectfully submitted:

The Training School for Nurses, with the completion of the forty-one years of its existence, has a roll of graduates including 968 names — 613 women and 355 men. In the following summary it is shown how many remain in the work of nursing, and into what positions of life others have gone:

It will be seen from this table that of the 558 women graduates of the School who are now living, 240 are still in the profession of nursing; and that of the 321 men graduates who are now alive, 120 are still nurses. Fifty-six of the men graduates have become physicians; of these, two are superintendents of hospitals, 51 are in private practice, and 3 have died. Five women became physicians; of these, 1 is married and has left the profession, 4 are in private practice.

As the year comes to a close many of the difficulties which the Training School has encountered in the last few years, due first to war conditions, and then to the reduced number of applicants for admission to the Training School, and finally to the illness and resignation of Miss Jennie McIntosh, the Superintendent of Nurses, with the consequent period of some months during which there was no regular Superintendent of Nurses, have disappeared, and the prospect for the future of the School is much brighter. For the above reason the number of graduates from the School in the past year has been small; 8 women and 5 men were granted diplomas, and 2 other men from the Mills Training School of the Bellevue Hospital were given certificates of one year's post-graduate course.

Early in the year there was an increase in the number of applicants. The following table indicates those now in the Nursing Service of the Hospital and in the Training School, as compared with a year ago:

Women graduates	26	39
Men graduates	23	17
Women student nurses	28	53
Men student nurses	27	26
Women attendants	36	8
Men attendants	10	10

From the above it will be seen that with the increase of nurses it has been possible to do away with a large percentage of the attendants which the conditions of previous years made necessary.

One of the first steps necessary, when assuming the duties of Superintendent of Nurses, was the filling of existing vacancies, and the making of appointments to new positions which it was necessary to create in order that the Training School might increase the number of subjects in its curriculum, and the hours devoted to the teaching of these subjects so as to conform not only to the increased requirements of the Massachusetts State Board of Registration of Nurses and to the recommendations, so far as possible, of the National League of Nursing Education, but to insure sending out graduates from the School specially equipped for psychiatric nursing, and also fully capable of fulfilling the duties of a general nurse.

On June 23d Miss Ida Mae Reade, R.N., was appointed Assistant Superintendent of Nurses. She is a graduate of this Training School and has had further experience, not only in general nursing, but also in supervisory positions in the University of Virginia Hospital, Virginia, and in the Cambridge Hospital, Cambridge, Mass. On June 27th, Miss Georgia H. Reed, R.N., who was Supervisor of the Women's Department, resigned, and Miss Emma C. Dingman, R.N., a graduate of this School, Class 1921, was appointed to fill this position. The Night Supervisor of the Women's Department, Miss Edna G. Grant, R.N., resigned on July 7th, and the position was filled by the appointment of Miss Reta D. Keith, R.N. Miss Elva M. Swimm, R.N., was made Assistant Night Supervisor. Both are graduates of this School. In August, the Trustees created the position of Instructor of Nursing, thus adding to the School's Teaching Staff a full-time teacher, and Miss Goldie Cooper, R.N., was appointed to this position. She is a graduate of the Training School of the Rochester Homeopathic Hospital, Rochester, N. Y., and has had experience as instructor of nursing in the Lockport City Hospital, Lockport, N. Y. It soon became evident that the increased amount of teaching to be done necessitated another instructor, and recently Miss Catherine Wheeler, R.N., was appointed Instructor of Nursing, making now two full-time teachers in the School. Miss Wheeler is a graduate of the New Hampshire State Hospital Training School for Nurses with Long Island College Hospital affiliations. She has had experience as Supervisory Nurse and Assistant to the Directress of Nursing at the New Hampshire State Hospital; she also had service in the United States Army as an Assistant Chief Nurse and Instructor in the Army School for Nursing. She has been Superintendent of the Goshen Emergency Hospital, Goshen, N. Y. Mrs. Jeannette Whitehorn continues her duties as Instructor in Dietetics, and has had added to them classes in chemistry and folk dancing. Miss Hill and Miss Taylor conduct classes in occupational therapy, and Miss Taylor, in addition, instructs nurses in hydrotherapy and physiotherapy. Miss Dingman, in addition to her duties as Supervisor, also gives instruction in psychiatric nursing, games, and gymnastic exercises. Mr. Chisholm, Assistant Supervisor of the Men's Department, in addition to his supervisory duties, gives instruction to the men students in practical nursing and allied subjects. The Superintendent of Nurses, in addition to her administrative duties, gives lectures and conducts classes in ethics and administration, and gives additional lectures on psychiatric nursing. The Teaching Staff of the Training School also includes various Staff Physicians, who lecture to the student nurses.

In order that the Superintendent of Nurses and her Assistant might have more time to devote to the Nursing Service and to the Training School, Mrs. Mary G. Harvey, R.N., a graduate of this School, Class 1906, who has occupied positions as head nurse and Assistant Supervisor of the Women's Department, was appointed Assistant Matron to take over the routine work of the Matron, — which work the Superintendent of Nurses and Matron had formerly delegated largely to the Assistant Superintendent of Nurses. Mrs. Harvey's place as Assistant Supervisor of the Women's Department was filled by the appointment of Miss Maybelle E. Harris, R.N., a graduate of this School, Class of 1907.

In addition to the above-mentioned reconstruction of the organization of the Nursing Service and the Training School, some changes have been made in the list of schools with which we have affiliations, and the training given in them broadened and extended. While the period which the students are absent for their affiliated courses remains the same, — that is during the second or intermediate year, — the time has been increased from twelve to fourteen months. One of the primary reasons for this was to enable the students to obtain practical experience in surgical nursing in the operating room. In addition to the practical work in the affiliating schools the students are given academic instruction in the various subjects.

The proximity of the New England Hospital for Women and Children and its desire to establish mutual affiliations with this School led to the transfer to it of affiliations formerly existing with the New York Nursery and Childs' Hospital. Arrangements also have been made with the Training School of the Massachusetts General Hospital for an eight months' affiliation with its School.

While it is possible that there may have to be some variations in procedure in particular cases, the general plan is to provide eight months' practical experience in general medical and surgical nursing, and six months in the nursing of diseases of women and children, and obstetrical cases.

Beginning in February a four months' course in psychiatric nursing for third year affiliated students from General Hospital Training Schools will be given, and a six months' post-graduate course also will be conducted for graduate nurses of approved schools.

The office of the Superintendent of Nurses has been refurnished, and filing cases have been added to provide for the newly arranged card-index system, so that now there is a complete system of filing information, helpful alike to the School organization and to the graduates. Eventually it will contain the names of all graduates, making accessible information as to where they are and what they are doing. There is also a set of registration cards of student nurses and also a file of academic cards of the students, showing the number of hours devoted to each subject and examination marks and periods spent in various services, including the service in the affiliated schools. The head nurses' monthly reports of students here and in affiliated schools are included in the filing system.

The various classrooms have been renovated and partially refurnished and other rooms have been added, so that at the present time, in addition to the regular lecture hall, there are two classrooms fitted for class and demonstration work, one for men and one for women. The diet kitchen also has been renovated and a new table installed with new individual equipment for ten students. Another room has been equipped for the teaching of chemistry. Space has been set aside and fitted up in the Pathological Laboratory for the teaching of bacteriology with an individual equipment for each student taking part in the exercises.

The nurses' living quarters have been partially renovated and some new furnishings have been added. In each building large rooms have been fitted up for living and social rooms. Separate living and dining quarters have been provided for the women attendants.

The students have been grouped together in their living quarters by classes, under the supervision of a graduate nurse, and an attempt has been made to introduce the system of student government.

Although on the whole the health of the nurses has been good, nevertheless, occasional illness has demonstrated the necessity of providing for sick nurses, and special rooms have been set aside in the nurses' quarters in the Women's Belknap for this purpose.

The weekly entertainments, concerts, moving picture shows or dances have, in part, provided entertainment for the nurses. On March 4th the nurses gave a play in the entertainment hall which was much enjoyed. The rehearsals and preparation for this performance furnished them pleasant diversion. Among the other entertainments held by the nurses was the annual masquerade on St. Valentine's night and the Halloween party, attended with the usual merriment. In their off-duty time they have, according to season, enjoyed the healthful exercises of walking, tennis, golf, skating, and coasting. At the time of the Fourth of July festivities, among other games in which the nurses took part, was a baseball game between the women graduates and the women students, which was won by the students. The victors received a large silver cup to be played for annually.

On August 30th the Class of 1923 met and formed a class organization, electing Miss Mary E. Blair, president, and Miss Ruby McCulloch, secretary. Also, during the year there was formed a Nurses' Education and Social Club, which meets twice a month and devotes the evenings to reading, sewing, cards, and dancing.

The initial steps have been taken for organizing an Alumnæ Association, and it is planned to hold at the Hospital in the early Summer a grand reunion of all graduates of the School, on which occasion the Alumnæ Association will be formally organized. An informal notice of this intention was sent out with the registration cards to graduates, and the hearty responses and promises of coöperation in establishing the organization have been very gratifying.

Two of the graduates have collaborated in writing a school song, which will be sung for the first time on this occasion.

Although an effort has been made to improve the women nurses' living quarters, the great need for a home must be met in order to insure the desired progress of the School. Your expectation that the building of one will begin in the early Spring will be a source of gratification to the many graduates of the School, and of pleasant anticipation to the present students, besides an added inducement to future applicants.

Thanks are due to the physicians for their coöperation and ready response for an increased number of lectures. Words cannot express my appreciation of the splendid coöperation which I have received from my assistants and graduate nurses, and for the spirit of loyalty shown by the student nurses.

HELEN C. SINCLAIR, R.N.,
Superintendent of Nurses.

McLEAN HOSPITAL TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES, WAVERLEY, MASS.

The Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital Corporation established a School for the instruction of nurses at the McLean Hospital in 1882. It gives to men and women desirous of becoming professional nurses, a course of training in general nursing, with special reference to the care of cases of nervous and mental diseases. The School is conducted by the Superintendent of the Hospital under the authority of the Board of Trustees.

At no time since the School was opened have there been greater demands for nurses, or greater opportunities for success in the practice of their profession. Of late years, the public has come to recognize more fully the value of the nurse when there is sickness in the family. The growth of hospitals has been such as to increase the need of nurses in executive and other positions. New and very attractive fields have been opened in industrial establishments and in public health nursing. The special training offered in a neuro-psychiatric hospital is becoming more and more insisted upon as a part of the equipment of every nurse.

The School gives to women a three years' course of training in general nursing, with special reference to the care of patients suffering from nervous and mental diseases. At the end of the junior year fourteen months of the three years' course are spent in affiliating schools, where the student nurse receives practical experience in the nursing of obstetrical cases and of medical, surgical, orthopædics, and children's diseases. To men, the course as given is but two years, as at present no general hospital affiliations have been made for them. They proceed at once from the junior to the senior year's course.

On the successful completion of the course a diploma is granted to men and women. The School is accredited by the Massachusetts Board of Registration of Nurses. Graduates from this School are eligible for service in the United States Army and Navy and with the Red Cross.

Nursing the mentally sick is of such a character that it requires the student nurse to have a good preliminary education. It also demands a high grade of self-discipline and devotion to service. No other field offers a broader scope for real nursing skill and accomplishment in the alleviation of human suffering, and none affords better opportunities for material success and advancement.

Applicants for admission to the School may be accepted between the ages of eighteen and thirty-five. They must be of good moral character and good health, and preferably shall have had four years of high school education or the equivalent, but inasmuch as a nurse with one year of high school education is eligible for State registration, applicants with a minimum of one year high school may be accepted.

Women student nurses, in addition to maintenance and laundry, are granted an allowance of $30 a month during the first and second years, and $45 a month during the third year of training. Men student nurses, in addition to maintenance and laundry, are granted an allowance of $30 a month during the first year, and $40 a month during the second year. This allowance should be viewed as a scholarship, which makes it possible for the young man or woman of limited means to prepare for a nursing career, and should not be considered as compensation for service.

There is for women student nurses (but not required for men) a preliminary or probation period of three months, during which time they are not on full-time duty, but receive the regular money allowance. This period is included as a part of the three years' course of training.

Upon the completion of the preliminary period, student nurses are placed on regular eight-hour ward duty, with half a day off each week, four hours off on Sundays and holidays, one whole day off each month, and two weeks' vacation each year. Students are on night duty from three to six months during training, but are retained on night duty not longer than three consecutive months.

Women student nurses, on arrival, must be prepared to purchase three "Dix Make" plain blue chambray dresses at a cost of $4.50 each. Aprons, collars, cuffs, and so forth are provided by the Hospital at cost. At the completion of the probationary period the student is allowed to wear the student nurses' uniform, which is provided by the Hospital at cost. In addition to an adequate supply of the usual undergarments, which should be marked with the name in full, the student should come provided with the following: 2 pairs of black shoes with low rubber heels, 2 laundry bags, and napkin ring. These same requirements apply to the men students, except that they are not required to wear a special uniform, but are expected to wear a plain dark business suit. Students must also provide their own text-books.

Regular courses of instruction begin on September 15th and February 1st, but applications are considered at any time. It is a distinct advantage for students to be in the Hospital at least two weeks before the formal opening of classes.

Application blanks for admission to the School are furnished upon request to the Superintendent of Nurses, McLean Hospital, Waverley, Massachusetts.

(For both men and women students)

The School offers a four months' course to third year students of accredited Training Schools for Nurses. The special training offered in a neruo-psychiatric hospital is becoming more and more insisted upon as a part of the equipment of every nurse. Whether in private work, or in the industrial, public health, or administrative fields, the nurse may at any time have to meet situations calling for particular skill in the care of nervous and mental disturbances. The object of this course is to qualify the general hospital nurse to meet such requirements. Students are given ward experience in the management of a wide range of mental cases, and courses of instruction leading to intelligent understanding of their care. The courses in mental and nervous diseases consist of lectures, demonstrations, and practical work in the observation and measurement of mental functions. The chief problems and methods of mental hygiene are discussed. Anatomy, physiology, and pathology of the nervous system are covered in lectures and demonstrations. Demonstrations and practice are given in the use of occupational therapy, hydrotherapy, and massage.

Affiliated students must conform to the rules of the Training School and will wear the uniform of their own school.

ONE HUNDRED AND TENTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES

FOR THE YEAR 1923

In presenting the report for the year ending December 31, 1923, we wish to emphasize the importance of keeping always before the public our high aims and standards, which can only be maintained by their continued and loyal support.

The year has been one of great activity and of many real accomplishments for the material improvement of the Hospital. One important building has been added to our group — the Nurses' Home at the McLean Hospital — which fills a long-felt need. The nurses who have heretofore been housed in the same building with the patients will now be in another atmosphere and can rest and lead their own lives when off duty. This is especially important for nurses having the care of the insane, and will, we feel sure, improve the quality of our applicants for that Training School, which has grown in a marked degree under Miss Sinclair.

A large sum of money was subscribed by generous friends of the Hospital for several very important purposes. First, the addition of another story to the Nurses' Home on Fruit Street, the addition of a new heating system and more plumbing in the Thayer Home for Nurses; also improvements in the hospital laundry. The next step for the betterment of the Hospital must be the building and equipment of the Medical Laboratory wing, entailing some changes in the Bulfinch Building. The General Educational Board of the Rockefeller Institute will contribute one-third of the cost, not to exceed $100,000,with the understanding that the Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital use their best efforts to raise the other two-thirds. This large sum of $200,000, we trust and believe, will be given by the many loyal friends who never fail the Hospital in the time of need. Were it not for these friends, and our faith in them, it would be impossible for this Hospital to maintain its high standards and not fall behind in the ever-increasing advancement in all hospital work in this section of the country.

The Hospital has sustained great losses in the death of two loyal friends — Dr. Herbert B. Howard, our Resident Physician from 1897 to 1908, and Administrator from 1904 to 1908, during which time many important buildings were constructed and the Hospital gained greatly in strength and importance in the community. The second death is that of Mr. David P. Kimball, who was appointed trustee by the Governor in 1886 and served continuously in that capacity until his resignation in 1915. In 1911 he was elected Vice-President of the Corporation, which office he held at his death. He was a valued friend, with strong and fearless judgment, and one whose advice was always listened to with deepest respect. He is greatly missed by the whole Board of Trustees as a wise friend and adviser.

Early in 1923, Governor Cox appointed Mr. Galen L. Stone as trustee to fill Mr. Fessenden's place, who, in turn, had been elected by the trustees to fill Mr. Lowell's place.

Two striking marks of the devotion and loyalty to the Hospital by outside friends should be mentioned:

1. A group of ladies working in the Fruit Street Nurses' Home, assisted by a group of students from Boston University, have made during the year 83,973 surgical dressings, thus relieving the Hospital of much work and expense.

2. Another interesting service which has continued for fifty years, and which must now be discontinued, has been that of Mrs. Thorp, who has read to the patients and furnished a Christmas party every year during that long period of time. In recognition of her service a much needed fund has been raised to supplement that already existing for the Warren Library of books for patients. This fund will bear Mrs. Thorp's name and will enable the library to be kept up and supply the large number of books now called for by the patients. This library has been placed during the last year under a trained librarian, who has nearly doubled the circulation of books, improved and had rebound the existing books, and has made the room so attractive that it is now used by many of the patients who are able to walk about. Miss Reed, the librarian, works closely in coöperation with the Social Service Department, thus knowing the special needs of patients, and we believe that the library thus strengthened and improved will become one of the most important factors for recreation and pleasure that can be given to the patients in the Hospital.

A petition for a subway station at the corner of Charles and Cambridge Streets is now before the Legislature. One hearing has already been held, and it is earnestly hoped that not only our patients before and after treatment, but their families and friends, may have the great benefit of a station so near to the Hospital, which we believe to be of the greatest importance.

We have to report with regret the resignation of Dr. David L. Edsall, Chief of our Medical Services, who was unable to continue to hold the position of Dean in the Medical School with its many requirements and so important a work as we demanded from him. His place has been taken by Dr. James Howard Means, in whom we have the highest confidence.

Dr. Roger I. Lee, Associate Chief of Medical Services, has also resigned, to the great regret of the Trustees, who appreciated deeply his value to the Hospital and were most anxious to retain his services.

We were most sorry to be obliged to accept the resignation of Dr. Robert B. Osgood. He and the Hospital have yielded to the call of other institutions. We are fortunate to obtain in his place as Chief of the Orthopedic Department so distinguished a man as Dr. Nathaniel Allison. Dr. Allison gave up the positions of Chief of the Orthopedic Department of the Barnes Hospital, St. Louis, and Professor of Orthopedics and Dean of Washington University to come to us.

The interesting celebration given on Ether Day by the Training School for Nurses in commemoration of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the establishment of the Training School is spoken of in detail in the report of that School. It proved to be one more link of fine coöperation between the Hospital and the School.

In summing up these many activities, we present to you and to the general public our accomplishments for the year and our hopes and belief for the future.

The time will never come when we can cease, or should cease, to appeal to the generous public for their support, but we believe that the feeling in this community is such that the Massachusetts General Hospital will never appeal in vain; that its standards are of the highest; that its service is of the finest; that its Trustees hold their positions with the deepest sense of responsibility; that no week in the year passes without both the General Hospital and the McLean Hospital being visited by one or more of the Trustees, and as a body we pledge ourselves to the service of humanity and the alleviation of sickness and suffering.

WILLIAM ENDICOTT, Committee.

WE HEREBY CERTIFY:

1. That all funds shown to have been received have been accounted for and that we have found vouchers or other satisfactory evidence of payment for all disbursements.
2. That the balance of cash on December 31, 1923, as shown by the books of the Hospitals and the Treasurer, amounting to $40,800.45, was on hand at that date.

BULFINCH BUILDING, MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL HOSPITAL

REPORT OF THE LADIES' VISITING COMMITTEE

The Ladies' Visiting Committee has continued to carry on its work of visiting the patients in the wards, having friendly conversations with them and often finding out their home conditions and possible need of help by money or gifts. One member of the Committee, who has in other years given Victrolas, has this year given a radio to Ward I, which has given great pleasure. This Committee, in finding out about the patients, can often coöperate with the Social Service Department.

The Visiting Committee, knowing of the increased work of the Occupational Therapy Committee, and of the benefit derived therefrom, has given to it $300 from the unused part of the fund raised for the Hospital Unit when in France, and $200 has been given to the Social Service Department. The interest of the legacy from Miss Annie Norton Ward has this year been devoted to the Occupational Therapy Work.

Christmas presents and decorations were again given by the Committee, with Miss Edith Fisher in charge of the work. Trees were provided for eighteen wards, and one tree and presents for Hospital employees.

The Committee appreciates very much the value of the work of Miss Reed, the new librarian of the Warren Library, the new arrangement of the room which makes it much pleasanter, and the greater circulation of books wisely and carefully selected. This year 16,103 books were circulated, an increase of 7,331. Of these, 645 were in foreign languages and given out to non-English speaking patients, who in this way are helped in their convalescence. The Committee has noticed the benefit of this in the wards.

Jane L. Motley,
Chairman.

REPORT OF THE ADVISORY COMMITTEE ON THE GENERAL HOSPITAL TRAINING SCHOOL

The Ladies' Committee on the Training School for Nurses have carried on their work this year as before, meeting every month at the New Home, consulting with the Superintendent, visiting the nurses on the wards, every week through the season giving a tea for the nurses, and trying in all ways to help and advise.

The number of nurses offering for training has slightly diminished this year, probably owing to the increasing opportunities offered to women outside of nursing, but we have been graduating an excellent set of nurses, who have gone out to many fields of work, as private nurses, public health workers, supervisors, superintendents, etc.; and one nurse, a Czecho-Slovakian, went last February back to Prague to be assistant supervisor of the hospital training school there.

The New Home has been enlarged this year by a fifth story, and the Thayer has been entirely reheated and replumbed, to the great pleasure and comfort of the nurses.

The outstanding event of the year was the celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Founding of the Training School, which opened under the name of the Boston Training School for Nurses in connection with the Massachusetts General Hospital. This School for twenty years was managed and financed by an independent group of men and women who provided the nursing in the Hospital until 1896, when the School was taken over by the Hospital. The celebration was beautifully carried out by the nurses and alumnæ with an historic pageant admirably pictured on the platform below the Bulfinch Front. There were also reunions of graduates and a great dinner, and at the Old South Church a very interesting address to the School and the public by Dr. Winford Smith of Johns Hopkins Hospital.

All in all it was a very memorable celebration of the rise and growth of nursing as a great and growing use of women's powers to help and serve not only their own homes, but the larger needs of the community and their country.

The pageant was entirely planned and carried out by the nurses, and they added to their splendid work by the gift of $10,000 for the Endowment Fund, showing their love and devotion to their Alma Mater.

May the nurses go on, prosper, and grow, and give us another fifty years of their much needed and blessed help!

E. T. VAUGHAN,
Secretary of the Ladies' Committee.

To the Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital:

Gentlemen: I herewith submit my Sixteenth Annual Report.

Friends of the Hospital have given generously to enable us to do certain things important for the comfort of nurses and employees. A fifth floor has been placed upon the Nurses' New Home. This gives us a suite for the Superintendent of Nurses, thirty rooms for pupils, and the necessary adjunct rooms for bathing and toilet. The new roof is floored with tile in great part and has a shelter for nurses who like to sleep outdoors. This substantial addition to our first-class housing facilities for nurses is a source of great satisfaction to us all. The construction and furnishing cost $74,257.27. When this work was completed we were enabled to vacate the little tumble-down houses, Nos. 3, 5, and 7 North Grove Street, which were taken over by the Hospital and used for nurses during the war. The Thayer Home for Nurses has been made more comfortable by the installation of a radiator in each pupil's room and a very considerable increase in the number of bathrooms. The safety of the nurses has been increased by the addition of another fire escape to this building.

The changes in the main kitchen and the addition of another dining room for employees, which were mentioned in the last report, have been completed. They are very satisfactory.

The Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary, our neighbor which is so closely bound to us, has by agreement with the Harvard Medical School established its Chief of the Laryngological Service upon a nearly full-time salaried basis. Dr. Harris P. Mosher has been chosen for this position. He is Professor of Laryngology, and Chief of the Laryngological Service, which has its beds in the Eye and Ear Infirmary and its Out-Patient Department in the Massachusetts General Hospital. It is believed that this step will result in better care of our patients, and the progress in research, teaching and the science of laryngology which can only come when a service is headed by a man with the ability, personality, experience, opportunity and time to produce the results.

The Hospital has met with a severe loss in the resignation of Dr. David L. Edsall from the position of Chief of Medical Services. Dr. Edsall has served the Hospital since 1912 as Chief of the East Medical Service upon a voluntary basis. He became a paid officer of the Hospital and School upon a nearly full-time basis in 1919, and Chief of Medical Services in 1921. Dr. Edsall's broad knowledge of organization of schools of medicine and hospitals has been of great service to us. His wide learning and commanding personality attracted promising young men to him. He built up from nothing our medical research laboratories and started them upon their career of achievement. The historian of the future will credit him with giving the Hospital a new and broader conception of its functions. Dr. Edsall's acceptance of the positions of Dean of the Harvard Medical School and School of Public Health upon a full-time basis made it necessary for him to resign from the Hospital. As his successor in the positions of Chief of Medical Services at our Hospital, and Jackson Professor of Clinical Medicine at the Harvard Medical School, has been appointed Dr. James Howard Means — a young man of excellent record and promise.

Miss Sally Johnson has been permitted to accept appointment as Superintendent of Nurses at the Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary in addition to her duties in a like capacity with us. The work of the two hospitals has become so closely allied that this step was the only logical one and in the best interests of both.

Mr. David P. Kimball, Vice-President and for many years a Trustee, died during the year. He was always a tower of strength to Dr. Howard and to me in our administration of the Hospital.

The death of Dr. Herbert B. Howard, my predecessor at the Hospital, has saddened us. Dr. Howard was Resident Physician from 1897 to 1908. Those who served under him in hospital work, and they are many, will always feel the influence of his example of honesty and straightforwardness of purpose and for the right.

The resignations of Dr. Roger I. Lee and Dr. Robert B. Osgood are real losses to the Staff of the Hospital.

We have lost by death a most faithful officer, Mr. Thomas Lee. Friends of the Hospital will long miss him from his post at the Information Desk, where he was the devoted friend of thousands who came to the Hospital for aid.

The following are major needs of the Hospital:

1. A considerable increase in endowment.
2. A new building for the General Hospital to properly house the X-ray Department, and wards for certain medical and surgical departments which are inadequately provided with beds.
3. A building for patients of moderate means.
4. A building for medical laboratories and sanitary towers.
5. A connecting building between the Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary and the Out-Patient Department of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

   Quarters for men.
7. A country branch.

I would emphasize again the great need in the community for the third project on this list — a building for patients of moderate means. The only reason that number two — "a new building for the General Hospital to properly house the X-ray Department, and wards for certain medical and surgical departments which are inadequately provided with beds" — is placed ahead of number three is because in order to accomplish number three certain existing wards would necessarily be torn down, and it is felt that these must be replaced in order that the Hospital may properly function to the existing capacity of its charity wards before other beds are added. I again appeal for a building for patients of moderate means, and I will use almost the same words that I have used for several years: A building for patients of moderate means at this Hospital would be a great boon to the community. The rich and the poor have access to the best modern hospitals, and have within their reach groups of physicians skilled in the different special branches of medicine and surgery. They can enter hospitals with all the modern laboratories and appliances needed in these days for successful diagnosis and treatment. The great group of those whose breadwinner is on a moderate or small salary is barred from the General Hospital, because the physicians and surgeons of the staff give their services to patients unable to pay professional fees. The charges necessary in the Phillips House and the fees of the physicians are too great a burden to be carried by a man earning a small salary. The conclusion is that people of moderate means when ill do not have as good a chance to get well as should be given to them. If some benefactor would give the Hospital a building for this purpose, it would enable us to provide low-priced rooms where self-respecting people of small means could come, pay a moderate professional fee, and have their diseases studied and treated under the conditions required by modern medicine.

A station of the Elevated Railroad on the Cambridge line, near the corner of Charles and Cambridge Streets, is urgently needed. The Hospital is very inaccessible for patients coming to it from the South Station and suburbs and outlying districts to the south and west. Counts made of the numbers of people coming to and going from the Hospital and the Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary show the following situation:

A check was taken on the number of persons passing through the doors of the Massachusetts General Hospital and the Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary. It covered all entrances and included all persons except uniformed nurses. The days on which this check was made were not consecutive. We chose one of the heavy days of the week, a light day and a Sunday, arriving in this way at figures from which a fairly representative average could be computed.

Monday, December 10, 1923 — Entire 24 hours:

General Hospital and Out-Patient Department	6,712
Phillips House	1,209
Allen Street Gate	144
Eye and Ear Infirmary	2,931
		10,996

Thursday, December 13, 1923 — Entire 24 hours:

Sunday, December 16, 1923 — Entire 24 hours:

General Hospital and Out-Patient Department	3,200
Phillips House	1,177
Allen Street Gate	40
Eye and Ear Infirmary	951
		5,368

Transposing these figures into totals for the year:

Total average week day:

10,996

2)20,828

10,414 × 304 total days exclusive of Sundays and holidays	3,165,856
Total Sundays and holidays (61 in year) 5,368 × 61	327,448
Estimated Total for year	3,493,304

It is hoped that the necessary legislation to provide this station and furnish convenience to this host of people will be passed at the next legislative session.

The Phillips House has had a successful year. The number of kind words said about it would indicate that it fills what was a real need in the community. Your Board has been amply justified in the step which was taken in erecting this building.

The North End Diet Kitchen has decided that it could more effectively do its work through our Hospital. It provides a sum of money which enables us to start a much needed Dietetic Department and to instruct patients in the essentials of diet and provide special foods.

For fifty years Mrs. J. G. Thorp and ladies of Cambridge have come to us at Christmas time and prepared presents for the patients. This year Mrs. Thorp was obliged by reasons of health to give up the work. We miss them very much. The good work will not suffer as it has been taken over by the Ladies' Visiting Committee.

General Hospital No. 6, a United States Army Reserve Hospital, has been organized under the command of Lieutenant Colonel James H. Means, M.O.R.C., United States Army. It is the successor of Base Hospital No. 6, which served in the World War. The list of officers commissioned and assigned to this organization appears elsewhere in the report.

Ether Day of 1923 was distinguished by the exercises in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of our Training School for Nurses. A series of tableaux given on the lawn and the addresses of Drs. Winford H. Smith and Richard C. Cabot were distinguishing features. The Alumnæ Association is entitled to great credit for their collection of the sum of twenty thousand dollars as a substantial nucleus of an endowment fund for the School. The intention of the Association is to collect a considerable sum, the income of which shall be used for the education of nurses.

Attention is invited to the appended tables. With acknowledgment of the faithful services of officers, nurses and employees, and appreciation of the continued courtesy and support which your Board has given the Director, this report is submitted.

FREDERIC A. WASHBURN, M.D.,
Director.

†These figures are obtained by taking the amount of money received for board of patients in public wards, and dividing that figure by the full rate of board prevalent at that time. This gives the number of days of paying patients, reckoned as though they were paying full rates. By subtracting this figure from the total of ward patients' days, we get the number of free days. The outstanding event for the School during the year just closed has been the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of its founding. The chief features were the address by Dr. Winford H. Smith, the historical pageant, the alumnæ banquet, and an address by Dr. Richard C. Cabot. An important feature was the announcement that the Endowment Fund had reached a sum slightly over twenty thousand dollars. A complete account of the celebration will be found in the December issue of the Quarterly Record.

Two books written by alumnæ have been published this year: "Procedures in Practical Nursing," by Annabella McCrae, and "Pediatric Nursing," by Bessie Cutler. Probably no one in the country is more successful in the teaching of practical nursing than is Miss McCrae. Her book is an invaluable contribution to all nurses, but especially to the graduates of this school. Miss Cutler's book is simple, yet comprehensive. It is much needed, for there are few textbooks relative to the care of sick children.

In February, Miss Hawkinson resigned her position as instructor of theory to go to Columbia University. She had been with us nearly four years and had done work of a high order. We are fortunate in having as her successor Miss Winifred Smith, a graduate of the Lakeside Training School for Nurses and a graduate of Teachers College.

Because of building developments there, the New England Baptist Hospital has withdrawn its affiliation. The school has renewed its affiliation with McLean Hospital Training School and has sent four students there for a three months' course.

There have been but few changes in the curriculum. A short course in the principles of psychology has been added. During the summer months we demonstrated the value of a teaching supervisor who interpreted the medical and nursing care of the patients to the students in order that they might give more intelligent and, therefore, more effective care to the patients. Mental tests were given to the preliminary pupils of the September group.

Extension of the heating and sanitation systems of the Thayer, and the building of the fifth floor on the New Home are valuable additions to the housing facilities of the school. The fifth floor has added thirty rooms and a new suite of rooms for the superintendent of nurses, where she will now have quiet, light and airy living quarters.

A new policy regarding time allowance for graduates of approved colleges has been adopted. Provided the student's college course has included the basic sciences relating to nursing, a time allowance of from three to eight months will be allowed.

It is customary to close reports of departments with a statement of the needs of the department. A very vital need of all training schools, and ours is no exception, is a more definite program for the maintenance of the health of the students, and a more definite program for the direction of the recreational and social activities.

SALLY JOHNSON, R.N.,
Superintendent of Nurses.

MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL HOSPITAL TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES

GENERAL STATEMENT. The circular of information giving a detailed survey of the course of instruction and of requirements for admission may be obtained upon request. Personal applications may be made between ten and twelve o'clock on Wednesday mornings, and at other times by appointment. The length of the course is three years, which includes the preliminary period of four months.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION. Full high-school education or actual equivalent. There is no arbitrary age limit. Acceptance depends upon education, general health and personal qualifications.

EXPENSE OF COURSE. The tuition fee is $50 and breakage deposit $10. The students will be provided with board, lodging, and laundry throughout the course; also with required textbooks. Students will be required to provide uniforms during the preliminary period, but after acceptance their uniforms will be furnished by the Hospital.

SCHOLARSHIP. Six scholarships of $100 each are awarded annually to students doing satisfactory work and needing financial aid.

HOURS OF DUTY — VACATION. A fifty-two-hour week is established for both day and night duty. The annual vacation period is three weeks.

PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE. All students obtain experience in general medical and surgical nursing, obstetrical nursing, and care of sick children; some students obtain experience in orthopedics, eye, ear, nose and throat, and care of skin diseases. There is also experience in operating room technique, and there are several desirable electives.

Theoretical Instruction. The theoretical instruction for the three-year course is presented in tabulated form.

The Special Five-Year Course. A special five-year course is offered in affiliation with Simmons College, which entitles the pupil to the degree of B.S. from Simmons College, the diploma of the Massachusetts General Hospital Training School for Nurses, and a certificate of Public Health Nursing. Further information relative to this course may be obtained from the Chairman of the Department of Public Health Nursing, 561 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, Mass.

Time Allowance to College Graduates. Time allowance will be given graduates of approved colleges, provided the course has included the basic sciences relating to nursing. Among these sciences are biology, chemistry, sociology, psychology, and those of the household group. The maximum allowance will be eight months. This allowance may not be determined until the student has been in the school for eight months.

REPORT OF THE GENERAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

In our report for 1922, we drew attention to the fundamental problem of the modern hospital, namely, to adjust medical progress to the means available to bring about such progress. With limited financial resources, it is evident that development must proceed haltingly and irregularly and that in consequence judgment of the highest order is demanded to accomplish the greatest good for the community, which in last analysis is the object for which the institution exists. This Hospital has definitely committed itself to the policy of developing medical knowledge in its various ramifications, rather than in limiting its efforts to one or several branches of medicine. With the exception of obstetrics, contagious disease, and psychopathic disorders, it opens its doors to disease in its varied forms, and aims to keep pace with scientific advance as applied to practical medicine. This is, admittedly, no easy task, and demands a clear recognition on the part of the public and of those directly interested in the welfare of the Hospital of the financial burden which such a broad policy entails. It is desirable that the plan of development, which the Hospital has set itself, should not fail either through lack of harmonious growth of its component parts, or through a failure to meet the many obligations which such expansion of necessity implies. With the former, the active medical staff of the Hospital is chiefly concerned. It is a source of satisfaction that in spite of the divergence of general medical interest into many side channels, as shown, for example, in the establishment of clinics devoted to single diseases or closely related conditions, the integration of the various departments has not suffered. In fact, broad coöperation has been rather increased than diminished by such a policy. The conventional distinction between medicine and surgery is growing less defined, as the realization of the interdependence of these two long-separated fields is being more clearly understood through the specialized study of disease. The surgeon and physician are finding more in common than ever before, as exemplified, for example, in the study of thyroid disease, and in certain disorders of the nervous system requiring surgical treatment. The future should see a steady development of this attitude, which is sure to be attained if the spirit of independence of the several units can be fostered in conjunction with a feeling of loyalty to the work of the Hospital as a whole. In this progress toward more complete integration through specialization, which the Hospital has accepted as its mission, there is always the danger that, in the enthusiasm for the new, the older established departments may at times suffer, that resources which might have been available for the necessary development of existent departments may unadvisedly be devoted to the use of those newly formed, or to the promotion of still others. The problem of organization is difficult, and likely to become more so in the future. Its solution depends on the wisdom of those immediately concerned with the medical work, and possibly even more upon the financial resources available. It is most desirable therefore that the public be kept informed of the aims and resultant needs of the Hospital in the interest of its continued development.

An event of much moment during the year was the resignation of Dr. David L. Edsall, as Chief of Medical Services, in order to give his entire time to the Deanship of the Harvard Medical School and the Harvard School of Public Health. During his term of service Dr. Edsall showed breadth of vision and administrative capacity, did much toward stimulating younger men of promise, developed laboratories, and in general placed the medical work of the Hospital on a high plane of efficiency. Dr.

James H. Means has been appointed to fill Dr. Edsall's place. The resignation of Dr. Roger I. Lee, Associate Chief of Medical Services, has been received with deep regret. He had served the Hospital long and faithfully.

Medical Service

The experience of the past year has demonstrated even more than before the need for a closer relationship between the wards of the Hospital and the Out-Patient Department. The method by which physicians in charge of wards also, on alternate days, make visits in the Out-Patient Department has been serviceable in bringing about better continuity of treatment for discharged patients, but it is probable that the plan may need modification in the future. The development of special clinics in the Out-Patient Department has provided a strong bond with the wards.

The Cardiac Clinic under Dr. Paul D. White has increased in size and in usefulness. Both children and adults are now under special observation and many of them under continuous supervision. Through an arrangement by which Dr. White sees the cardiac house patients, still further coöperation is secured. Investigations in this field in the past year have been:

1. A study of the family incidence of rheumatic infections.
2. Causes and types of cardiac pain.
3. A study of aortic systolic, and mitral diastolic murmurs.
4. A study of the diuretic action of calcium chloride and its effect upon the heart.
5. An investigation of the value of the electrocardiogram as evidence of left and right axis deviation in various types of heart disease.

Dr. F. G. Brigham, assisted by Dr. LeRoy R. Wheeler, has continued in charge of the Diabetic Clinic. The introduction of insulin has necessitated a readjustment both from the scientific and administrative viewpoints. Definite progress is being made in the management of diabetics at the Hospital in general, and a more uniform policy and continuity of treatment is being attained, largely through the house consultations of Dr. Brigham, as well as by the visits of house patients to the Diabetic Clinic, where they receive instruction in the preparation of diets and in the use of insulin.

Through an arrangement with the North End Diet Kitchen, certain funds have been secured for the development of a similar service at the Hospital. A dietitian has been employed on full time, who gives instruction in food values and the preparation of diets. This service is not exclusively for diabetics; the plan is rather to provide dietary instruction for any patients who may need it, as, for example, those attending the clinic conducted by Dr. W. B. Breed for obesity and nephritis.

Dr. F. M. Rackemann's clinic on anaphylaxis, which has now been in operation for several years, has again demonstrated its usefulness through the investigation of three hundred and eighty-five new cases of asthma and hay fever.

The Thyroid Clinic has continued under the same general plan as heretofore, with close coöperation of the medical, surgical, and X-ray departments. Dr. M. Paul Starr, Wolcott Fellow, has been making, in connection with this clinic, an intensive study of iodin in the treatment of exophthalmic goiter and also of the excretion of iodin in various types of thyroid disorder. A somewhat similar type of coöperative work has been inaugurated by Drs. Chester M. Jones, Munroe A. McIver, and R. G. Vance, in connection with gastro-intestinal disorders. This clinic fulfils a very definite need, in that patients with gastro-intestinal disease are peculiarly in need of continuous care and observation from various standpoints.

As a result of the rule limiting the number of new patients, the work in the General Out-Patient Medical Department has become somewhat less hurried. Much, however, should still be done in providing for better organization and more clinical assistants, which will permit attending physicians to give more time to individual patients. It should always be borne in mind that the medical clinics of the Out-Patient Department provide a wealth of opportunity for professional experience. With improved organization, they might be made to offer a type of service quite as attractive as that provided by the hospital wards. The work of the Medical Laboratory has been active during the year and has helped in the coöperation between the house and the Out-Patient Department.

Dr. F. T. Lord's work on pneumonia has been continued, as has Dr. Talbot's on the calorimetry of children. Dr. C. M. Jones has made some important studies with the duodenal tube in relation to certain problems connected with diabetes and the secretion of the pancreas. In conjunction with Dr. Vance, Dr. Jones has also investigated the distribution of referred pain in connection with blocking of the bowel through an ingenious device. Dr. Arlie V. Bock and Dr. Henry Field, Jr., in conjunction with Prof. L. J. Henderson of the Harvard Medical School, have continued their study of certain properties of the blood. This work hitherto has been done largely on normal persons, but it is now proposed to extend this investigation to certain problems of disease. This work is doubtless of very definite significance in the light it has thrown upon the physiology of the blood under normal conditions, and it is hoped that in the future it will help toward the understanding of abnormal conditions as well. Dr. Bock has also had during the present academic year a small group of fourth-year students of the Harvard Medical School working under his direction, as an experiment in the so-called tutorial system, the idea being to give certain promising students better opportunity for development than would be possible under the fixed curriculum. It is a source of gratification that the Massachusetts General Hospital has been selected for this experiment.

Dermatological Department

In common with many other departments this Clinic is finding its work hampered through lack of room. The recent introduction of ultra-violet light treatment, and the Alpine lamp, has been the main source of embarrassment, since many patients from other departments have been referred for special treatments requiring practically the entire time of the nurse in charge. The inconvenience of overcrowding, regrettable as it is, finds compensation in the help being given many patients by these newer therapeutic measures.

South Medical Department

There have been no changes in the staff or policy of the department. Coöperation with the Eye and Ear Infirmary in the study and care of interstitial keratitis has been continued.

Neurological Department

The general plan outlined in our last report of completer coöperation with the general Medical and Surgical Departments of the Hospital, through the assignment of a single man for one month to house consultation and visiting, has been continued with apparent satisfaction to all concerned. A difficulty is that the single house officer's time is of necessity divided between the Out-Patient Department and the Hospital cases, which under present arrangements cannot be avoided. The matter of more systematic house visits has made possible the teaching of fourth-year elective students very much more satisfactory than has hitherto been possible. The crying need of this department is for more beds. At present it is handicapped in this respect more than any other department in the Hospital. The Spinal Fluid Laboratory in connection with the Pathological Department has so far justified itself that it has been established on a definite basis, with Dr. J. B. Ayer as its general director, a paid assistant, supported by the Blake Fund, and a technician supported by the Hospital. This laboratory has been of service not only to the special work of the Neurological Department, but also to the general Medical and Surgical Services, as well as to many of the special departments.

Children's Medical Department

This Department has been active in investigation during the past year. Studies on Mongolian idiocy are still in progress. It has been found that the physical development and growth of these children may be markedly improved by endocrine therapy. The basal metabolism has been obtained in these cases and the result of treatment controlled by it. Likewise, studies on cretinism have been continued, particularly with relation to the basal metabolism. Epileptiform attacks in children have been studied from the point of view of alkalinity and acidity of the blood, with results of considerable significance.

Surgical Services

The Surgical Department has continued to do its work without definite change in policy or striking innovation. The plan of special assignments has continued. It is believed to play an important part in surgical advance, as shown by the fact that most of the publications by members of the surgical staff have come from an intensive study of groups of cases which have been assigned to special men. In order to preserve interest and stimulate the younger men, an endeavor has been made for surgeons visiting important conferences, or medical meetings, to report their impressions to the house officers and others interested. In all the services also, a weekly visit is made, in which particularly important cases are demonstrated and informally discussed, with a frank consideration of errors in judgment, particularly in cases which have resulted fatally. This exercise has been supplemented by the demonstration of pathological specimens by Dr. H. F. Hartwell. Coöperation between the Surgical Service and the Orthopedic Service under its new chief, Dr. Nathaniel Allison, has been intimate and satisfactory. This applies particularly to the Fracture Service under Dr. D. F. Jones. There has been a distinct tendency, with approved apparatus and better methods of traction, to dispense with operations which a few years ago were demanded in many cases of maladjustment of fractures. Particular attention has been paid to fractured hip in the aged. With the newer methods of treatment, the resulting disabilities have been definitely lessened. There has been a decided increase during the past year in the number of cases operated upon with local anæsthesia. This has been particularly true of the sacral injection method, under which many painless operations have been performed in hernia, hemorrhoids and other conditions about the rectum. Local infiltration anæsthesia in properly selected cases of abdominal operations has been most satisfactory, particularly in the cases of grave abdominal emergency where ether in itself is hazardous. A careful study of pulmonary post-operative complications which have been the cause of death in many of the fatal cases is in progress. It is these pulmonary complications which are the most frequent cause of death in clean abdominal surgery. Blood transfusion has again proved the life-saving measure in several cases of shock, and arrangements have been made so to treat badly burnt children.

The work with carbon dioxide administered to patients recovering from ether anæsthesia has been continued with strikingly satisfactory results.

The Staff assigned to the Third Surgical Service has been increased by the appointment of Dr. Munroe A. McIver as Surgical Associate on a full-time basis. In addition to teaching and clinical work, Dr. McIver is carrying on special investigation in the Department of Physiology of the Harvard Medical School on a problem of importance in the treatment of surgical cases. The service has continued to function satisfactorily. The amount of surgical teaching in the Hospital has increased. A system of following up discharged cases through appointment has been instituted, which promises to give more satisfactory information in regard to the results of treatment than was previously available. The effect of operation on the sympathetic nerves surrounding blood vessels has been observed in cases of threatened gangrene of the extremities. A somewhat similar type of operation has been performed for cases of angina pectoris. Certain phases of disease of the thyroid gland have been studied, as has been the use of carbon dioxide gas in hastening recovery from ether anæsthesia.

Orthopedic Department

Since our last report, Dr. Nathaniel Allison has been appointed Chief of the Orthopedic Department in place of Dr. Robert B. Osgood, resigned. Under Dr. Allison's leadership, the Department has continued to develop in its immediate lines and to coöperate very completely with other departments of the Hospital. He took over a clinic which had been carefully organized and brought to a high state of efficiency by his predecessor. This he is carrying on in the same spirit, and there is evidence that he will bring it to still further accomplishment. The Hospital is fortunate in having secured the services of so eminent a man as successor to Dr. Osgood.

Laryngological Department

During the past year, Dr. Harris P. Mosher has been appointed to a full-time service in Laryngology at the Massachusetts General Hospital and the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, and Professor of Laryngology at the Harvard Medical School. The hopes of the founders of this service, the first one in the country, are yet to be fulfilled, since the service has been functioning but a few months. Its aim is to give fuller instruction to house officers, to develop post-graduate work, and to stimulate research. Dr. Mosher has lengthened the post-graduate course at the Harvard Medical School and now offers it twice a year instead of once. Two students have already presented themselves for a year's course in Laryngology, one a Belgian sent by the Belgian Relief. These men are to act as graduate assistants in the Laryngological Department of the Hospital and are to prosecute their studies also at the Eye and Ear Infirmary and at the Medical School. A change in the Laryngological Service has been made through the addition of a sixth house officer, which will make it possible to have three house officers serving in the Out-Patient Department at one time. The Roentgenological Department has continued to give much satisfaction, and the fluoroscope has proved of great service in locating foreign bodies in the upper air passages and in the esophagus.

Genito-Urinary Department

There has been a certain decrease in the number of visits to the Out-Patient Department, chiefly in patients with venereal disease. On the other hand, two hundred and seventeen cases have been admitted to the house service. The demand is such that there might be as many more were there enough beds. The waiting list is always long, and many patients, some of them urgent cases, have gone voluntarily or been sent to other hospitals. The matter of better facilities for combining or approximating the cystoscopy and X-ray tables is a matter of importance, to which reference is also made in the report of the Roentgenological Department. During the year, Dr. Anna G. Richardson, for some years a member of the staff on duty in the female clinic, has resigned, owing to the pressure of other duties. During her period of service she was invariably conscientious, painstaking and tactful. The addition of a second interne has helped greatly in the routine work, and also in carrying out certain investigations which otherwise could not have been attempted.

Roentgenological Department

Early in the past year it was found necessary to limit the number of cases received. The maximum each day has been placed at sixty, which necessitates a considerable waiting list. The apparatus for deep X-ray therapy recommended in the report of last year was installed in June, and has since been working at maximum capacity. The results obtained have been so encouraging that a second unit is now being installed in the Phillips House. The increase of work entailed by this new apparatus has necessitated the appointment of a second assistant, Dr. Richard Dresser. Special consultants have been appointed for certain groups of cases receiving X-ray or radium treatment, a plan now in operation about eight months, which has proved most satisfactory. The present method of examining patients requiring combined radiographic and cystoscopic examinations should be changed. An improvement in this matter is under consideration. There should also be provision for fluoroscopic examination of cases during operation, particularly necessary in the reduction of fractures, in the search for lung abscess, and for stone in the kidney. A number of subjects are being intensively studied by members of the Department.

Dental Department

The need of a well-equipped Dental Department in a modern hospital is demonstrated by the fact that during the year upwards of three thousand out-patients were examined and treated, and six hundred and twenty-four house patients. The chief of this Service, Dr. L. M. S. Miner, is of the opinion that it is desirable to increase the clinic days from three to five a week, with a proportionate increase in the staff. He believes that men of ability are available for this service. With the increasing importance and closer study of the teeth as a source of general systemic infection, if for no other reason, a development of the dental clinic is desirable.

A dental hygienist has been appointed during the year. Her function is to attend to conditions in the mouth of patients in the wards of this Hospital and of the Eye and Ear Infirmary. Up to this time her attention has been given largely, but not exclusively, to surgical patients.

Occupational Therapy and Warren Library

The work in Occupational Therapy has developed satisfactorily during the year. This sub-department of Social Service is now under the management of Miss Isabelle L. Whittier. The work begun primarily in the Children's Ward has expanded as its value has been demonstrated, and since September 1st there have been nineteen occupational therapy aides working under the general jurisdiction of Miss Whittier.

The Warren Library continues to function as a very practical adjunct of the work of the Hospital. The needs of this very useful department of the hospital work should be more widely known, to the end that persons interested might feel inclined to contribute to its very limited funds and number of books. The Library, small as it is, fills a very definite place, and is used increasingly by the patients of the main hospital.

Consultation Clinic

This Clinic, begun some years ago as an experiment, has proved its value. During the year 1923, eleven hundred and twenty-eight patients were examined, almost equally divided between men and women. Of these patients, ten hundred and thirty-nine were residents of Massachusetts. New Hampshire provided the next largest number, namely, forty-five; Rhode Island, nineteen; Maine, ten; Vermont, six; Connecticut, two. It will be seen, therefore, that this Clinic serves all of New England. The difficulty of conducting such a clinic, as was pointed out in our last report, is not that physicians are not willing to send or come with their patients, nor is there a lack of patients, but rather that the financial return to the examining physicians is inadequate for the time given. It must be regarded as a definite sacrifice for men of reputation and well-established practice to devote their time and energies to this service.

REPORT OF THE PATHOLOGICAL LABORATORY

The usual routine bacteriological, chemical, microscopical, and pathological examinations in connection with the study of diseases of the patients in the Hospital have been carried on as in previous years.

During the year 155 autopsies were performed in the laboratory, and the post-mortem appearances recorded. Among these were eleven from the Eye and Ear Infirmary and three from the Phillips House. The percentage of autopsies among the deaths occurring in the Hospital is 29%, as compared with 32% in 1922.

Of microscopical preparations from autopsy material, 1,370 have been prepared and filed during the year, as compared with 1,504 in 1922.

Reports rendered for bacteriological examinations for the micro-organisms of diphtheria, typhoid fever and other diseases number 2,465. There were 2,325 in 1922. A large amount of bacterial culture media has also been supplied to the Medical Laboratory.

For testing various specimens for the presence of tubercle bacilli, 271 guinea pigs were used. In 1922 the number was 132.

Reports of gross and microscopical appearances and the pathological diagnosis of 1,782 specimens from the medical and surgical clinics were rendered. From this material 2,818 microscopical preparations were made and filed. The corresponding figures for 1922 were 1,752 and 2,422.

The number of specimens of blood tested for evidence of infection with syphilis is 15,896, as compared with 15,612 in 1922.

Bacteriological examinations of milk for the Hospital and for the Eye and Ear Infirmary were made on 100 samples.

Photographs taken for the Hospital number 750 plates and 1,500 prints.

The laboratory for the study of the cerebro-spinal fluid, under the direction of Dr. James B. Ayer, has increased its work during the past year. The purpose of this laboratory is to perform certain routine examinations, such as the colloidal gold test and quantitative estimation of protein, the latter test elaborated in this Department; also to carry out certain special tests on selected cases, such as the mastic test, benzoin test, quantitative sugar, etc. Emphasis is laid, however, on a close coöperation between the clinical departments and the laboratory, which results in a more intelligent interpretation of results in this field of diagnosis.

The following examinations have been made:

Total protein estimation	134
Gold chloride tests	130
Gum mastic tests	14
Quantitative sugar determination	15

Many neurological specimens have been preserved and mounted in jars for study this year; also some work has been done on cats, to test the value of lipiodol, a French iodized oil, in the arachnoid space for the localization of cord tumors by means of X-ray.

The treatment of patients with bacterial vaccines has been continued by Dr. A. E. Steele, and during the year 130 were so treated, as compared with 127 in 1922.

The facilities and material offered by the Laboratory for the instruction of physicians and students of the Harvard Medical School in bacteriology, pathology, and diagnosis by laboratory methods have continued to be extensively utilized.

The weekly conferences and discussions of clinico-pathological aspects of hospital cases, conducted in the amphitheatre of the laboratory before fourth-year students and others, have been continued during the academic year. These exercises have been conducted by Drs. Oscar Richardson and R. C. Cabot. The attendance has been good, and much interest has been manifested.

The courses in medicine and pathology for practitioners, given by Drs. W. H. Smith and Oscar Richardson, have been well attended and continue to be highly successful.

Instruction in pathology to sections of second-year men, and special courses to students of the Harvard Medical School, have been given by Drs. J. H. Wright and Oscar Richardson.

Dr. H. F. Hartwell has given weekly demonstrations in pathological anatomy to fourth-year students, and has continued the collection and preservation of specimens for teaching purposes.

Of special studies carried on during the year, the following may be mentioned:

Dr. W. H. Smith continued his studies of bacteria in endocarditis.

Dr. J. B. Ayer worked on special subjects in neuropathology.

Dr. A. E. Steele studied the subject of hydrogen ion concentration, with special reference to the reaction of culture media.

Dr. J. H. Wright worked on the revision of the book, "Pathological Technique" for its eighth edition, and on special subjects in histopathology.

Respectfully submitted,

J. Homer Wright, M.D., S.D.,
Pathologist.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE TREADWELL LIBRARY

STATISTICS for 1923 show that there has been a large increase in use of the Library. We have had over 1,500 more readers than in 1922, and have loaned 100 more volumes. A recent change in rules has accorded to nurses and house officers the privilege of borrowing books, and it seems to be appreciated by both. Probably owing to larger facilities for teaching throughout the Hospital, a greater number of students are coming to the Library, and it is not unusual now to see nearly every seat in the room occupied.

The appointment of Miss Ruth F. Catlin, in July, as Assistant Librarian, has been a great relief to the head of the Department, whose increasing responsibilities in the Library and the Record Room had reached the point where she could no longer do detail work in either, the executive matters occupying too large a proportion of her time; the accumulation of back work was discouraging. But this burden has already been perceptibly lightened.

For many years it has been the custom to keep as complete a list as possible of all articles written by members of the Hospital Staff, and to ask for reprints. This does not mean that we want only what is requested; we wish to obtain all reprints from whatever source, and members not only of the Staff but of the Alumni are asked to keep the name of Treadwell Library upon their mailing lists, and send copies of all their publications. It is quite worth while that such collections, as complete as possible, should be filed and catalogued.

Any members of our Staff who review new books are asked to remember that we would be more than glad to receive such volumes if the reviewer does not wish to retain them for his own shelves. The purchasing fund of the Library is very small when compared with the large increase in the price of medical books and periodicals. There is more or less call for books on psychology, mental hygiene and public health. At present we have practically nothing on these subjects.

The Treadwell Library is now well known and ranks among the first hospital libraries in the country. It is the earnest desire of the Librarian, now in her twenty-seventh year of service, to see an endowment of at least $30,000 raised, the income of which will allow a more generous periodical subscription list, and the possibility of purchasing more of the desirable textbooks, medical classics and medical biographies. There is also much rebinding necessary to save valuable old classics belonging to the original Treadwell donation, to say nothing of the repairing of books which are in constant use. The Library allowance at present does not begin to cover such expenses as these, and the Librarian hesitates long before handing in extra requisitions which, if they may be granted at all, will further burden the Hospital itself.

The observation of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Training School for Nurses, on October 15 and 16, brought a large number of the visiting Alumnæ to the Treadwell Library, where a special "War" exhibit had been prepared for them. A list of all nurses serving with the United States Army or with the Allies was posted, and as many decorations and citations as it was possible to obtain were shown in the exhibit case. The "Hospital War Scrap-book," made up of material gathered during the war from many sources, proved most interesting to the nurses, who pored over it hunting for items about either their friends or themselves.

The Librarian has been appointed on the Hospital Library Committee of the American Library Association, and Chairman of the Subcommittee on Hospital Medical Libraries.

During the summer Gen. Francis H. Appleton gave a set of new window shades for the main reading room, arranged to be drawn from the bottom up, or from the top down. This gift has been much appreciated by all readers. General Appleton gave also an old engraving by J. G. Wille, entitled "Le Petite Physicien," which has been hung in one of the rooms. Dr. S. E. Hughes, of Danville, Va., who attended a summer course at the Hospital, presented the Library with $50.00 as a mark of appreciation for "courtesies received throughout the Hospital." A similar gift of $5.00 has also been received.

An etching of Dr. Arthur T. Cabot, by F. W. Benson, — the gift of Dr. Hugh Williams to the Hospital, — has recently been hung; and an oil portrait of Dr. Maurice H. Richardson, loaned to the Hospital by Mrs. Richardson, has been placed on the wall of the Committee Room. Miss Margaret Slade, a daughter of the late Dr. D. D. Slade, sent in two volumes of "Private Records," kept by her father when he was a house pupil here in 1848 and 1849.

Mr. Hugh Stalker has made two loans for the exhibit case: one, a collection of very beautiful medals; and recently a portrait and letters of Louis Pasteur.

The "unit system" of filing Records, established during the summer of 1922, has proved most satisfactory. A change in the "follow-up" method has been tried on the Third Surgical Service during the past year, resulting in a larger percentage of returns. If feasible, it is hoped that eventually the same system may be used by the other Services. A pupil, sent from the Veterans' Bureau, was received during the summer to take the course in the Care of Clinical Records.

The Librarian has twice been invited out of town to speak to hospital staffs upon the subject of Records.

Gifts of books have been received from the following:

Dr. Algernon Coolidge

Dr. F. G. Balch

In addition to the above, some twenty-five physicians and surgeons have generously responded to a call for assistance in the renewal of the subscription to the International Survey of Medicine and Surgery, which costs $75.00.

Many reprints and Transactions of Societies, together with college and hospital publications, have been received, and are hereby gratefully acknowledged.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE WARREN LIBRARY

THE most important event of the year, since the present librarian took charge, March 1st, was the granting by the Board of Trustees of an appropriation of $200 for the year 1924, the first appropriation ever given the Warren Library.

The library room has been rearranged in an endeavor to make it as uninstitutional and homelike as possible. It is being used more and more by the convalescent patients, who come to read the daily paper and magazines, or to browse among the books. There also has been great interest displayed by the Hospital force in general, shown by the increased use of the reading room and the increased circulation of the books.

Through the library service all readers, of every nationality and age, have been supplied with wholesome, entertaining reading during their stay in the Hospital. Once each week magazines have been placed in the various Out-Patient and X-ray waiting rooms.

The Warren Library is indebted to the many friends of the Hospital who have generously given books and magazines.

It is impossible to give, at the present time, accurate statistics of the number of volumes in the library, as the books are in the process of being reclassified and recatalogued.

REPORT OF CHIEF OF SOCIAL SERVICE

The Social Service Department throughout its development has consciously sought to carry out the policies and purposes of the Hospital. The three purposes for which the Hospital has been built — namely, the care of patients, teaching and research — have become the guiding purposes of the Social Service Department. During the year 1923 this department has shown some progress and been beset by many difficulties. Twelve workers — one supervisor, two head workers in clinics, seven case workers and two clerical — have resigned during the year: one on account of sickness, one to take further training, and the rest because of the opportunity and the necessity to earn higher salary. Two left also because the new position gave greater professional opportunity. Five of these workers had supervised students. This large number of changes in personnel during 1923 is a little above the usual turnover in the department, but presents a problem that has been a serious one for several years. It is recognized that there must be some shift of workers as opportunities are presented for greater service, but it is becoming quite evident to our Advisory Committee and Social Service Staff that the maintenance of first-rate standards in the department is impossible if we are to have so frequent changes in our personnel. Particularly is this true in the teaching of students of medical-social work, which presupposes a high quality of service to patients and some experience and maturity on the part of the supervisor of the students in their daily practice.

It seems highly desirable to the Advisory Committee and to the Chief of Social Service that some means be secured for making relatively secure those positions on the staff which carry teaching responsibilities, recognizing that the Massachusetts General Hospital offers a unique opportunity for teaching the practical aspects of medical-social work. Aside from the advantageous relationship of our department with the Medical Staff and the Administration, we have coming to the wards and out-patient clinics patients from many communities, representing many nationalities, various social and industrial conditions, and presenting every sort of social complication of sickness.

Since the students of medical-social work who have come to us for experience and training have come from all over this country, as well as from several foreign countries, it seems entirely fitting that special funds should be sought to carry on our teaching service rather than to expect the Hospital to include this in the general expenses for maintenance of the Department.

The grant of $1,000 for medical-social research noted in last year's report has been used for a study of the medical-social aspects of heart disease under the direction of Mrs. Bess L. Russell, with the coöperation of Dr. Paul D. White. The report of this study, which is about to be published, comprises an analysis of the problem as presented by Massachusetts General Hospital patients in Ward and Out-Patient Departments, with special consideration of the economic and industrial aspects of the subject, the problems of chronic and convalescent care and other community resources — medical, philanthropic and educational — for patients with heart disease. This study has formed an important contribution to the newly organized Boston Association for the Prevention and Relief of Heart Disease.

We have to announce that the same anonymous donor has generously given another grant of $1,000.

For several years the Social Service Department has been interested in the growth of clinic secretarial service as differentiated from social service. Early in the year an urgent request was made by the Department to the General Executive Committee for the creation of the position of Head Clinic Secretary. In February, Miss Helen Fernald was appointed. Our responsibilities both for paid and for volunteer clinic secretaries were passed over to her, and with her intelligent and generous co-operation many of our problems of interrelationship with this service were worked out.

Mrs. Charles E. Mason has resigned from the Advisory Committee, much to our regret. Mrs. Fritz B. Talbot and Dr. Paul D. White have been added to the Committee.

Miss Edith Baker resigned in February as Head Worker in the Out-Patient Social Service to become Director of the St. Louis Hospital Social Service Association. During the absence of the Chief of Social Service for three months Miss O. M. Lewis was in charge, and on October 1st she was appointed Supervisor of Social Service in the Out-Patient Department. Miss Theodate Soule resigned from the Children's Clinic in May to become Head Social Worker at the Hartford City Hospital. Miss Charline Buck of the Nerve Clinic left in July to join the Social Service Department of the Mayo Clinic.

Our statistical report of patients is a report of the number of records made rather than patients served. There were, during the year, 2,850 records, 598 in the Wards and 2,252 in the Out-Patient Department. The margin between patients referred, to whom some kind of service was given, and the number of records is indicated by the report of the House Social Service of 598 records on 1,041 patients.

Respectfully submitted,

IDA M. CANNON,
Chief of Social Service.

GENERAL HOSPITAL NO. 6

THE organization of General Hospital No. 6, Organized Reserves of the United States Army, has been continued during the past year. Although all the places shown on the tables of organization have not been filled as yet, nevertheless, the more important ones have, and it can be said at least that the backbone of a strong organization has been provided. The following members of the staff and graduates of the Massachusetts General Hospital have now been commissioned in the Reserve Corps and officially assigned:

Commanding Officer . . . . . Lt. Col. JAMES H. MEANS
Chief of Surgical Service . . . . Lt. Col. W. JASON MIXTER

The following men have signified their desire to join the organization, and their appointments are in various stages of completion: Dr. George A. Leland, Jr., Mr. Ralph P. Heard, Rev. Donald B. Aldrich, Dr. J. Warren White and Dr. Edward D. Churchill. Dr. Leland, when appointed, will be made Assistant to the Chief of Surgical Service; Mr. Heard, Assistant to Quartermaster; Rev. Mr. Aldrich, Chaplain.

It is evident to the Commanding Officer that there is going to be no difficulty in filling the professional positions with desirable candidates. There is greater difficulty in getting men to fill the administrative positions, namely, the following: Quartermaster, Adjutant, Registrar, Assistant Quartermasters, Mess Officer.

JAMES H. MEANS, Lt. Col., M.C.,
Commanding Officer, General Hospital No. 6.

WARREN TRIENNIAL PRIZE

MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL HOSPITAL

THE Warren Triennial Prize was founded by the late Dr. J. Mason Warren in memory of his father, and his will provides that the accumulated interest of the fund shall be awarded every three years to the best dissertation, considered worthy of a premium, on some subject in Physiology, Surgery, or Pathological Anatomy, the arbitrators being the General Executive Committee of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Theses submitted for competition for the year 1925 shall be on some special subject in Physiology, Surgery, or Pathology.

Dissertations must be in either the English, French, or German language, and MUST BE TYPEWRITTEN AND SUITABLY BOUND, so as to be easily handled. Work that has been published previously will not be considered in competition. The name of the writer must be enclosed in a sealed envelope, on which must be written a motto corresponding with one on the accompanying dissertation. The names of collaborators should appear with that of the writer in the sealed envelope.

Any clew given by the paper, or any action on the part of the writer which reveals his name before the award of the prize, will disqualify him from receiving it.

The amount of the prize for the year 1925 will be $500.

In case no dissertation is considered sufficiently meritorious, no award will be made. Essays will be received until April 15, 1925.

A high value will be placed on original work.

FREDERIC A. WASHBURN, M.D.,
Director.

RULES FOR ADMISSION, ETC.

THE Massachusetts General Hospital is a private institution supported solely by voluntary contributions and the receipts from those patients who pay board.

Only those unable to pay doctors' fees will be admitted.

Emergencies and recent accidents admitted at all hours.

Applications for admission of patients should be made at the Moseley Memorial Building, Fruit Street, at North Grove Street, Boston, on week days between the hours of 9 A.M. and 3 P.M.

Always wait for a reply before sending the patient.

Arrangements can be made by telephone for emergency cases or recent accidents, but for these only.

Contagious cases are not admitted to the Hospital, and only such chronic cases as can be partially relieved by temporary treatment.

The regular rate of board to paying patients in all rooms is $40 per week. In the general wards the rate of board to paying patients is $21 per week. There is a surgical dressing fee of $10 to surgical paying patients, and a laboratory fee of $5 to medical paying patients. Payment should be made weekly in advance. The surgical dressing fee and the laboratory fee should be paid on admission. The lowest rate of board for patients living outside the Commonwealth of Massachusetts is $21 per week in the open wards.

Patients may be discharged between 9 A.M. and 4.30 P.M. on week days; on Sundays from 12 noon to 4 P.M.

The Out-Patient Department is for the poor only, and is open from 8.30 to 10 in the morning, Sundays and holidays excepted.

McLEAN HOSPITAL

THE ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTH REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF THE McLEAN HOSPITAL

To the Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital:

The following report of the McLean Hospital for the year 1923 is respectfully submitted:

One hundred and two patients were admitted, 100 patients were discharged, and 213 patients remained in the Hospital at the end of the calendar year. The total number under treatment was 313. The daily average was 209.4, a decrease of 2.5 from last year. The recoveries were 28.4 per cent of the admissions, and 29 per cent of the discharges.

Of the 102 admissions, 6 were primarily voluntary patients, and 2 others became so by signing applications to remain under treatment at the expiration of the legal period of temporary care. Of these 8 voluntary patients, 3 were committed because of a formal request for discharge which could not properly be granted. There remained on this basis at the end of the year 14 persons, 5 men and 9 women.

During the year 35 patients were admitted for temporary care (Section 79, Chapter 123, General Laws), 25 more than last year. Of these, 2 made voluntary applications to remain at the Hospital, 3 were discharged at the end of the ten days as not insane, 1 was discharged as not improved, and 29 were formally committed.

Of the 102 patients admitted, 15 came from other Hospitals in Massachusetts, and 3 from Hospitals in other states. The statistical tables appearing later in this report are for the year ending September 30th, and are in the form suggested by the American Psychiatric Association and adopted by the Massachusetts Department of Mental Diseases. Forms 1 and 2 are not required of private hospitals and are therefore omitted.

From the above figures it will be noted that the percentage of voluntary patients remaining in the Hospital at the end of the year was only 6.57 per cent as compared with 34.1 per cent at the end of the year 1922. The average has been from 30 to 40 per cent for some years.

This change, which I believe to be unfortunate, was brought about by a ruling of one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts during a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus.

The patient had been admitted to the Hospital on a voluntary basis, desiring to be so admitted and fully understanding the nature of her act when signing the voluntary application for admission, and at the time of the habeas corpus proceedings the patient's mental condition was such that she said she understood her status at the Hospital to be that of a voluntary patient and that she wished to remain in the Hospital until she was better. (Application for the writ of habeas corpus was made at the instigation of a relative who was not in sympathy with the patient's guardian.) She was nevertheless obviously insane, as was testified to during the court proceedings by the Hospital Superintendent and by outside Alienists. At the close of the hearing the Judge found the patient insane and a proper case for hospital care, but ruled that as she was insane she should be committed as insane and that he could not consider her "mentally competent" and so able to remain at the Hospital voluntarily. His ruling amounted to saying that an insane person could not be "mentally competent" to apply for voluntary treatment, as insanity was inconsistent with the mental competence required by the voluntary admission law.

The law under which voluntary patients had been admitted for many years and up to January, 1921, read: " . . . who is desirous of submitting himself to treatment and who makes written application therefor and whose mental condition is such as to render him competent to make the application . . . " Whereas the law as it is at present and has been since January, 1921, reads: " . . . who is desirous of submitting himself to treatment and who being mentally competent makes written application therefor . . . "

I know of no reason to believe that the change in the wording of the law was made with any intention of changing the meaning of the law. It seems probable that this change was made only to condense and shorten the section. Nevertheless, the interpretation by the court of "mentally competent" as meaning mentally competent in its general sense, rather than mentally competent to make the application, virtually declared that no patient could be admitted as a voluntary patient to a hospital for mental diseases in Massachusetts who could be committed as insane, and the State Department of Mental Diseases in its "Regulations Relating to Voluntary Patients," adopted February 5, 1923, practically so interpreted the court's decision.

An act making possible the voluntary admission to mental hospitals of certain persons mentally ill was first adopted by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in 1881. It was distinctly a forward movement and its increased use in this State and its adoption by many other states indicate its need and usefulness. By reason of it many patients have sought treatment in mental hospitals early in the course of their mental illness, when favorable response to treatment is most likely to result, patients who otherwise would have postponed the desirable treatment had they been obliged to accept a formal commitment as insane by a judge in order to make such treatment available.

There are many patients who could be pronounced insane who nevertheless realize clearly their condition and who desire hospital treatment and who should be allowed the privilege of such treatment without having put upon them the stigma, as it is considered by many, of being adjudged insane. The law as it read previous to January, 1921, allowed such patients this privilege, and many who took advantage of it and were restored to health and usefulness again in the world were appreciative of the opportunity to have had their mental illnesses dealt with on much the same ground as are those of a physical nature.

The sooner the public can be educated to an attitude toward mental diseases similar to its attitude toward physical diseases the sooner will the deserved confidence in mental hospitals be established. Such confidence must be developed in order that those mentally ill may seek early in the course of their illness the treatment needed at a time when results are most favorable. The free and easy admission of voluntary patients has done much to educate patients and their friends regarding mental illnesses and to abolish from the public mind the idea that there is a stigma connected with mental diseases.

It is extremely desirable that the wording of the law regarding the admission of voluntary patients, as it now stands, should be altered so as to make possible an interpretation of it as liberal as it was previous to January 1, 1921, or more so. The public welfare demands this.

Dr. Hoch's three months' leave of absence, granted because of illness, expired in January, but as he still was unable to take up his work it was extended for another two months. Dr. E. Stanley Abbot therefore continued as Acting First Assistant Physician until Dr. Hoch's return on March 28th. In September Dr. Hoch was again incapacitated and for nearly three months Dr. Kenneth J. Tillotson, Assistant Physician, assumed the duties of the First Assistant Physician.

Dr. Helge Lundholm, Assistant in Pathological Psychology, was asked by the Swedish government to organize in the Government School of Technology a Department of Psychological Technique in its Relation to Industry. As the request came from his home government and carried with it considerable honorary distinction he felt obliged to accept the invitation, and for the purpose of carrying on this work he was granted a six months' leave of absence. He left on August 20th.

Owing to a vacancy in the position of Clinical Assistant and Pathologist the work has been carried on by Dr. Sidney M. Bunker, Assistant Physician.

The Student Assistants, Mr. Lewis C. Foster and Mr. Chris H. Newswanger, resigned respectively on June 8th and June 14th, and they were succeeded on July 1st by Mr. William W. Woodruff and Mr. Luney V. Ragsdale, fourth-year students in the Harvard Medical School, who have given full-time service during the vacations and part-time service during the school year.

During July and August Dr. John D. McCarthy served the Hospital in the capacity of Junior Assistant Physician for the purpose of gaining some first-hand knowledge of mental diseases.

On August 3d, Miss Effie M. Inch assumed her duties as Assistant Superintendent of Nurses, replacing Miss Ida M. Reade, who resigned July 21st. The Hospital was very fortunate in securing her services. She is a graduate of our own training school, and since graduation has done excellent work in various places. She came directly from the Augusta Maine State Hospital, where she held the position of Superintendent of Nurses.

Miss S. May Taylor, who had been Instructor in Physical Training in the women's department of the Hospital for twenty-five years, was suddenly incapacitated for work last August. Her place has been filled by Mrs. Anna Brooke.

In addition to the medical work directly connected with the care of the patients and the routine laboratory work there has been done in the laboratories a considerable amount of research work on special problems.

The work in the Psychological laboratory was necessarily curtailed during the latter part of the year on account of Dr. Lundholm's absence. Through some of the work done before he left light has been thrown on the phenomenon usually designated as "flight of ideas," which is so frequently seen in manic patients. It has been possible to demonstrate by the ingenuous use of meaningless pictures that such patients have a greater tendency to "create images" than do normal subjects. Some experimental work done with patients relative to the individual's emotional reactions to different words suggested rather strongly that experiments along this line might not only reveal complexes but also throw light upon the personality traits which favor their development if a norm were established. Accordingly it was decided to make the test on approximately two thousand normal individuals. College students were selected for this purpose, and already some six hundred students have taken the test. In Dr. Lundholm's absence Mr. David Chakoff, a student in the Psychological Department at Harvard, who has been doing special work in the Hospital Psychological Laboratory, has been working on the statistical analysis of the data already at hand.

In the Physiological laboratory the rôle of the cerebral cortex in habit formation has been the subject of some experimental studies, but technical difficulties have thus far prevented any certain conclusions from this work. Dr. Campbell has also been doing work in collaboration with Dr. Alexander Forbes of the Harvard Medical School in a study of proprioceptive nerve impulses.

In the Chemical laboratory much ground work has been done on the technique for the study of amines, including adrenalin. It is hoped that analyses of blood by the technique so developed may help in solving the question of the toxic origin of some abnormal mental conditions, although it should be said that thus far the results of the experimental work done on patients have been more puzzling than illuminating. An opportunity for the Chemical laboratory to collaborate with the Department of Experimental Surgery at the Harvard Medical School in a study of the antitoxic functions of the adrenal cortex has been very welcome, because of the close chemical relationship between the brain and the adrenal gland. The chemical studies of patients by methods already available have not been neglected. The "basal metabolic rate" as deducted from the rate of oxygen consumption has been found low in all the Dementia Præcox cases examined. Blood analyses in a short series of badly demented patients have uncovered a marked abnormality in their lipoid metabolism which is being further investigated in the hope that it may throw light on the chemical processes underlying this condition and perhaps give a lead for rational preventive measures.

Papers were presented during the year as follows:

A Comparative Study of "Creative Imagination" in Normal People and in Mentally Diseased — Dr. Lundholm. (Read at the meeting of the American Psychiatric Association at Detroit, June 21, 1923. To be published.)

Publications for the year include the following:

Aporrhegma Reactions in Psychoses — Dr. Whitehorn. (American Journal of Psychiatry, January, 1923.)

"Permutit" as a Reagent for Amines — Dr. Whitehorn. (The Journal of Biological Chemistry, July, 1923.)

Further Report on Nurses' Conduct Scheme — Dr. Plant. (American Journal of Psychiatry, April, 1923.)

The occupational and recreational activities have been carried on with the usual interest and success. They are among the most useful therapeutic measures we have in the treatment of mental illness. During the year ninety-six women patients and fifty-four men patients made use of the occupational departments with such success as is indicated by the following list of articles made and work done: 347 woven articles, 193 knitted articles, 182 pieces of needlework, 170 cards painted, 60 baskets, 110 pieces of pottery, 499 books rebound, 81,839 sheets of printed matter, 12 pictures framed, 1 table, 1 bookcase, 2 flower stands, and 10 shuttles for looms; 116 chairs caned and repaired, 4 tables, 4 carpet sweepers, 1 sled, 25 golf clubs and 4 tennis rackets repaired; 158 cue tips applied; 9 stands, for sand boxes and water, made for the golf course; 1 football score board for displaying the progress of football games received by radio.

In addition to the above occupations billiards, pool, bowling, parlor games, dancing, gymnastics and basket ball furnished indoor diversions while golf, tennis, croquet, baseball and gardening together with walks and automobile rides provided out-of-door exercise and recreation. In addition to these, dances and moving-picture exhibitions were given on alternate weeks throughout the year except during the summer months.

The library, as usual, has furnished diversion and pleasure to a large number of patients, the circulation being 9,006 volumes, besides the circulation of a large number of magazines and papers. During the year there were 164 volumes added to the library, making a total of 9,875 volumes now in the general library, and also 45 periodicals and magazines were subscribed for.

The medical library now contains 6,396 volumes, 25 having been added during the year, and 60 current medical periodicals were subscribed for.

The holidays were observed with appropriate exercises and festivities.

The Sunday services, conducted by the chaplain, Rev. George J. Prescott, were held as usual.

The income from the Sarah C. M. Lovering Fund, donated to the Hospital for the purpose of "promoting the comfort and happiness of the patients," made it possible to extend the above activities far beyond what the financial resources of the Hospital otherwise would have warranted.

The long desired and much needed home for women nurses is at last nearing completion. Plans drawn by Bigelow and Wadsworth, Boston architects, providing accommodations for one hundred nurses, were accepted early in the year and ground was broken on March 17th. It was hoped that the building would be finished and ready for occupancy before the end of the year, but owing to unavoidable delays this has not been accomplished. It now is expected that the home will be ready for occupancy by March 1, 1924.

The building is somewhat U shaped, 163 feet long; the depth of the main building is 44 feet and the wings, 41½ feet wide, extend 25 feet farther forward. It is constructed of brick; is three stories high with a basement well out of ground about the wings. On the first floor is the entrance hall with an office on one side and a reception room on the other; back of this is a large living room, 25 feet wide and 50 feet long, well lighted by five long French windows, with a large fireplace at one end. On the first floor there are also 25 single rooms, one suite with private bath and two bathroom and toilet sections, one in the west end and one in the east end of the building. On the second floor are a sitting room, 39 single rooms, one suite with private bathroom and two bathroom and toilet sections as on the lower floor. The third floor is similar to the second floor, except that in the east wing there is a sick bay, consisting of two large rooms, toilet and bathroom and a kitchenette. In the east wing of the basement is a large dining room and serving room. In the west wing are three classrooms, one a large lecture room, one a demonstration room and one a reference library. The basement also contains a dietetic laboratory, a chemical and bacteriological laboratory, a recreation room with kitchenette adjoining, and a laundry with three tubs, three ironing boards and a drying room. In addition there is a large storage room for trunks.

The home will provide very comfortable and attractive quarters for the women nurses. The large living room will be rendered particularly attractive by reason of its furnishings, selected by Mrs. George T. Tuttle and made possible through the munificent gift of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Gannett.

The total cost of the building, exclusive of furnishings for the living room, will be approximately $268,000.00. Of this amount $205,211.58 is available and a balance of about $63,000.00 offers an opportunity for those who are interested in the Hospital and its work, and especially in the welfare of the Training School and the nurses, to aid in meeting this debt.

The situation regarding the general nursing problems at the Hospital and the Training School for Nurses has improved very much during the year. The appended report of the Superintendent of Nurses deals with the subject more in detail.

The charitable work done by the Hospital during the year has been large. It includes the care of a daily average of 38 free patients and a daily average of 40 patients at less than cost, making an average of over 37 per cent of the patients recipients of charity. As is generally understood the per capita cost is figured on the running expenses only and interest on the invested capital is not considered.

In addition to the usual minor repairs and painting incidental to the general upkeep of the Hospital, some more extensive work involving larger expenditure of money has been done. The roof of Hope Cottage was slated at a cost of $1,342.00. Repairs to the roof of the Superintendent's house cost $190.00. Repairs to the roofs and the rebuilding and pointing of chimneys of the Upham House, Proctor House, Codman House and Appleton House, together with the partial rebuilding and pointing of the Women's Belknap House porch, extensive repairs to the Codman House garden wall and repairs to many of the subway tops, cost $2,700.00. A new washer for the laundry and a considerable amount of unusual repair work there cost $1,250.00. New conduits and electric wiring through the subways on the women's side cost $860.00. In the power house unusual repairs to some of the engines were necessary, which involved an expenditure of $1,161.00. The third floors of the Proctor House and the East House were repainted throughout at a cost of $1,997.00.

During the coming year it will be necessary to rebuild the coal trestle or make extensive repairs on it. As it is at present constructed of wood the timbers, buried in the coal for a large part of the year, tend to rot out in a short time and necessitate constant repair work. It would seem advisable that in rebuilding it concrete piers be used. An estimate of the cost of such piers obtained a few months ago was $6,500.00. It is probable that the superstructure if rebuilt of wood would cost approximately the same amount.

The installation of a new boiler in the power house has been made more necessary than ever by reason of the addition of a Nurses' Home. The present outfit of three boilers is sufficient to furnish heat for the entire institution but leaves no reserve. If one boiler should be thrown out of commission during a very cold period the two remaining boilers are not of sufficient capacity to furnish the necessary heat. An emergency boiler should be available. The estimated cost of installing a new boiler is about $10,000.00.

A new electric cable from the power house to the Upham House must be laid at a cost of $1,300.00. New electric wires and conduit on the men's side should be put in, which will cost $1,000.00.

The subway top from the Women's Belknap House to the Appleton House needs to be rebuilt and the estimated cost is about $2,000.00.

The opening of the Nurses' Home will release ten rooms suitable for patients, but before they can be used alterations in the building should be made; the large sun parlor should be built in to make a living room; another bathroom should be added and the serving room completed. The estimated cost of these changes and additions together with furnishings is $9,280.00.

Some of the antiquated laundry machinery should be replaced by modern machinery which will make it possible to do more and better work with fewer employees. The estimated cost of this is $4,600.00.

Both labor and weather conditions conspired during the last year to reduce the farm profits. Nevertheless the farm furnished the Hospital with commodities, the market values of which were: milk, $18,172.07; beef and pork products, $9,474.61; vegetables, $2,938.85; fruit, $1,316.50. For these and for a considerable amount of general work credited to it in the way of hauling coal, road building, etc., it has a credit balance of $1,629.22, without taking into account the spring which furnishes the Hospital with water estimated to be worth about $7,000.00 annually. In order to give the farm due credit it should be mentioned that the expenses of the greenhouse which furnishes plants and flowers for the Hospital wards are charged to the farm account, and during the past year amounted to $2,109.63.

The changes in the Hospital Staff during the year were as follows:

Dr. E. Stanley Abbot, Acting First Assistant Physician, resigned March 31st.

Mr. Lewis C. Foster, Student Assistant, resigned June 8th.

Mr. Chris H. Newswanger, Student Assistant, resigned June 14th.

To the Medical Superintendent of the McLean Hospital:

The following report of the McLean Hospital Training School for Nurses is respectfully submitted:

The Training School for Nurses, with the completion of the forty-two years of its existence, has a roll of graduates including 970 names — 613 women and 357 men. In the following summary it is shown how many remain in the work of nursing and into what positions of life others have gone:

	Men	Women

It will be seen from this table that of the 554 women graduates of the School who are now living, 267 are still in the profession of nursing; and that of the 311 men graduates who are now alive, 123 are still nurses. Fifty-six of the men graduates have become physicians; of these, 2 are superintendents of hospitals, 51 are in private practice and 3 have died. Five women have become physicians; of these, 1 is married and has left the profession and 4 are in private practice.

The close of the year 1923 brings a realization of an increasing interest in psychiatric nursing. Probably nothing more obviously proves the awakening to the importance of this branch of nursing than the fact that at the 1923 conference of the National League of Nursing Education an entire session was devoted to psychiatric nursing. It was also encouraging to notice that this session was exceptionally well attended. This together with the report that most of the training schools in mental hospitals, and more especially our own school, are attracting more applicants than in previous years is reason for us to feel hopeful as to the future of psychiatric nursing.

During the past year some changes have occurred in the nursing department. The vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Ida M. Reade as Assistant Superintendent of Nurses led to the appointment of Miss Effie Mott Inch. Miss Inch is a graduate of the McLean Hospital Training School for Nurses and of the Massachusetts General Hospital Training School for Nurses. For several years Miss Inch was Matron of the Convalescent Hospital of the Massachusetts General Hospital and later was Superintendent of Nurses at the Augusta State Hospital in Augusta, Maine.

Miss Maybelle E. Harris, who was formerly Assistant Supervisor of the Women's Department, succeeded as Supervisor of the Women's Department Miss Emma C. Dingman, who resigned on May 6th, and Miss Edith P. Hodgdon, a graduate of the class of 1922, was appointed Assistant Supervisor of the Women's Department.

Miss Goldie V. Cooper, Instructor of Nursing, resigned on June 30th, and Miss Edith P. Hodgdon, formerly Assistant Supervisor of the Women's Department, was appointed in her place. On the resignation of Miss Catherine Wheeler, November 30th, Miss Marion G. Parsons was appointed Instructor of Nursing to fill her place. Miss Parsons is a graduate of the Boston City Hospital Training School for Nurses and has filled important executive and teaching positions. During the war she was Matron of the Harvard Unit and later was Directress of the State School of Nursing in Prague, Czecho-Slovakia.

The position of Night Supervisor of the Women's Department, rendered vacant by the resignation of Miss Reta D. Keith, was filled by Miss Valborg J. Krossberg, a graduate of the class of 1915.

It was found that some of the men who had entered for the two years' course of training were anxious to have an additional year in a general hospital and arrangements were made for affiliating with the Bellevue Training School for Men Nurses, Bellevue Hospital, New York, for a twelve months' period of training for men students during the intermediate year. Until November, 1923, it has been optional for the men nurses to enter the School for a two or a three years' course, but beginning January 1, 1924, the two years' course for men will be replaced by the three years' course. The system of training for the men nurses will then be similar to that of the women nurses.

In addition to the affiliations with the Training Schools of the Massachusetts General Hospital and the New England Hospital for Women and Children the Training School is now affiliated with the Training Schools of the Worcester City Hospital and the Springfield Hospital.

The table given below indicates the number of graduate nurses, student nurses and attendants in the service of the Hospital:

Women graduates	36
Men graduates	18
Women student nurses	84
Men student nurses, 3 years	12
Men student nurses, 2 years	13
Women attendants	6
Men attendants	15

Of the eighty-four women student nurses mentioned nineteen are at present in the affiliating hospitals. Four of the twelve men student nurses, who are taking the three years' course, are now at the Bellevue Hospital.

During the year 1923 four students from the Massachusetts General Hospital Training School have taken advantage of the course in psychiatric nursing for affiliating students and two students from the Training School of the New England Hospital for Women and Children also have attended this course. Five students have taken the post-graduate course. The small number of students interested in this course does not look very encouraging for the special course and one is troubled to think of what might happen if the mentally ill were entirely dependent on the nursing care of students entering for special courses.

On June 28th a nurses' reunion was held at the Hospital. The graduates responded well to the invitation to return to their Alma Mater. Over three hundred nurses were present, many coming from a great distance. The weather was beautiful and the Hospital assumed a gala appearance for the occasion. The morning was spent in visiting the wards and at one o'clock a buffet luncheon was served in the library. At two-thirty a meeting was held in the Chapel for the purpose of organizing an Alumni Association. At the opening of the meeting greetings were extended to the Alumni by Mr. George Wigglesworth, Chairman of the Board of Trustees. Miss Jennie McIntosh was unanimously elected president. At seven o'clock there was a general meeting in the Chapel. In addition to the visiting nurses the nurses in the service of the Hospital and the student nurses crossed the grounds in procession from the Administration House to the Chapel to attend this meeting. Dr. Packard, as chairman, introduced Dr. George T. Tuttle and Dr. E. Stanley Abbot, the speakers of the evening. All present joined in singing the training-school hymn at the close of the meeting, and then adjourned to the amusement hall where the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing and social intercourse.

During the past year the class of 1925 organized with Miss Annie L. Wigglesworth as president.

An invitation was extended to the Middlesex County Nurses' Association to hold the November meeting at this Hospital. Although the meeting was to be devoted to subjects pertaining to Red Cross activities, through the courtesy of Miss Cook, the president of the Association, an opportunity was given to bring to the notice of the nurses present the affiliated and post-graduate courses conducted at this Hospital. The student nurses contributed to the musical part of the program. The meeting was well attended and the nurses expressed their appreciation of the hospitality extended.

The Red Cross Nurse Instructors of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter expressed a desire to learn something of the nursing at the McLean Hospital and arrangements were made for them to spend an afternoon visiting the wards. While tea was served by the Superintendent of Nurses in her apartment an opportunity was given for the discussion of psychiatric nursing.

The students of the senior class of the Somerville Hospital and the Quincy General Hospital, accompanied by their respective Superintendents, visited the Hospital. The purpose of their visits was to stimulate the interest of student nurses in the four months' course in psychiatric nursing. In November an opportunity was given to address the graduate nurses and the senior class of the Somerville Hospital on the subject of psychiatric nursing and the affiliated and post-graduate courses given at the McLean Hospital.

The members of the Trapelo Club entertained their friends to a musical evening. The performance proved that the nurses were not lacking in musical talent.

The Fourth of July brought the usual sports and the competition baseball game between the women graduate nurses and the women student nurses. The students still remain the victors.

The Halloween party, with its fun and frivolity, was much enjoyed by all.

During the past year the usual effort has been made to keep up the standards of nursing, to inspire the students with zeal for their work and especially to engender an interest in psychiatric nursing. Realizing that the best results can only be obtained by concerted action much has been done to encourage the graduate nurses to co-operate in the development of the student nurses. Every effort has been made to stimulate the graduate nurses' interest and to further a coöperative spirit by encouraging the nurses to take an active part in the graduate nurses' weekly conference.

Acknowledgment is made to Mrs. Jessie Brown Pollard for several volumes of the American Journal of Nursing donated to the Training School.

Thanks are due to the affiliating hospitals for their excellent care and kindly consideration bestowed on our students during illness.

HELEN C. SINCLAIR, R.N.,
Superintendent of Nurses.

McLEAN HOSPITAL TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES, WAVERLEY, MASS.

The Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital Corporation established a school for the instruction of nurses at the McLean Hospital in 1882. It was the first school established in this country for the training of nurses in mental nursing. Special training offered in a psychiatric hospital is becoming more and more insisted upon as a part of the equipment of every well-trained nurse.

The School gives to men and women a three years' course of training in general nursing, with special reference to the care of patients suffering from nervous and mental diseases. At the end of the junior year the women student nurses spend fourteen months of the three years' course in affiliating schools, where they receive practical experience in the nursing of obstetrical cases and of medical, surgical, orthopedic and children's diseases and further academic instruction in these subjects; while the men student nurses spend twelve months of the three years' course in affiliating schools, where they receive practical experience in the nursing of medical, surgical and genito-urinary diseases and further academic instruction in these subjects. On the successful completion of the course a diploma is granted.

The School is accredited by the Massachusetts Board of Registration of Nurses. Graduates from this School are eligible for registration in New York state, and are also eligible for service in the United States Army and Navy and with the Red Cross.

Nursing the mentally sick is of such a character that it requires the student nurse to have a good preliminary education. It also demands a high grade of self-discipline and devotion to service. No other field offers a broader scope for real nursing skill and accomplishment in the alleviation of human suffering, and none affords better opportunities for material success and advancement.

Applicants for admission to the School may be accepted between the ages of eighteen and thirty-five. They must be of good moral character and good health, and preferably shall have had four years of high-school education or the equivalent, but inasmuch as a nurse with one year of high-school education is eligible for State registration, applicants with a minimum of one year of high school may be accepted.

Student nurses, in addition to maintenance and laundry, are granted an allowance of $30.00 a month during the entire period of training and upon graduation a salary of $75.00 a month is paid to those who remain in the service. The allowance should be viewed as a scholarship, which makes it possible for the young man or woman of limited means to prepare for a nursing career, and should not be considered as compensation for service.

There is for student nurses a preliminary or probation period of three months, during which time they are not on full-time duty, but receive the regular money allowance. This period is included as a part of the three years' course of training. Upon the completion of the preliminary period, student nurses are placed on regular eight-hour ward duty, with half a day off each week, four hours off on Sundays and holidays, one whole day off each month, and two weeks' vacation each year. Students are on night duty from three to six months during training, but are retained on night duty not longer than three consecutive months.

Women student nurses, on arrival, must be prepared to purchase three "Dix Make" plain blue chambray dresses at a cost of $4.50 each. Aprons, collars, cuffs, etc., are provided by the Hospital at cost. At the completion of the probationary period the student is allowed to wear the student nurse's uniform, which is provided by the Hospital at cost. In addition to an adequate supply of the usual undergarments, which should be marked with the name in full, the student should come provided with the following: 2 pairs of black shoes with low rubber heels, 2 laundry bags, and napkin ring. These same requirements apply to the men students, except that they are not required to wear a special uniform, but are expected to wear a plain dark business suit. Students must also provide their own textbooks, which are furnished by the Hospital at cost.

Regular courses of instruction begin on September 15th and February 1st, but applications are considered at any time. It is a distinct advantage for students to be in the Hospital for some weeks before the formal opening of classes.

Application blanks for admission to the School are furnished upon request to the Superintendent of Nurses, McLean Hospital, Waverley, Massachusetts.

AFFILIATED COURSE

(For both men and women students)

The School offers a four months' course to third-year students of accredited Training Schools for Nurses. The special training offered in a neuro-psychiatric hospital is becoming more and more insisted upon as a part of the equipment of every nurse. Whether in private work, or in the industrial, public health, or administrative fields, the nurse may at any time have to meet situations calling for particular skill in the care of nervous and mental disturbances. The object of this course is to qualify the general hospital nurse to meet such requirements. Students are given ward experience in the management of a wide range of mental cases and courses of instruction leading to intelligent understanding of their care. The courses in mental and nervous diseases consist of lectures, demonstrations and practical work in the observation and measurement of mental functions. The chief problems and methods of mental hygiene are discussed. Anatomy, physiology and pathology of the nervous system are covered in lectures and demonstrations. Demonstrations and practice are given in the use of occupational therapy, hydrotherapy and massage.

Affiliated students must conform to the rules of the Training School and will wear the uniform of their own school.

At the end of the course a class record is furnished to the superintendent of the affiliating school. A certificate is granted upon the satisfactory completion of the four months' course.

Courses begin in October and February.

Superintendents of Training Schools desiring to arrange for their students to take this course should communicate with the Superintendent of Nurses, McLean Hospital, Waverley, Massachusetts.
